Influence Of Binaggio Is Denied By Governor

Tales of His Power Were 'Exaggerated,' Smith Tells Probe By Senate Group

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29 (AP).—Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri told the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that underworld leader Charles Binaggio had no influence in his office.

He appeared as a surprise witness before the committee, now holding open hearings on possible links between politics and the underworld.

As in previous testimony, the central figure in the questioning of the Missouri Governor was Binaggio, gambling operator and Kansas City political leader slain last spring.

Smith summed up Binaggio as a figure whose political strength and 30,000 votes were "exaggerated."

He said Binaggio never had approached him about making changes in the Kansas City Police Department, whose board is appointed by the governor.

He testified he knew nothing about purported attempts by Binaggio to have Roy McKittrick, former attorney general, withdraw from the 1948 Democratic primary race for governor.

He denied he ever had asked McKittrick to solicit the support of the late Clarence Owen, St. Louis race wire operator.

In earlier testimony two former Kansas City police commissioners had told of Binaggio's efforts to make changes in the department and to "open up the town."

Afraid of 'The Boys'

The governor's appearance followed a day in which witnesses had drawn a picture of Binaggio as a powerful influence in Missouri politics and a man who was afraid of "the boys."

R. Robert Cohn, police commissioner ousted by Governor Smith, related how Binaggio had attempted to bribe him by tossing a roll of bills in his lap.

"He told me we were behind schedule," Cohn related, "and that nothing had started to open up. He said he was on the spot and the boys were after him. . . . He looked like a man who was drowning.

"Finally he tossed a roll of bills in my lap. I tossed them right back."

He said Binaggio had been trying to "open up the town."

Governor Smith, in a blue suit with a pink rose in his lapel, said he never had "talked with Charles Binaggio more than an hour in my whole life." Binaggio, he said, never had mentioned State politics or State government to him.

At the end of the testimony, Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.), chairman of the committee, asked

Truman to Cruise On Williamsburg For Coming Week

President Truman will board the yacht Williamsburg this evening for a week's cruise in the waters of the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, in making the announcement yesterday, said that "things have eased up" for the Chief Executive since Congress took a recess and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces routed the enemy in Korea. He pointed out that Mr. Truman had been under a great deal of pressure.

Steelman (right), wife of the presidential assistant, at the White House yesterday. 336 N.Y. Police Ordered Back Into Uniform

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—New York City's new police commissioner drastically shook up his graft-torn department today, ordering all of the city's 336 plainclothes policemen back into uniform.

The sweeping shakeup by Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy meant the replacement of all police who had been assigned to gambling investigations. Some of those ousted were captains and lieutenants.

Murphy took his unprecedented action soon after he conferred with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

Dewey stepped personally into the inquiry by calling for the prosecution of all those responsible for "wholesale corruption" in the city, whether of high or low rank.

The police scandal exploded into the open last week when Brooklyn District Attorney Miles F. McDonald and a rackets-probing grand jury disclosed evidence that a vast bookmaking ring was paying policemen some one billion dollars a year for protection.

After today's conference, Dewey indicated the State also might take a hand in the inquiry.

Dewey, a rackets-buster himself as a Manhattan District Attorney in the 1930s, said he expected all those responsible for the city's gambling and police graft scandal would be brought to justice "however long it takes."

As a special prosecutor, Dewey said he had learned that where "organized crime and violence were the rule it became clear to me it could not exist without powerful outside sponsorship."

Murphy, in announcing his shakeup, said that it had been satisfactorily established that "some corruption" existed.

"How widespread this condition exists has not yet been determined," he declared. "No stone will be left unturned and no effort spared to make that determination."

Red Feather Drive Opened By Truman

President Truman appealed last night for generous support of the National Community Chest drive. His radio address, carried by networks at 10 p. m., helped launch the annual "Red Feather" drive in the United States and Canada.

In the National Capital area, a total of $4,260,000 is being asked. Hugh Duffield, general chairman of the Washington area drive, spoke during concluding minutes of the half-hour broadcast, heard locally over WMAL, WRC, WWDC, WINX, WEAM, WOL and WTOP.

The text of the President's speech follows:

"My fellow citizens:

"Tonight, we in the United States, and our friends in Canada, are starting the annual Community Chest campaigns.

"The Community Chest is an example of one of the oldest and best traditions in our country—the tradition of citizens voluntarily banding together to help their neighbors.

"The Community Chest gives each of us an opportunity to help his neighbors.

"By giving to the Community Chest, we help young people. The Chest provides funds for the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, funds for summer camps and neighborhood recreation houses, and for many other young peoples' organizations.

"By giving to the Community Chest we help people with physical or mental handicaps; we help young mothers who must work for a living; we help older people who need assistance.

"Our gifts to the Community Chest help all these people and many others—for the Chest includes most of the private organizations, in our towns and cities, that provide health and welfare services.

"By giving to the Community Chest we fulfill the Biblical injunction to help thy neighbor. But we do more than that. When

Office of Defense Manpower Set Up in Labor Dept. by Tobin

The national mobilization program moved forward another step yesterday with the establishment of an Office of Defense Manpower.

The new agency, set up within his department by Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, will develop plans, policies, and programs for meeting defense manpower requirements, and will coordinate defense manpower activities of the department's bureaus.

Tobin also created three groups to help advise him on manpower problems: An interdepartmental committee, a management-labor committee, and a women's committee.

The Labor Secretary said he would name a director for the Office of Defense Manpower, and members of the advisory groups, probably next week.

The Labor Department action is part of the Government's overall plan to prepare for, and prevent if possible, labor supply shortages from occurring during the current mobilization program.

The Department of Labor announcement came on the heels of a report from the Census Bureau that unemployment between August and September fell to the lowest point since December, 1948. The new low is 2,341,000 idle, around 159,000 fewer unemployed than the month before.

Employment also dropped during the month, from August's record high, by some 1,141,000, to a level of 61,226,000 in September. At that though, the number of people at work in September was a record for the month, two million above September, 1949, and one million above the previous record level in September, 1948.

The Census Bureau said that the changes in both employment and unemployment were for the most part caused by large numbers of young men and women returning to classrooms.

Ching Likely To Head Wage Stabilization

NYHT News Service

President Truman may soon set in motion the Government's wage-control machinery by naming a nine member Wage Stabilization Board headed by Cyrus S. Ching, presently director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, informed sources said last night.

According to present plans, David L. Cole of Paterson, N. J., veteran mediator and chairman of the President's Fact-Finding Board in the last coal strike, would succeed Ching at the mediation service.

It was not clear last night whether the 74-year-old Ching had accepted the wage board position.

According to informed sources, the President is considering naming Ching both chairman and a public member of the board. There would be two other public members, plus three from industry and three from labor.

Among those said to be under consideration for the jobs of labor members are Harry Bates, president of the AFL bricklayers union; Emil Rieve, president of the CIO textile workers, and either Thomas Kennedy, vice president of the United Mine Workers, or Elmer Walker, vice president of the International Association of Machinists. Both the IAM and UAW are independent unions.

The Wage Stabilization Board was provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950, which the President signed into law September 8.

Gen. Hershey Urges Draft Of Veterans

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, yesterday urged that 25-year-old veterans be drafted and that the term of military service be increased from 21 to 30 months.

Hershey also revealed that he had set next October 16 for registration of doctors but his order was not yet approved by the executive department.

If changes he recommended in the draft law were carried out, Hershey told the House Armed Services Committee, he believed a three-million-man military establishment could be maintained without raising the draft age limits. His recommendations were:

1. That veterans should be made eligible for service within the present 19-through-25-age limits. Hershey said he thought veterans of 25 could not have had much war service.

2. Men should be drafted for the duration of the existing emergency or not less than 30 months. The present time limit is 21 months.

3. Tighten up deferment regulations so otherwise eligible men no longer could be deferred for "collateral" dependents. These were defined as in-laws, aunts, uncles, cousins and the like.

4. Physical and mental requirements of the services should be relaxed to save some of the 49 percent of registrants now being rejected for those reasons. Hershey was particularly acidulous in his references to the services' mental tests, which he said were all right where men were competing for a job but all wrong where they offered an opportunity to escape compulsion.

3-Million-Man Force Possible

"I don't mean these fellows who fail are lying down," he said. "They just don't get up."

If the changes he suggested, some requiring legislation and others subject to administrative action, were made, Hershey said, he believed the three-million man force projected by President Truman could be maintained from the constant pool of 1½ million men eligible for the draft. These 1½ million, he explained, were among 8,100,000 men between the legal draft ages who were not automatically deferred by law.

Should the term of service be extended to 30 months, Hershey said, young men should be inducted at 18½ years for six months of basic training followed by 24 months of service. The same induction and training program should be followed if universal military training is adopted, he added, which would provide a constant force of three million with an adequate, trained and growing reserve.

"This service," he declared, "should be regarded as a tax every man owes for the privilege of living in the greatest country on earth."

Hershey and Maj. Gen. Clovis E. Byers, deputy chief of the Army's personnel section, agreed that all men for all services, whether volunteers or draftees, should be inducted through a single central agency. This, Byers explained, would equalize the physical and mental character of the services by preventing those with greater appeal and less need from skimming the "cream" from the available manpower.

Asks Unified Nation

8-Nation Plan on Korea Implies Right to Cross 38th Parallel

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The United Nations General Assembly begins charting the future of Korea Saturday, but without trying to clear up the worst of the uncertainties involved.

An eight-nation resolution will come up for debate in the 60-nation Political Committee in a text that is riddled with loopholes, and deliberately so.

As published by the British delegation, which drafted it, the resolution makes no mention of surrender terms; these are assumed to be up to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the U. N. commander.

The resolution does not say clearly that MacArthur's troops have the right to move north across the thirty-eighth parallel. But it implies such a right, for it makes plain that the U. N. will set up a unified Korea in which the dividing line will have no meaning.

Finally, the resolution does not say whether the present South Korean Government has jurisdiction over the north, as President Syngman Rhee contends it has, nor does it say whether the new elections shall be held only in the north or in the nation as a whole.

The coming debate may solve some of these riddles and may produce amendments that will make the British resolution more precise. If not, the sponsors of the resolution believe all unanswered questions of this kind should be settled by the new U. N. commission that is to go to Korea.

The eight who have agreed to sponsor the resolution are Britain, the Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, the Philippines, Australia, Brazil and Cuba. The United States, which approves the resolution in general, is staying on the sidelines, in view of the dominant part it has played in the fighting.

India, the leading non-Communist power in Asia, still is undecided; its delegation here is

Dean Reported in North

87 Americans Saved as Reds Truss Them for Execution

CHINJU FRONT, Korea, Sept. 29 (AP).—Eighty-seven American prisoners, freed as Communist guards were binding their hands to execute them, said tonight a North Korean doctor told them two days ago that Maj. Gen. William F. Dean was alive and in charge of a prison camp in North Korea.

The sick and hungry Americans were liberated late yesterday by United States Twenty-fifth Division forces at Namwon. They reached a forward clearing station tonight with remarkable stories of unwitting fatal attacks by American planes and many close brushes with death.

S/Sergt. Elmer McGrady of Livermore, Mont., said tonight the North Korean doctor in their prison told them he had treated and talked with Dean and that Dean was the prisoner-commander of a camp in Red North Korea.

Almost all of the group had bleeding feet from long nights of marching barefoot or in Korean slippers.

Most of them were captured by the Reds at Hadong July 27 when the Third Battalion of the Twenty-ninth Regiment, Twenty-fourth Division, was cut to pieces. Some were from the Second Infantry Division, taken when its lines were broken temporarily by the Red offensive September 1.

They said most South Koreans who were captured were shot down immediately.

One prisoner, Second Lieut. Kenneth R. Reid of Clover Hill Garden, Mount Holly, N. J., had been wounded in the leg and lagged behind on the many long marches the Reds forced the prisoners to make.

"Once, three South Korean farmers saved my life by volunteering to carry me five miles when I could walk no farther," he said.

The liberated men declared one of their buddies was shot by the North Koreans two days ago, after his fellow-prisoners had carried him for 28 days because he had a crippling gangrene infection of the leg.

"Yesterday the guards started tying the arms of all men who were not wounded," said Master Sergt. Telesphor C. Tremblay of Clyde, Kans.

"They had tied the first 10 men when a plane came over. The Reds ran for cover. Our tanks came along a few minutes later before the guards could come back

9 Die, 10 Hurt As Destroyer Strikes Mine

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The American destroyer Brush has been badly damaged by an illegal floating mine off the Korean coast and nine of her crew were killed, the Navy disclosed yesterday.

Five other enlisted men are missing and 10 injured in the first major damage of the war to a United States warship. While a large underwater hole was blown in the 2200-ton destroyer Wednesday in the Sea of Japan, she managed to reach the Japanese port of Sasebo yesterday.

Naval officials said the North Koreans for some time have been sowing floating mines, which are barred by the Hague Convention as violating the rules of civilized warfare. They expressed the opinion that the Brush was hit by such a mine.

Number 8 of The Hague conventions of 1907 outlaws floating mines which do not have a device making them harmless after an The reason is that floating mines drift out of the war zone and may hit neutral vessels thousands of miles away and remain a menace to vessels years after the war ceases.

Most of the modern mines used by the major powers are no longer anchored but sink to the bottom of the channel or other shallow, narrow waters through which enemy ships must pass in combat zones and are activated by sound, pressure, magnetic means or all three.

Naval officials said the North Koreans have been floating their outlawed mines out of rivers on the tide. The one which hit the Brush was off the northeast coast.

D.C. Held Entirely Unprepared To Handle Atom Casualties

Medically and psychologically, Washington is "entirely unprepared" to handle the large number of casualties that would result if an atomic bomb hit the District, doctor experts charged here yesterday.

A conference on "Medical Education for Atomic Defense" produced these two opinions:

1. Washington would need a minimum of 50,000 pints of blood plasma if an A-bomb struck. It now has none for civilian use. Furthermore, charged Dr. John B. Ross, there exists "a peculiar lethargy not to do anything about it," particularly on the part of the District and Federal Governments.

2. Comdr. Eugene P. Cronkite, one of the Nation's top authorities on the effects of radiation, said that in case of an attack we will be prepared to follow a course "distasteful to our Western civilization—limit what medical supplies are available to those who have a chance and not dissipate them on those who have no chance to live."

Speaking to the conference of doctors and nurses in the Interior Department auditorium, Dr. Ross attacked the "lethargy" encountered in the plasma problem.

"The stockpiling of plasma," he asserted, "is the most important single thing that can be done in advance. To get our estimated 50,000 pints of plasma will require 100,000 donations of blood—the quanity of blood ordinarily drawn in this area in 18 months. We must start soon.

"The lethargy that hangs over us is probably due to lack of money. Our recent history makes us feel that the Government must finance this program—and the Government is showing a singular unwillingness to do so."

Dr. Ross said later that the District Commissioners had rejected a request by the director of the Gallinger Hospital blood bank to appropriate money for a plasma processing unit. But the Commissioners are expected to reconsider the request, he added.

Declaring that Washington was far behind other cities in plasma backlogging, he cited that Miami, Fla., has a stockpile of 3500 units and New York has "several thousand."

Cronkite, who participated in the Bikini A-bomb test, asserted that one of the "backbones of good treatment" in case of an A-bomb attack was "establishment of priority" of who will get treatment.

"There is no question in my mind," declared the chief of hematology at the Naval Medical Research Institute at Bethesda, "that it is totally impossible and impractical to treat all individuals alike."

"Distasteful" as the idea is to the western mind, he said, we

Eviction Action Postponed For Family of Missing Soldier

Her soldier son has been reported missing in the crash of a Korea-bound plane from Tokyo.

She is destitute, supporting her husband and two small children only with contributions of food by friends.

And her husband is an invalid, totally blind in one eye, almost blind in the other, almost deaf, and an arthritic.

The Government yesterday decided not to press eviction proceedings against the Selbys, but will eventually be forced to evict if the rent is not paid.

Immediately, the family needs $57 to pay back rent. On Monday, October's rent of $28.50 will be due. Before she receives the allotment of another son, Corpl. Norman Selby, 19, who was recently called to active duty, the November rent will be due.

Norman Selby had been the sole support of his family, which includes a 14-year-old boy and an 8-year-old girl, since his father has been unable to work.

"I couldn't have gone down to that court yesterday if my life depended on it," Mrs. Selby said. "I just sat there all day and bawled my eyes out."

Wednesday night, a telegram from the Air Force announced that her son was missing in the crash of the transport plane which plunged into the sea with 51 persons aboard on Tuesday.

He is Corpl. Richard N. Selby, 21.

Still another son, Corpl. Leonard P. Selby, is stationed in the State of Washington. Only one son can allot money to his parents, Mrs. Selby said. "Anyway our other children don't all know of the troubles," she added.

Allies Reach Parallel, Plan Drive for Foe's Capital

U. S. Planes Bomb Enemy Forces Near Chorwon, 16 Miles Inside North Korea

TOKYO (Saturday), Sept. 30 (AP).—Spearheads of one South Korean division stood today at Korea's thirty-eighth parallel—waiting for four full divisions to mass their strength there against Communist North Korea.

The fugitive North Koreans, falling back behind the artificial boundary, were being shelled by South Korean artillery.

A South Korean army spokesman said the war would be carried into North Korea if the republic's high command gives the order.

When the republic's Third Division halted at the boundary a United States Eighth Army spokesman erroneously reported it acted on orders of the Eighth Army to halt and regroup.

But Lieut. Col. Robert Thompson, United States Eighth Army information officer, said South Korea's own army gave that order.

The South Korean Army already has operation plans prepared for a drive to the Reds' capital of Pyongyang, 70 miles north of the thirty-eighth.

Col. Lee Sun Keun, South Korean Army spokesman, said he did not know whether the republic's chief of staff would await orders from the United Nations command or from the republic's government.

Elements of one republic division were at the border. Elements of a second division were less than 10 miles away. Spearheads of two more divisions were a day or so from the thirty-eighth. All four were operating up the eastern side of Korea.

On the west side of Korea above liberated Seoul, United States forces moved within 24 miles of the boundary. The United States 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team advanced north on Kumpo Peninsula. It lies between the Han River and the sea northwest of Seoul.

Today American light bombers attacked Red troops and troop trains near Chorwon, 16 miles north of the thirty-eighth parallel. The Reds, defeated and disorganized in South Korea, were re-

Canada Suspends Foreign-Exchange Transactions

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (AP).—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott of Canada tonight announced that instructions have been issued for a halt in foreign-exchange dealings.

The announcement was made amid rumors the Canadian dollar would be brought back to par with the United States dollar in the next 48 hours. The Canadian dollar now is at a discount of 9.1 percent.

Abbott said the Cabinet will meet Saturday to consider action with respect to exchange rates. The matter also is being discussed with the International Monetary Fund in Washington.

The announcement added:

"The Minister said it would be inadvisable for members of the public to form conclusions as to what action would be taken until an official announcement is made."

Yankees Clinch Pennant as Tribe Routs Tigers, 12-2

The idle New York Yankees clinched the American League pennant yesterday as the Cleveland Indians walloped the second-place Detroit Tigers, 12 to 2, while in the National League the amazing Brooklyn Dodgers kept their slim hopes alive by twice coming from behind to win a doubleheader from the Boston Braves, 7 to 5 and 7 to 6.

At Ebbets Field, the Dodgers overcame a 2 to 5 deficit in the first game and a 3 to 6 disadvantage in the nightcap to pull both games out of the fire. The Dodgers now can gain a tie for first place and force the second playoff in National League history by beating the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies in single games at Brooklyn today and Sunday.

U. N. Council Votes To Invite China Reds

Korea Action

MacArthur Felicitated By Truman

President Truman and the Joint Chiefs of Staff congratulated Gen. Douglas MacArthur yesterday for a brilliant victory in Korea.

Mr. Truman saluted the United Nations commander on behalf of all the American people, telling him that "few operations in American history" matched the manner in which he built up his forces while trading space for time.

The Joint Chiefs praised MacArthur for his brilliant and audacious leadership and told him "we are proud of the great successes you have achieved."

Text of Mr. Truman's message:

"I know that I speak for the entire American people when I send you my warmest congratulations on the victory which has been achieved under your leadership in Korea. Few operations in military history can match either the delaying action where you traded space for time in which to build up your forces, or the brilliant maneuver which has now resulted in the liberation of Seoul. I am particularly impressed by the splendid cooperation of our Army, Navy and Air Force, and I wish you would extend my thanks and congratulations to the commanders of those services—Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Vice Adm. Charles T. Joy and Lieut. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer.

"The unification of our arms established by you and by them has set a shining example. My thanks and the thanks of the people of all the free nations go out to your gallant forces—soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen—from the United States and the other countries fighting for freedom under the United Nations banner. I salute you all, and say to all of you from all or us at home, "Well and nobly done."

The joint chiefs told MacArthur they are "proud of the great successes you have achieved."

"We realize that they would have been impossible without brilliant and audacious leadership, and without the full cooperation and the fighting spirit of all forces and all arms," they said.

"From the sudden initiation of hostilities you have exploited to the utmost all capabilities and opportunities. Your transition from defensive to offensive operations was magnificently planned, timed and executed.

"You have given new insperation to the freedom-loving peoples of the world. We remain completely confident that the great task entrusted to you by the United Nations will be carried to a successful conclusion.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council today invited Red China to present its complaints of American aggression in person after November 15. It overrode a Nationalist Chinese attempt to veto the invitation.

The Council's action resulted in two significant "firsts":

1. The Chinese government at Peiping broke through a wall of opposition led by the United States and won her fight to be present when her charges of United States aggression against Formosa are discussed. This does not mean the Reds will take over the Chinese Nationalist seat in the U. N.

2. The Council succeeded in finding a way to break the deadlock which has hamstrung it in the past when faced with the so-called "double veto."

This last achievement was hailed even by delegations opposed to the invitation to Red China.

Ecuador Resubmits Plan

United States Delegate Ernest A. Gross told newsmen the Council's action set a precedent which would make it extremely difficult for the Soviet Union, which "invented" the double veto, to abuse it in the future.

The struggle began in an atmosphere supercharged with emotion.

Ecuador resubmitted a proposal, defeated yesterday when Yugoslavia mistakenly abstained from voting. The proposal invited the Chinese Reds to the U. N. If discussion of the Formosa issue were postponed until after November 15.

The vote was 7 in favor, 3 against with one abstention. The United States, China and Cuba voted "no." Egypt abstained.

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang immediately insisted his negative vote constituted a veto. The Big Five—the United States, Russia, China, Britain and France—have the right to veto any proposal in the Council except those dealing with procedural issues.

The United States had announced previously it considered the question of an invitation, which it opposed, merely procedural and not subject to the veto.

The opposing views set off a long, bitter debate which culminated, after a break for lunch, with the Council voting 9-1, with 1 abstention, that the matter was procedural and the veto did not apply.

Gross immediately stated the United States position that although "the action taken by the Council in inviting the Chinese Communists is undesirable . . . my delegation is acting in accordance . . . with the policy of the United States to restrict the use of the double veto by influence, example and precedent."

Jebb hailed Gross' speech in the warmest terms. He called the action of the United States "against what it considers its own immediate interests, heartening and inspiring." He went so far as to say it might be "the prophecy of a better age."

Tsiang Ruled Out of Order

Tsiang asked the Council to submit the question to the International Court of Justice in The Hague for an opinion:

"You who believe you are right," he said, his face calm, but with his usually quiet tones raised almost to a shout, "should have the courage to submit your views to the court. Any other attitude is unworthy of this great institution of ours."

Jebb said this proposal was out of order. Tsiang denounced the ruling as "arbitrary and the decision arrived at illegal and invalid."

Tsiang recalled that the Soviet Union had used the double veto in 1946 to prevent the question of Spain being put on the agenda, in 1947 to prevent discussion of Greece's charges against her Balkan neighbors and in 1948 to prevent an investigation of the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik retorted that these vetoes—which were "double" in the sense that they vetoed, note the question itself, but a ruling it could not be vetoed—dealt directly with the substantive issues.

Fletcher Heads County GOP Unit

John R. Fletcher, Republican candidate for State Senator from Prince Georges County, has been elected to his second term as chairman of the county party's State Central Committee.

Other officers named at a meeting Thursday night at GOP Headquarters in Hyattsville were W. Everett Marton, secretary, and Thomas E. Latimer, treasurer. Both are candidates for county commissioner.

Enlisted Reservists Leave for Fort Campbell

27 Reservists From Area Off for Camp

"You might as well have a good time tonight, boys—it'll probably be the last one you'll have in some time!"

Twenty-seven Washington area Army enlisted reservists received that bit of advice last evening as their train pulled out of Union Station.

They were the first group of local Army reservists called up on an individual basis to leave the city. They will get refresher training at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

On the giving end of the advice was Sergt. W. Selden Washington, jr., of Strathblane, Alexandria, who was chosen leader of the group for the trip down.

Washington, whose father is an Alexandria real estate man, happens to be a collateral descendant of George Washington.

The group leader, who is 25, served in the Army for 30 months, seeing combat duty in Italy, beginning at the Anzio beachhead, a landing with the Seventh Division in Southern France, and fighting through France into Germany and Austria. He received the bronze star and a French Croix de Guerre.

A native of Alexandria, he attended local schools, Episcopal High School in Alexandria and Washington and Lee University before the war. After his discharge, he attended Principia College in Elsah, Ill., and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts School. He has been employed by his father for the last two years.

Similar groups of reservists will be leaving Washington daily for 10 days.

Local recruiting stations yesterday enlisted 3 men for the Navy, 16 for the Army and 4 for the Air Force.

Former Stepson Of MacArthur Weds Miss Rogers

Walter Brooks 3d, one-time stepson of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and son of Mrs. Alf Heiberg, 3300 O st. nw., married Mary Rogers, only daughter of the late Will Rogers, in Las Vegas, Nev., Thursday night.

Only last month Brooks was arrested in New York on charges that he beat Miss Rogers over the head. He said he only pulled her hair. She refused to prosecute.

Mrs. Heiberg was married to General MacArthur from 1922 to 1929. She also had been married to actor Lionel Atwill and Walter B. Brooks, jr., Baltimore millionaire.

Brooks, 36, has been married three times previously. It was the first marriage for Miss Rogers.

570 Naval Reserve Doctors Called to Service With Army

Some 570 Naval Reserve doctors are being immediately ordered to active duty with the Army to meet expanding military needs, it was announced yesterday.

At the same time, the Army said 188 of its own medical officer reservists are being called.

All of the naval reserve physicians to serve with the Army are former members of the Navy V-12 programs who have not put in any active service in return for this Government assistance in their medical educations. All are lieutenants, jg, a spokesman said.

Most of the Army reserve doctors are former ASTP students who have had active service as officers.

Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall yesterday ordered that all of the Navy's "first priority group" medical reservists be made available to meet the needs of the Army and Air Force as well as the Navy.

Under a recent law and presidential order, "first priority" reserve doctors are former V-12 or Army ASTP students who never served on active duty. "Second priority" reservists are those who received such Government assistance through medical school but who did serve as Army or Navy doctors. "Third priority" doctors and dentists include all other medical reservists.

The Navy said it has 1429 first priority group medical reservists, of whom about 80 are members of Organized Reserve groups and not subject to call. The 570 doctors to be ordered to Army duty will come from the approximately 350 others. The first increment of 325 must report by October 15.

Of the Army reserve doctors being called 38 are from Priority Group 1 and 280 from Group 2. The Army total includes 130 previously announced as being ordered up.

In another announcement yesterday, the Army said it was doubling its weekly recruiting quota of volunteers for the Women's Army Corps. It will now take 210 WACs a week instead of 105. The first class will start basic training at Fort Lee, Va., November 6, and will put in nine weeks instead of the prior 13 weeks basic.

awaiting instructions from Prime Minister Nehru, although there is every expectations that India will agree to be a member of the new Korean commission.

As for the Soviet Union, which can filibuster and obstruct a decision even if it cannot use the veto, its delegation here was reported here to be without instructions up to noon today. The Soviet response is not the least of the uncertainties that beset this Assembly as it moves into its job of peacemaking.

The sponsors of the resolution are confident, though, that they can get it overwhelmingly approved within a week, and that it will set directions for solving the long-standing Korean problem.

The unhappiest of all the non-Soviet contingent today were the observers who are here from the Syngman Rhee government. They are hurt because the resolution does not establish their right to govern North Korea and because it at least opens the possibility of a new nation-wide election supplanting the election last May which kept them in power in the south.

Their only consolation is that the resolution strongly confirms their present legal right to rule the territory south of the parallel.

The text recalls the Assembly's decision of December 12, 1948, "that there has been established a lawful government (the government of the Republic of Korea) having effective control and jurisdiction over that part of Korea where the United Nations Temporary Commission on Korea was able to observe and consult and in which the great majority of the people of Korea reside"—namely, south of the thirty-eighth parallel.

Hurt Will Remain

The resolution goes on to recall "that this Government is based on elections which were a valid expression of free will of the electorate of that part of Korea and which were observed by the temporary commission; and that this is the only such government in Korea.

This means, at least, that the Ree government will have to be consulted on all future steps affecting the south. Ambassador Warren R. Austin the American representative, will also try to soothe injured South Korean feelings in his coming statement before the Political Committee.

He will, no doubt, praise the devotion and the sacrifices of the South Korean troops and people during the war. But the hurt will remain, and it may yet cause political trouble when South Korean troops enter northern territory.

Makes Four Recommendations

The British draft recalls that "the unification of Korea has not yet been achieved, and that an attempt has been made by an armed attack from North Korea to extinguish by force the Government of the Republic of Korea."

It restates the authority of the Rhee Government in the south, and, for the record, repeats that the U. N. forces now in Korea are operating under recommendations of the Security Council. Then it proceeds to four new recommendations, as follows:

"(A) That all appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea; (B) That all constituent acts be taken, including the holding of elections, under the auspices of the United Nations, for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign state of Korea; (C) That United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives specified in (A) and (B) above; and (D) That all necessary measures be taken to accomplish the economic rehabilitation of Korea."

This language is so broad it would justify stationing a U. N. occupying army in the north, to police the country and "ensure conditions of stability." But there is room in it for endless legal quibbles and for disputation that may plague future assemblies for years to come.

Calls For New Commission

The draft resolution calls for setting up a new U. N. commission which would (1) take over the functions of the present U. N. Commission in Korea, (2) represent the U. N. in creating a unified, independent and democratic government "of all Korea."; and (3) carry out whatever relief and rehabilitation duties the Assembly may determine.

This commission would go to Korea "and begin to carry out its functions as soon as possible."

Meantime, the nations represented on it would form an interim committee of their delegates here to consult with and advise General MacArthur.

Finally, in view of the size of the rehabilitation task when the fighting ends, the resolution asks the Economic and Social Council to develop plans and to report back to the Assembly by the end of October.

Lebanon and Turkey In Race for Council Seat

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (NYHT.). While the eight-Nation Korean resolution was being circulated and studied today, the General Assembly took up the problem of electing new members to its three main organs — Security Council, Trusteeship Council and Economic and Social Council.

On the first of the day's many ballots, Brazil and the Netherlands, both members of the original Security Council constituted in London in 1946, were chosen by big margins for Council seats for 1951-52, succeeding Cuba and Norway.

Then, however, a tough deadlock developed between Turkey and Lebanon in a battle for the third seat—now held by Egypt. Turkey, with a high of 36 votes, through 11 successive ballots that followed, held a strong lead over Lebanon's high of 25 votes, but was unable to muster the required two-thirds majority.

Lebanon, the candidate of the Arab bloc, it appeared from analysis of the secret ballots, also had the support of the Russian bloc and a scattering of others, including probably some substantial Latin American support.

The deadlock between Lebanon and Turkey for a Security Council seat, which ran so long today it canceled scheduled afternoon Assembly committee meetings, will be settled on another day.

The following countries will be elected to three-year terms on the Economic and Social Council—Uruguay, Russia, the Philippines, Poland, Sweden and Britain. In this election, Russia and Poland won seats even though the Soviet bloc walked out of the Economic and Social Council early this year over the Chinese issue and so far has not returned.

For the Trusteeship Council, the new three-year terms went to the Dominican Republic and Thailand.

New Atrocity Tales Come From Taejon

Walker Reports:

75,000 Reds Killed in War; Toll to Rise

By Don Whitehead

SEOUL, Sept. 25 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker said today the Red army in Korea has been shattered and added:

"As far as we are concerned, the war is over. The enemy's army has disintegrated into ineffective pockets which have no real offensive power."

The commander of the victorious United States Eighth Army said the United Nations forces have killed 75,000 Communist troops in the past three months.

"This is equal to seven full-strength Red divisions," Walker said, "and before we are through mopping up the resistance this total will be even larger."

Walker made these statements in an interview shortly after General MacArthur turned over full control of Seoul to President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea.

Walker, the warrior from Belton, Tex., who commanded the Twentieth Corps in General Patton's Third Army in World War II, admitted there were doubtful times in this war.

The darkest hours, he said, were in the first days of September when the Reds were making an all-out assault along the 120-mile front held by the United Nations troops in southeast Korea.

"There were times," Walker said, "when I did not know myself whether we could hold. Sometimes I had only a company in reserve—and you know that is an absurd situation for an American army. But that was the way it was."

At one period those of us reporting the war watched him shuffle the Twenty-seventh regiment around the front as though it was a fire company stamping out a series of blazes.

Col. John (Mike) Michaelis, commander of the Twenty-seventh "Wolfhound" regiment, became known as the "fire chief."

"It was on September 6," he said, "that everyone knew we had them whipped. I knew the Reds had lost their punch and that the tough core of their army had been destroyed."

Then the Inchon landing sealed the doom of the North Korean army.

TAEJON, Korea, Sept. 29 (U.P.)—Three trenches in this shattered city contain horrible evidence of North Korean war atrocities.

In these trenches lie the bodies of between 30 and 40 Americans and more than 300 South Korean civilians who were murdered before the Communists fled. Their hands had been bound and then they were shot.

One American was found still alive, almost completely covered with dirt and bound to the bodies of his dead comrades. He was saved only because a South Korean civilian saw his lips move and took the tortured man home with him.

The scene was almost too horrible to describe. The exact number of persons killed by the North Koreans has not been determined, but I counted more than 150 bodies sprawled at the edge of two mass graves. There were many more in the pits.

An investigator of the Judge Advocate Department of the Army estimated after investigation that 30 to 40 Americans were among the dead.

They were found in an L-shaped, half-filled trench dug in the courtyard of the Taejon police station. The South Koreans who were slain spilled over the edges of two wide trenches about 50 yards long in the courtyard. No effort had been made to cover the natives' bodies with dirt.

First word of this Communist atrocity came shortly after we entered Taejon yesterday afternoon.

A South Korean boy with one eye gone, who looked like he had been beaten brutally, told us in sign language that some Americans had been shot with machine-guns.

We followed him to the police station courtyard. There lay the jumble of ripped and torn bodies. Two American survivors were being taken away in an Army ambulance. One managed to give his name and the barest details.

"They tied our hands together and shot us," the soldier gasped.

The judge advocate inspector managed to gather these few details:

A South Korean civilian Communist cleared all the occupants out of a house near the police station some time ago. He said about 30 Americans, not always the same ones, were herded into the house. They were kept in the town, forced to wear ragged coveralls and no shoes and to carry filth through the streets as an "object lesson."

An old man who lived in a house next to the courtyard said that on the morning of September 27 he saw North Koreans force three Americans to kneel in a trench. He said he moved quickly away from his window so he would not see what happened. Then he heard shots.

This morning two North Korean prisoners dug dirt away at one end of a trench. Four American bodies appeared. It was too revolting to watch.

The scene in the Taejon prison yard was too horrible. The prison is surrounded by a red brick wall. Inside are neatly laid out walks and factory buildings. In the rear, amid lettuce beds, were two trenches containing South Korean bodies.

The trenches were filled to the top with twisted bodies of uncounted old men and young boys. They had been beaten and then shot to death with their hands tied behind their backs.

Outside the iron gates of the prison were dozens of women and children. They knew or suspected what was inside. The gates were closed to them, however, by the authorities.

Russians Seen Concerned

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (AP).—The general impression in the Soviet capital is that the Russians would regard gravely any effort by American or Allied forces to cross the thirty-eighth parallel and push to North Korea's borders on Russia and China.

The Soviet Union may have some definite suggestions to make on the proposed unification of Korea, including plans for general elections, to be aired when the question comes up in the U.N.

A certain amount of guarded optimism prevails among diplomatic observers over the whole international situation. They believe, however, that all positions should be made known before any move is made to order troops to cross the thirty-eighth parallel.

Should American, South Korean or other troops cross over, the Russians probably will take the line that they are doing what they planned originally and that the United States wants to expand military bases on Asia's mainland.

Soviet newspapers have been publishing a number of articles charging South Korean President Syngman Rhee, with American backing and connivance, planned to invade North Korea.

The army newspaper Red Star today published a large map it said was Rhee's official map, showing details of how a drive into North Korea was planned. This is in line with the stand the Soviets have taken all along, that Rhee and the Americans started the Korean war.

U. S. Statement Calls Russia 'Power Hungry'

By The Associated Press

President Truman yesterday sponsored a statement on United States foreign policy bluntly denouncing Soviet Russia as "a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror."

As for the United States, it warned.

"The short-term problem, in plain and brutal terms, is to survive as a free nation . . ."

Mr. Truman said the statement—issued by the State Department in the form of a 100-page booklet—was drafted "at my suggestion" to help Americans keep "well informed about the problems that face our country."

An initial printing of 50,000 copies was ordered for distribution in this country and abroad.

Mr. Truman said in a brief foreword he suggested the policy outline to "set down as simply and clearly as possible what we are after in our relations with other governments and their peoples."

The statement emphatically rejected any idea of the United States and Russia sitting down together "to carve up the world between them"—thus scorning Moscow overtures for direct two-way negotiations outside the United Nations.

It said the idea of setting up Russian-American spheres of influence "casually disposing of the fate of other free peoples" might be "something for cartoonists to play with," but it declared:

"It is not an idea that democratic governments and peoples can seriously consider."

Countering Soviet propaganda claims that East-West tension stems from a conflict between capitalism and communism, the State Department said:

"The conflict is really between a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror and every other means, and the community of free nations which refuses to be conquered or dominated or to stand by and see its members swallowed up."

Then, turning to Russia's vast expansion since the end of World War II, the department noted that in the last five years the Soviet Union has——

1. Annexed 7,500,000 square miles of new territory.

2. Brought 500 million people under Soviet control.

"It is now trying to extend its empire across Asia," the department said.

The statement said Russia has "wiped out" three nations—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—and has "reduced to servitude" six more—Poland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania and Czechoslovakia.

"Soviet leaders have marked Communist China for the same fate," it said.

The booklet, entitled "Our Foreign Policy," compared the current world situation to the early Wild West days in this country when "every settler had to carry arms to protect himself and his family against marauders."

D. C. GI Who Sought Army Career Killed

Son Missing, Mother Destitute

CORPL. RICHARD N. SELBY, 21, of 3931 Burns pl. se., has been reported missing in the crash of a plane which plunged into the sea with 51 persons aboard Tuesday. His father, Joseph Selby, is an invalid, and his mother, supporting her husband and two small children with the contributions of food by friends, faces eviction from her Government-owned home.

A seventh-generation Washingtonian who wanted to make the Army his career has been killed in action in Korea, just 14 days after his twentieth birthday.

One of three Washington area men listed as casualties by the Defense Department yesterday is Pfc. Russell W. Clarkson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Clarkson of 4612 Windom pl. nw.

The other two, both wounded in action, are Army Second Lieut. Norman B. Hopkins, jr., son of Mrs. Luther K. Reynolds, 1540 Mount Eagle pl., Parkfairfax, Alexandria, Va., and Marine Pfc. Gilbert A. Eckloff, son of Earl J. Eckloff of Seat Pleasant, Md.

Clarkson was killed September 20, the day the Allies began their big push at Inchon. The Clarksons have not received any details about where he was killed.

He went overseas with the Second Infantry Division, Thirty-eighth Regiment, on August 4, after training at Fort Lewis, Wash., his father said.

"The last time we saw him was in April, 1949, but he used to call us up from out there. He called us the night before he left and said, 'This will be the last one.'

Pfc. Clarkson graduated from Bell Vocational School in 1948 and enlisted in the Army on January 9, 1949. While in high school he was a color sergeant in the High School Cadets.

"He was crazy about the Army," his father said. "The only complaint he had was that he couldn't come back here and watch the Redskins."

Clarkson, sr., who is a finance methods examiner with the Veterans Administration, said his son is a seventh-generation Washingtonian. Young Clarkson's grandfather, William G. H. Clarkson of 3106 18th st. nw., is now 94 and is a retired Southern Railway employe.

The Clarksons have one daughter, Mrs. Paul W. Kayser, 2423 S. 27th st., Arlington, Va.

Hopkins, a 1949 West Point graduate, wrote his mother that "while defending a bridge northeast of Waegwan" the platoon he was commanding "was attacked by a company of North Koreans."

"After 5 p. m., September 11, K Company had no Third Platoon, but we had managed to wipe out most of the North Korean company. Almost all of us were wounded."

The letter was writen from the evacuation hospital in Japan, where Lieutenant Hopkins was taken after he was wounded in the right and left shoulders.

After graduation from West Point, Lieutenant Hopkins attended ground school at Fort Riley, Kans. and Infantry School Fort Benning, Ga. He was attached to the First Cavalry Division.

Lieutenant Hopkins is 25 years old and a bachelor.

Mrs. Reynolds said that the letter also mentioned that "he had been recommended for promotion" just before leaving Korea.

Eckloff joined the Marines three years ago.

The partial cost of the Korean war to the United States was revealed yesterday—17,220 American casualties, including 2211 dead, 11,050 wounded and 3959 missing. The list does not include casualties in the heavy fighting of the last several days.

'Unification' Rites Unite 2 Sergeants

Armed forces unification will be the theme of a wedding ceremony at 8 tonight at Ft. Myer, Va., when two sergeants will be made one.

They are Tech. Sergt. Harley M. Price of the Air Force and Master Sergt. Altha Nelson, South Post WAC, who will be married at the Ft. Myer Chapel by Lieut. Col. R. M. Homiston, Protestant chaplain at the fort.

Brig. Gen. James E. Moore of the Army General Staff will give the bride away, in the absence of her father. Sergeant Nelson, who comes from Minneapolis, is his secretary.

Carrying unification beyond the Army and Air Force, Sergeant Nelson's wedding ensemble will include a Navy bonnet and a dress of Navy blue nylon net over white chantilly lace.

Sergeant Price, the groom, a native of Sulphur, Okla., works in the logistics analysis section for the assistance directorate of operations of the Air Force. He and Sergeant Nelson both work in the Pentagon.

Army and Air Force friends will participate in the wedding, which will be followed by a reception at the South Post Service Club.

Pay Those Taxes By Mail Today To Avoid Penalties

If you didn't get downtown yesterday to pay the first half of your 1951 District real estate and personal property taxes, you can still beat the deadline by mailing the money in today.

Tax offices in the District Building and Municipal Center will be closed today, but persons mailing payments before midnight will escape penalties. Mail should be addressed to the Collector of Taxes at Room 120 in the District Building.

District Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson warned that persons failing to meet the payment deadline may be penalized one percent of the tax due for each month payment is late.

Switchblade Knife And Record Jail Man

Albert E. Hanson, 30, 812 6th st. nw., was sentenced yesterday in Municipal Court to serve 180 days in jail for carrying a switchblade knife. Hanson contended that he would never have been arrested had he not gotten into an argument, called police and got arrested.

Glancing at Hanson's lengthy record, Judge Neilson said: "You are in a sorry plight. Don't you ever learn? You have a record in almost every State in the union."

Correction

In a story published yesterday on a meeting of the Northern Virginia Regional Planning Commission, Bertram Gross was identified erroneously as chairman of the Arlington Planning Commission. He is a member of the Arlington commission, Carroll Wright is chairman. The Washington Post regrets the error.

Increase in Rail Wage Reported Union Goal

A new drive for a wage increase for one million railroad workers was reported yesterday to be in the making.

A meeting of the top executives of the 16 railroad organizations in the nonoperating part of the industry—that is, that part which is not directly concerned with actually operating the trains—is scheduled here on October 11.

The amount of the wage increase to be sought was not disclosed, but President Al J. Hayes of the International Association of Machinists told of the wage movement.

City Held Entirely Unprepared To Handle Atom Casualties must resign ourselves to treating first those who have a chance to live rather than the more seriously-injured who have no chance."

District Engineer Commissioner Gen. Gordon Young criticized estimates of possible casualties here based on the Hiroshima experience—pointing out that there was no warning at Hiroshima and there is a good chance Washington would have warning.

D. C. Should Be Ready

But the Commissioner agreed with other speakers that much can be done here to put Washington in a state of readiness should a bomb fall.

Included, he said, would be establishment of a number of emergency casualty stations scattered around the city, "under cover, ready to emerge when the all-clear sounds."

The immensity of the problem was spelled out by Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, District director of public health, who said that an atomic bomb of the Hiroshima type falling on Washington would—"it is assumed"—cause: 75,000 immediate deaths; 15,000 severely injured who would die; 90,000 injured, approximately half of them ambulatory; 125,000 persons displaced from their homes; 25 percent of all buildings and contents destroyed or rendered not usable for a considerable length of time.

As characteristic of the public health problem ensuing he cited: "Most of our garbage is disposed of through hog feeding and it is anticipated that almost complete disruption of such a program will occur."

"Shelter would become a tremendous problem . . ." It could probably be solved "only by arbitrarily sending large numbers of people to neighboring communities.

"The establishment of feeding stations would have to be undertaken. It is anticipated that almost the entire reserve stcok of food supplies warehoused in the District might be lost . . .

"Emergency sanitation measures may have to be very primitive . . . Emergency latrines may have to be established . . .

"The proper identification and burial of the dead will be an enormous problem, out of all proportion to anything now known. Areas in which mass burials could be carried out are not presently available and means of identification must be developed . . .

"The problems are astronmical magnitude and from any point of view, total community resources, however well organized and coordinated, will prove inadequate to meet these problems . . ."

However, the point emphasized and re-emphasized by all speakers at this significant conference was that Washington can be far better prepared than it is now to handle the emergency.

U. S. Buildings Canvassed For Air Raid Shelters

The Public Buildings Service is canvassing Government buildings here to learn the "feasibility" of establishing air raid shelters in them.

W. E. Reynolds, Public Buildings Commissioner, said yesterday that no plans or drawings were being made. Engineers are merely considering the physical aspects of the buildings and what would be needed to provide shelters from an A-bomb attack.

FBI Class Warned Of Hysteria Danger

Makes 8-Mile Parachute Drop

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

CAPT. RICHARD V. WHEELER of the Army Air Force is shown after making a parachute drop from a height of more than eight miles near Holloman Air Base at Alamogordo, N. Mex. Wheeler made the jump to test a device which opens a chute automatically after a man has fallen out of rarified air which has insufficient oxygen for men to breath and live. The Air Force announced the jump yesterday, saying the 42,449-foot drop exceeds previous Air Force records and tops any known world marks

A top White House security aide yesterday warned an FBI Academy graduating class that anti-Communist "hysteria" is just as dangerous as communism itself.

Rear Admiral Sidney W. Souers, special consultant to President Truman on security, in a defense of the Administration's fight against subversives disclosed that the Government is now investigating more than 1000 naturalized citizens to see if their citizenship should be revoked for subversive activity.

The investigation, he said, is among the several "sober and sensible" steps the Government is taking to meet the Red menace here.

The Admiral stressed to the FBI trainees the importance of protecting the individual's constitutional rights while safeguarding the Nation's security.

"Unrestrained and indiscriminate anti-Communist activity can be just as dangerous to American institutions as Communist activity itself," he said.

The Academy's forty-fifth class in FBI methods was composed of 58 State and local law enforcement officers.

Sauers hit at the new Communist control law as carrying several "confused and unworkable" provisions.

Some portions of the statute are so sweeping, he said, that they may affect not only the "hard-core" Communists, "but tens of thousands of persons who whether knowingly or not, have at one time or another associated with questionable organizations."

Souers emphasized that the Justice Department would enforce the law "impartially, judiciously and vigorously" and to the best of its ability.

He said he knows of no Communist subversion—or any other kind of subversion—that has remained un-investigated."

The President's security adviser stressed that overall subversive control is a Federal responsibility—not one for local-level bodies to delve into.

Fulton Oursler, senior editor of Reader's Digest, also addressed the graduates and about 2000 friends in the Departmental Auditorium.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover paid special tribute at yesterday's exercises to the Rev. Robert S. Lloyd, longtime friend of the academy.

'Watchdog' Group Will Spot Reds in Cumberland Area

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 29 (AP).—Cumberland and neighboring communities are putting together a watchdog committee to hunt down Communists.

It was set in motion last night at a meeting called by John J. Long, city police commissioner.

He presented his idea to police officers from the nearby special policemen who guard railroads and industrial plants and representatives of veterans' organizations.

Long proposed that they work together to ferret out subversive activities in the tri-State mountain industrial area.

"We are going to move with caution in obtaining evidence," Long said, "but we are going to move firmly. We are serving notice on the Red element that any activity we consider against this country will be scrutinized very closely and reported to the FBI."

The police commissioner proposed that participants in the informal policing committee turn their findings over to R. Emmett Flynn, chief of Cumberland police. Long said Flynn already is spending most of his time investigating Red activities.

Long reported he has information that Communists formerly active in the area have gone underground. They formerly held meetings in Cumberland, he said. In recent weeks they have been getting together secretly nearby but outside of town, he reported.

Officers from Ridgeley, W. Va., Hyndman, Pa., and Bedford County, Pa., participated in last night's meeting.

Two Cumberland men, formerly active Communists, have been fined $100 each under a new city ordinance passed September 5 which requires all Communists to register and bans distribution of Communist literature.

William Boyd Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman have appealed their convictions to Circuit Court. The appeals have been consolidated with another action in which they attacked the legality of the new ordinance. A hearing has been set for next week.

Both men are former presidents of the CIO-Textile Workers Union at the Celanese Corp.'s big plant just outside Cumberland. Both testified for the defense in the long trial of 11 Communist leaders in New York last year.

Coleman and Schusterman resigned from the Communist Party of Maryland after they had been convicted.

Defense Cornerstone

The danger that atomic bombs will fall in the vicinity of Washington may be remote. But it is not so remote that we can afford to close our eyes to it or countenance any delay in making intelligent preparations to meet such a contingency. If it should come, it would affect not Washington alone but Richmond and Baltimore and Wilmington and all the smaller communities within a very extensive area. It is somewhat heartening to learn, therefore, that a group of 13 county managers within the area met the other day to talk about defense problems. It appears, however, that they are waiting for the District government to take action toward welding them together in a regional program. Such action ought to be initiated speedily.

It is doubtful that we shall get the kind of action and leadership we need through the appointment of Police Inspector John E. Fondahl as temporary civil defense director. This is intended as no reflection on Inspector Fondahl. He is a capable officer of the Metropolitan Police Department—a full-time job. Perhaps he would also be an admirable civil defense director—another full-time job. But he cannot be both at the same time. He seems to have been chosen for the latter assignment because he was already on the District payroll—and because Congress cut the funds for District defense to a niggardly $100,000. This is a most imprudent form of economy. The District needs the best civil defense director it can get—one who will be able to devote all his energy, ability and imagination to the job.

The indispensable first step in District civil defense, we think, is to find a director who will undertake not merely to carry out the inadequate program permitted by the congressional appropriation but who will devise the kind of program the District really needs. That is a program integrating all the resources and facilities of the entire region. If such a program is presented to Congress when it returns, in concrete, practicable form—with pledged cooperation on the part of neighboring communities—we have little doubt that the funds necessary to carry it into execution will be provided. A full-time director of high caliber is the essential cornerstone.

Open Sewer

The disdain shown by the Arlington County Board for the increasing problem of pollution in the Potomac River hardly shows a rounded sense of civic responsibility. The board has given a decidedly cool reception to proposals for a referendum November 7 on a bond issue for additional sewage treatment facilities, promising only that the matter will be studied and acted upon within six months. It is no answer to the charge made by District Sanitary Engineer Kemp that the Potomac below Hains Point is becoming an "open sewer" for Board Chairman Dugan to reply that Arlington is "doing pretty well" because it superficially treats half its sewage. Anyone who has had occasion to go boating on the Potomac knows whereof Mr. Kemp speaks, and Mr. Dugan's answer that other communities are worse is like saying that because a town supplies one fire engine to fight a raging conflagration whereas its neighbors supply none, it has done its duty.

Arlington, to be sure, has a better record than Alexandria, which discharges all its raw sewage into the Potomac. The difference, however, is that Alexandria is actively working on plans for a primary treatment plant; Arlington also has nearly twice as many residents as Alexandria. Washington is already building additional treatment facilities and Fairfax County, which has been a prime offender, is ready to construct a treatment plant. Admittedly, the question of sewers or schools, which Mr. Dugan seems to pose, is a difficult one. The answer of Arlington voters, however, will have to be not one or the other, but both. That is one of the costs of Arlington's phenomenal growth. Proper sanitation facilities have been neglected even more than schools in the metropolitan expansion, and the pollution is now a health menace.

Theoretically the Virginia Water Control Board has the power to stop any community from dumping any additional untreated sewage into the Potomac. That of course would be a severe blow to community growth. It is a weapon to be used sparingly, and not where cities and counties are doing their best to provide treatment facilities. But if there is any foot-dragging in Arlington, a gentle reminder that the Water Control Board has this power might well be in order.

Peace Talk

The United Nations is full of talk of peace in Korea, but in Korea itself the dove still has only half a head out of the cage, and, besides, there is a high degree of confusion at Lake Success about the way the creature should be handled when it does emerge. Some of the delegates actually seem afraid of the responsibility of making the peace! They appear to be hanging back till the Russians declare themselves. Others give the impression of wanting to skip the preliminaries in favor of discussion on long-term plans for Korea. A third group is toying with the idea of using Korea as the occasion for a fresh effort to build global peace. But, in spite of all this shadow-boxing, Korea remains a problem in itself, and the first step is to settle upon a peace commission which shall have at its disposal a sufficient number of men to afford protection to the commissioners on the ground. Perhaps there is more order behind the scenes at Lake Success than appears; at any rate, we shall see today, when the Assembly is scheduled to hear what steps are recommended by the principal Allied nations. Let us remember in all charity that, as in national assemblies, the United Nations in the absence of leadership is apt to fall back upon the sound of members' voices.

At present there is in Korea the U. N. Commission which the Assembly prior to the Korean outbreak had vested with authority to conduct elections. This must be expanded in deference to the much more significant task of making peace. To be sure, it must have specific instructions, and these should be based first upon the initiation of a relief program, and, secondly, upon elections in North Korea so that the empty places at Seoul may be filled. Much of the present talk is extraneous and even foolish. In this category is the idea of a U. N. trusteeship, of South Korean occupation of North Korea, of a kind of World War II retribution, and of President Syngman Rhee's assumption of authority north of the thirty-eighth parallel. Peace is the pursuit and unity is the goal for a war-torn land that needs to bury old scores and not to create new ones. The job of the United Nations lies in turning back to the Koreans a reconstructed country of the Koreans' own choosing.

That the commission must have a police force at its disposal as protection against post-war disorder should go without saying. Secretary General Lie several times has asked for an armed guard for U. N. commissions engaged on similar assignments. After the aggression broke out in Korea he repeated the proposal, with special reference to Korea. But he has made no headway. The assembly of such a force as he had in mind is now simplified by the fact that men are actually available in Korea or in Korean waters. The nations represented in the battle zone are the United States, Britain, Canada, the Philippines, New Zealand, Holland, and Australia; with Siamese and Turkish contingents on the way. Out of these contingents a peace patrol could easily be set up as a nucleus for a more representative group, with stress upon the Asian nations.

This country should insist upon having only a minimum quota on the peace commission. The bulk of the American forces require to be withdrawn. It is necessary to show the world that the United States has not the slightest ambition to gain any advantage out of Korea. This is primarily United Nations business. All we want is the restoration of peace on the basis of Korea for Koreans. The interest of the United States, which has borne the brunt of the war, would be served by having other U. N. nations bear the brunt of the peace. That the other nations either seem loath to undertake this responsibility or want to merge the Korean problem into the world problem is not edifying. It almost seems as if some of the member nations are intimidated more by victory over aggression than by the actual aggression.

Latin Point IV

Thursday's session of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council marked the start of the Point IV program. The IA-ECOSOC plan is scheduled to begin operation January 1 with a contribution of one million dollars from United States Point IV funds to be matched by a half-million-dollar contribution divided among the participating countries. This is, of course, a supplement to the larger Point IV-type program that has been carried on for some years in such fields as education and public health by the Institute of Inter-American Affairs. The difference is that whereas the institute program is under United States sponsorship and is carried on through bilateral negotiations with individual countries, the IA-ECOSOC plan is multilateral, sponsored by all the nations of the hemisphere much in the manner of the United Nations technical assistance program.

Necessarily this new program is a small one; the money will be spent primarily to buy services rather than materials. In other words, it will consist largely of the teaching of skills to cadres in Latin America in agriculture and similar pursuits. Acting Administrator Capus Waynick chose a simile the other day that we have ourselves used when he likened the technical assistance program to the county agent system here. "We will offer our technicians," he said, "as teachers of technicians in other countries who in turn will do for their people what our county agents have done for us."

Whatever responsibility the United States bears toward its Latin neighbors is not that of a dole, but of encouraging self-help. In other words, the program can succeed only as it consists of a willingness to learn and apply, rather than accept favors. Beyond this, there is an important consideration in the economy of Latin America itself. In parts of Latin America farmers, their appetites whetted by occasional American movies, would like to have tractors. But tractors, in a predominantly animal economy, would deprive fields of fertilizer, and would mean that countries would have to import not only gasoline but fertilizer as well. The point is that the technical assistance program must be geared to existing economies. There is no easy way to skip a step in economic development, and technical help must not encourage desires for things that are not practicable or obtainable. Its real purpose is to help Latin Americans to make better use of what they already have.

Hearing For Mao

Why the Security Council has hesitated so long to admit the Peking government to a hearing on Formosa and on the Manchurian incidents is explicable only in terms of American domestic politics. The American delegation acted as a restraining influence. But yesterday the step was at last taken, and it was time, for all that was done was to recognize what is only the usual procedure in these matters. The Security Council has heard all kinds of parties when disputes have been under discussion: Albania, the Jewish Agency, the Grand Mufti's Higher Arab Committee, Outer Mongolia. Upon what conceivable excuse could we rely in denying an elementary claim of a party that considers itself injured?

The hearing, scheduled to take place on November 12, will be confined strictly to the Communist complaint of American "aggression" in Formosa and to the Communist complaint of a couple of American bombings in Manchuria. In the former case the neutralization that has been undertaken was made necessary in order to prevent the imminent extension of hostilities which had been begun in Korea. It was a necessary corollary of peace enforcement. The Far East looked as if it might be engulfed. The issue of the future of Formosa will not be taken up, for that is a separate matter, and, at our suggestion, will be debated in the General Assembly. As to the incidents in Manchuria, these are said to have some basis in fact, and already the United States has agreed to the appointment of an investigating commission and to make suitable reparation in case of established damage.

The stubbornness of the American position hitherto has had no merit, and we are glad the Security Council has taken us off the hook, and relieved the world of a growingly dangerous situation.

Source Of Workers

That in a time of semi-mobilization the United States needs to make use of every available worker hardly needs emphasis. This year National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, which begins Sunday, has especial significance because of the tightening labor supply. No fewer than 1½ million is the estimated number of physically handicapped persons who could be added to the labor force if they were trained and employers sought them. In ordinary times the rehabilitation and employment program for handicapped persons—veterans and nonveterans—is a means of turning human frustration and misery into success and victory. In these times the productive use of such persons becomes imperative.

The objectives of Employ the Physically Handicapped Week are primarily twofold—to make all handicapped persons aware of the rehabilitation, training and placement services available to them through State employment offices and thus to provide them equality of opportunity, and to convince employers that it is good business to hire the handicapped. Many surveys attest to the fact that in industries where there are handicapped workers their safety rate is above average and their general performance is as good or better than that of unimpaired workers. Certainly in the country's estimated seven million handicapped there is both an appalling waste and an immense reservoir of talent which employers in their own interest ought to tap—not just during this week, but regularly.

Pan Am Employes

Employes of the newly-merged operation of Pan American Airways and American Overseas Airlines have a good thing in the job formula handed down by the Civil Aeronautics Board. This protective regulation provides that any employe dismissed or displaced as a result of the merger shall continue to receive his average salary for the life of the route certificate—that is, until July, 1952. What this really means is that there shall be no discharges except for cause. In addition, seniority lists are to be integrated, and machinery is provided for the amicable settlement of disputes. This is more than generous protection, accepted in good grace by Pan Am, and it should quiet employe fears of firings because of the absorption of AOA. Indeed, in the unusual concern it shows for the social consequences of the merger, it should encourage labor peace. It is a good start for Pan Am's expanded operations.

SUNDAY EVENING IN HARLEM

Sweet cups of laughter burst from umber faces
And flares of cloth recall the parakeet.
Summer: the beaux and coffee velvet graces
Walk as if under palms, loving the heat.
They walk in idleness, they speak with leisure
Among the neon-lights of rose and green;
Aware that merg existence is a pleasure,
Bright as banana-flowers they pose and preen.
A gathering of rivers is the laughter
Washing their words like large reluctant pearls.
The ear that listens keeps forever after
The water-voices of the jungle-girls.

"Acheson's Lead"

I note with great interest that in your editorial of Saturday, September 23, there is a recognition of the basic dilemma faced in any reconsideration of the veto power in the U. N. Charter. Your editorial says "The equitable method of recognizing the unique position of the great powers would have been to give weighted representation to the member nations according to their power. But rather than attempt the formidable task of assessing the degree of power of the member states the framers of the Charter introduced the veto and provided otherwise for the equality of states . . . What would take the place of the veto power . . . requires earnest consideration."

Too few citizens of the United States realize precisely why their Government must in self-interest support retention of the veto until such time as an equitable system of representation can be devised. Carlos Romulo, as early as 1947, said very clearly that he thought he could speak for the smaller nations in saying they would prefer fractional representation in a body with force behind it rather than a full veto in one which was not empowered to act. It is in essence what lies behind the federalist contention for transforming the General Assembly into a true legislative body. Nor does it seem fair to the average citizen to talk about upholding the rule of law in the world when such rule of law does not, in fact, exist.

I heartily applaud the editor for putting boldly into print the fundamental problem which underlies the world situation vis a vis a real strengthening of the United Nations.

MARY S. CHAMBERLAIN.

Aping McCarthy

I wish that it were possible to determine how many members of the Democratic Party do not endorse the action of those Democratic Senators and Congressmen who voted to override the President's veto of the Wood-McCarran bill. Perhaps less than a majority of Democratic voters support the President's action, but if we Democrats don't support Mr. Truman's action than I wonder what we are doing in the Democratic Party. For that matter why have we Democrats been so voiceless during the dreary months which led to this horrible and rather horrifying conclusion? Why didn't we make it clear that the Democrats of this country are ready to fight Russia; but that the "little people" of the Democratic Party, that means most of us, feel that would-be-dictators in this country may be an equally "ever present danger."

"Communism" is the latest Republican red herring; I say to Democratic Senators and Congressmen, let them have it. The United States may be facing a war with Russia; steps have been taken and will be taken to prepare for that eventuality. If the steps taken are not the wisest or best it is the responsibility of both parties to propose a more adequate program of national defense. I hope that the Democratic Party will go on record as opposing the systematic harassment of probably innocent individuals as a part of so-called national defense.

Even our lawyers appear to have been swept along in this wave of pseudo patriotism, which all too often amounts to witch hunting.

Before the Wood-McCarran bill was passed there were laws providing that anyone who actively aided an enemy of this nation would find himself in the "clink," or if war existed that person might have been executed. When the time came, America, with help from people of a lot of other countries, took care of Hitler. Stalin and those he commands may prove tougher, but isn't it going to weaken the forces on our side quite a bit if they wonder whether if, once having defeated Russia, they face the unhappy prospect of returning home to "thought control" molded in the McCarthy manner? No, Democrats, I don't think that you will win votes by aping McCarthy.

"Question Of Manners"

Your September 23 editorial, "Question Of Manners," is a criticism of Governor Dewey on a purported breach of his duty as a host to the United Nations delegates at the New York Welcome Dinner. It seems to me that social protocol must be secondary to moral principle and it is unfortunate that a newspaper with as wide a circulation as yours should find itself suggesting the sacrifice of principle to a paramount social attitude. The amenities of our officialdom have been carried out ad nauseam.

Higher Taxes

The new tax law, if allowed to stand, will cause untold thousands to lose the roofs over their heads because, with insufficient salaries that now prevail and the heavy tax burden, people cannot meet the rising food cost, excessive transportation rates, medical bills, in addition to State taxes and unforeseen expenses.

People such as I who are self-employed (nurses and other professions) are not allowed to charge more than a stipulated fee and those are the ones hardest hit. Even though once a year a taxpayer receives credit for mortgages, etc., that doesn't help a bit each month to meet expenses if the salary doesn't cover bare necessities.

Apartment rents are beyond all reason; a woman has to make a good personal appearance for the position she holds. But how, under the present witholding tax can a person even hope to come out even, much less lay aside any amount for less fortunate times?

People who can afford to make "easy money" by gambling, racing or any other way that is outside the law should be taxed to the hilt, but people like myself who are trying to acquire a roof over their heads, legitimately, should have some redress.

Production Unlimited

It has traditionally been public policy to be prepared if war comes. There are various plans for preparedness in the event of war, cold or otherwise, underwritten with 10 billion dollars and promise of more. It is taken for granted that preparedness for war is essential.

But are we prepared for peace, which might very well come instead? What shall we do with the billions of dollars, and promise of more, which the Government has for pursuing war?

Suppose that, for example, Congress should pass a bill providing that in the event the United Nations succeeds in establishing the peace, 10 billion dollars, together with a large slice of our recently expanded military budget, shall be spent in a plan to give millions of our men and boys opportunities abroad in a program to cooperate with the United Nations to start new enterprises in the East and in Europe. Don't we honestly have to admit that, much as we hate taxes and high prices, we would secretly breathe a sigh of relief that we could still hold on to that job, or that sales would boom after all, or that orders would pick up, or that stocks would not drop after all? And wouldn't Bill Jones, dying of boredom in his father's corner grocery store, be thrilled to get a chance to start a store in Arabia or Singapore?

"Where is the money coming from?" That old cry is the dirge to accompany the passing of the old world of insufficient goods, insufficient food, insufficient production. It should be wiped out forever from the new world of unlimited production that is possible for free men with the help of science and technological progress. Atomic energy for peaceful means is a yet untouched field. We all know where the money is coming from if we but have the courage to lift up our eyes and see—it is coming from the new frontiers of the new world which will be built through the use of the opportunities which the Government will help make available.

Capitalism is somewhat akin to a force, like fire or steel strength, or atomic energy, which can be used for good or for evil. But it is a force, because it uses the ideas and talents of millions of released individuals, rather than the ideas and talents of a few men who hand them down from the top.

Our belief is that the present value of the Nation's future earnings is very great, far greater than we can dare say now without being accused of being flighty and visionary—just as very few respectable economists would have dared, before World War II, to predict that an expenditure of over 200 billion dollars would be possible without wrecking the country, much less break records for employment, savings, production, and a dozen other indexes for years following.

But the new world is upon us, the new world of unlimited production. It awaits our orders. In a democracy it does not have a dictator to say "produce." The force to release the giants of production in a free enterprise society is money. Money in the hands of millions of men and women, of mediocre, average and great ability, is the releasing force which commands, "produce!" and which command is almost instantly obeyed.

It is not like in the old days, when whatever was spent was gone, then came the day of reckoning in inflation. In a country like China, for example, where there is not the organization for intensive production, it is easy to see how government expenditure could lead to inflation. Inflation of an uncontrolled variety, however, cannot occur as long as production, initiated by money in the hands of all the people, of small or great means, keeps up reasonably well with demand. In a highly industrialized society such as ours, a new world of new frontiers lies waiting to be open, based on the possibilities of undreamed of production. In the past, upon which a good deal of present economic thinking still is based, this was not true; production could not possibly keep up with demand.

Once the principle is accepted unequivocally that providing opportunity for both our people and the people of other countries is a fundamental part of our democracy, not just a temporary expedient to show up Russia or win the cold war, but a sacred responsibility, inseparable from the democracy itself, in fact part and parcel of the traditional responsibility of "providing for the common defense," then the frontiers of a new world will at last become visible for all to see.

'More Taxes Coming'

A Communication

MUCH controversy has waxed among economists as to the primary function of taxation in our economy. There are those who persist in regarding the provision of revenue to the Government as the main consideration, in contrast to those more concerned with the effects of taxes on the operation of the economy as a whole. During economic depressions this makes a considerable practical difference, with the two schools likely to pull in opposite directions.

However, during an inflationary period, such as the present, we find them both pulling together in support of heavier taxes and reduced Government deficits. The policy advocated by both schools is commonly referred to as the "pay-as-you-go" program.

This slogan accords with the prevailing conception of taxes as revenue and therefore is politically apt. The idea is that the Government should keep its expenditures as low and its revenues as high as possible.

While the slogan "pay-as-you-go" offers a guide to proper Government fiscal policies, it throws little light on the operation of the economy as a whole. The budget of the Government is not the same thing as the budget of the Nation. The former may or may not be in balance, but, ignoring capital maintenance and foreign relationships, the budget of the Nation is always in balance. With the above proviso, the economy as a whole in any case will "pay as it goes" and thus this cannot be used as a criterion of the wisdom or unwisdom of policies.

A VALID criterion of a policy, whether by the Government, banks or other credit agencies, business, labor or consumers, is its inflationary or deflationary impact. The "pay-as-you-go" program deserves support because it is one of our weapons against the evils of over-all inflation. But additional revenue for the Government is not an end in itself; its primary value is the negative effect on private consumption and investment expenditures competing with those of the Government made necessary by considerations of national security. Since the Government must spend more we must spend less.

Through taxation or Government borrowing from nonbank bona fide investors, revenue will come to the Government. But other measures not involving additional Government revenue will also be helpful. One of these is to induce people to increase their savings because this also means less private spending competing with Government spending. The increase of voluntary savings, not going into any securities, during World War II was at least as important as the purchase of Government bonds.

IN YOUR September 26 editorial "More Taxes Coming," on means of providing more revenue for the Government, you miss this point. Instead of advising your readers to increase both their purchase of Government bonds and their other savings, you limit your prescription to the "noninflationary sales of securities to bona fide investors in exchange for their savings," that is, by reducing their savings. This may or may not be noninflationary, but we want something more, something positively deflationary.

To the extent that people keep their savings in a liquid form, e.g., in easily redeemable Government bonds or simply in bank balances, the purchasing power which they represent is an ever-present danger. For this reason, it might be desirable to institute "forced savings," under certain conditions, in lieu of wage increases. In any case, together with a "pay-as-you-go" program, an educational drive is most urgent, designed to dissuade people from rushing to spend their increased incomes. Let no one think that he has done his full duty merely because he has purchased a stipulated amount of Government bonds.

Harriman And Taft

Mr. W. Averell Harriman, special foreign affairs assistant to President Truman, was quoted by the Associated Press as having said, in addressing the AFL in Houston, Tex., that Senator Robert A. Taft follows policies in line with Communist objectives and should be voted out of Congress to help win the peace.

As I recall, Harriman was Ambassador to Russia during the war when we were playing "tootsie" with Joe Stalin. It seems to me that Harriman helped arrange and attended such conferences as Yalta and Potsdam, which encouraged Russia's postwar expansion into the Far East and into western Europe. It seems to me that the Communists and the Communist sympathizers in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations are largely responsible for the Russian military strength that now threatens the free world.

It seems to me that Truman and Harriman have taken the Stalin line of accusing their opponents of the very things of which Truman and Harriman are guilty. We will never get the Communists out of our Government until we remove the party that put them there—and that party is the New Deal, the Fair Deal.

Senator Robert A. Taft is a loyal, conscientious, able American. It is certainly below the dignity of the office of President for Truman to try to smear such a sterling character as Bob Taft.

The 38th Parallels

By Agnes E. Meyer

U. S. Urged to Cross Them All

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—"You Americans must cross the thirty-eighth parallel in Korea and all the other thirty-eighth parallels that exist the world over," said Ernst Reuter, Berlin's statesmanlike mayor, who has had more experience in successful restraint of Communist aggression than any other single public figure.

"If you show a positive will to resist Russian expansion you will be surprised to see how meek the Communists get. You cannot afford to wait and see what the beast will do next. If you had told the Russians when they blockaded Berlin, 'get out or else,' I am sure they would have withdrawn and you could have saved yourselves the whole costly heroism of the Berlin airlift.

"AFTER THE BLOCKADE was lifted you did not take sufficient advantage of the victory. You had won a battle but did not realize that you have to win a war. There is now the same danger in Korea. Americans must not let the elan which the Korean experience has given them ebb away. For decision and firmness are the only means to prevent total war. "I am not in favor of provocation or of a preventive war," continued Mayor Reuter. "But I am in favor of a stern policy. In the long run it is the only method of preventing war.

"I don't want to exaggerate the importance of our experiences in Berlin. But try to imagine what the effect would have been on the whole of western Europe if in 1948 we had said: 'We surrender.' The defence of our existence has had a decidedly encouraging effect upon the people of the east zone and a sobering effect upon the Russians.

"IF AMERICA NOW continues a positive program of Russian containment," said the mayor quietly but emphatically, "you can awaken Germany's will to resist. Success brings success. And what our Germans need to feel after so many disastrous mistakes is that this time they are going to be on the winning side.

"Your enormous strength must become a source of strength to all other Western nations. Soft speaking and diplomacy by themselves will not do the job. We, whose heads are in the lion's mouth, have found this out and that is why we see things with such clarity.

"In Germany rearmament and remilitarization must be carefully prepared. First you must send some American troops so that the Germans can realize that you mean business. For the big question that still haunts our minds here is this: Will the Western world really protect Berlin?

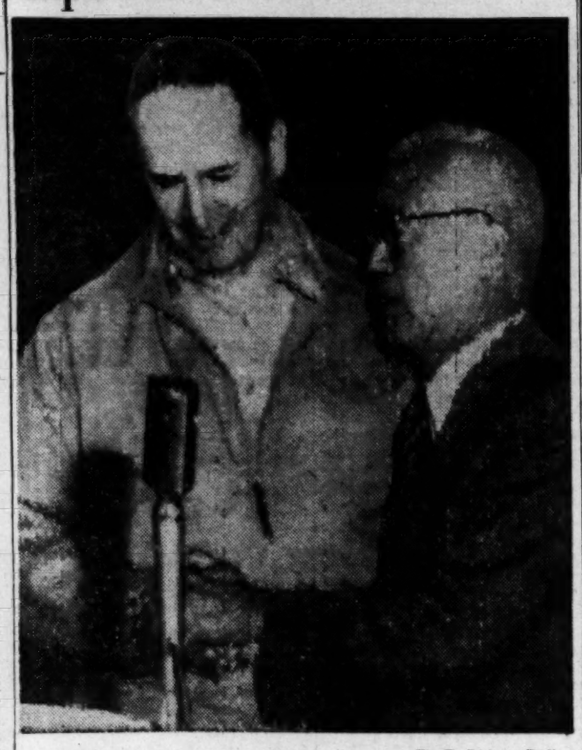
"GERMANY SHOULD never again have its own army. A European army should be created under a unified command. This must come into being and the sooner the better.

"The Allies in Berlin have the best possible relations to each other and with the Germans because here we live in constant danger. In the West Berlin sector we have never taken a provocative position. We have never preached hate. "In all of my speeches," said Mayor Reuter, "I have always emphasized the fact that we feel no resentment toward the Russian people."

"But our Berlin tactics and their results have proven that safety lies in firmness. Some of our own people sometimes said to me: 'You are crazy. But subsequent developments proved they were wrong.

"The dangerous people today are those without vision who do not realize that the whole world is in movement and that the status quo cannot be maintained," added Mayor Reuter. "These are the illusionists. In conclusion I should like to come back to my first statement. Cross the thirty-eighth parallel in Korea and everywhere else. Don't be led astray by the soft-spoken and soft-headed people. That is the road to disaster."

Capital Restored to Rhee



Via U. S. Army Radio

EXPRESSES GRATITUDE—Syngman Rhee, President of the Korean Republic, express his gratitude to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the United Nations forces at a ceremony restoring the seat of the Korean government to President Rhee. The ceremony took place at the capitol building in Seoul after a triumphal march through the city ported massing forces in the Chorwon area.

B29s also winged over North Korea today. They dropped 350 bombs on unspecified targets. Fighter planes strafed troops, trucks and buildings in Communist territory.

Light bombers raided Chinnampo, the port for Pyongyang.

The thirty-eighth parallel, originally the dividing line between American and Russian occupation forces at the time of the Japanese surrender five years ago, is not recognized by either side.

Both the United Nations-sponsored Korean Republic and the Soviet-sponsored Red regime always have claimed sovereignty over all Korea, but until the Red invasion of June 25, the parallel was a real, even though unrecognized, boundary.

Associated Press Correspondent Leif Erickson looked down on the east end of that line from an airplane Friday. He reported he saw Allied artillery shells hitting ridges almost exactly on the parallel.

The Reds, he said, apparently were trying to dig in along the line 4 or 5 miles south of Yangyang and about 2 miles inland from the Sea of Japan.

Erickson also said he saw an Allied cruiser and four destroyers idling close to shore where the line runs to the sea. The warships had the coastal highway under observation, but fired no shots while Erickson's plane circled several hours over the parallel.

General MacArthur, United Nations Supreme Commander, made no mention of crossing the line when he turned over liberated but devastated Seoul to Republican President Syngman Rhee in ceremonies in the capitol Friday.

(Well-informed sources in Washington said the South Korean halt for regrouping south of the parallel was regarded as a military action—not political.)

MacArthur emphasized that North Korean troops could surrender without fear of reprisals.

Rhee said justice would be meted out to war criminals and assured the people there would be no indiscriminate revenge. He said the republic would distinguish between tyrants and those impressed into service by the invaders.

Security officers found a cache of dynamite and a lead-wire in one of the balconies of the capitol's assembly chamber where the ceremony was held. It was dismantled. Officers said it was a last-minute attempt of the Reds to bring death to allied dignitaries at the ceremony.

After the ceremony, Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, United States Eighth Army commander, told correspondents that the Red army is smashed and "the war is over." He said the North Korean fighting force has "no real offensive power" left.

A Tenth Corps communique issued early Saturday said Red activity in the Seoul area was "confined to four small counterattacks," all of them repulsed.

The North Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang kept up its running theme, however, that Red troops are "repulsing overwhelmingly superior enemy forces in bitter inch-by-inch fighting" in Throughout South Korea, American troops smashed relentlessly at beaten Reds trying to escape from the death pocket formed by the now solid United Nations front.

The quick thrusts of American columns through territory recently held by the Reds resulted in the rescue of many American prisoners of war. In several instances, the rampaging armored columns arrived too late to prevent Communist atrocities.

At Taejon, Americans discovered the bodies of 400 South Korean civilians massacred by the Reds just before they pulled out.

There were fresh reports that Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, missing former commander of the U. S. Twenty-fourth Division, might still be alive.

Among 87 Americans rescued at Namwon just as North Koreans were preparing to kill them were some who had been told by a North Korean doctor that Dean was in charge of a prisoner of war camp in North Korea.

The U. S. Twenty-fifth, Twenty-fourth and First Cavalry Divisions spent a busy Friday surrounding and mopping up isolated Red units at widespread points throughout South Korea.

Hoffman Sees World Curbs On Prices

PARIS, Sept. 29 (NYHT).—Paul G. Hoffman, Marshall Plan administrator, predicted today that international controls may be applied to check commodity prices rising as a result of the Western arms program.

Sharp price rises on materials needed for rearmament already have prompted a French proposal for common controls, but Hoffman's mention of the possibility was the first indication the subject is under high-level consideration in Washington as well.

Action already has been taken independently by some governments to check the trend—for example, Germany has banned export of steel scrap, and France has applied total or partial bans on the export of steel, hides and leather, chemicals, meat and cotton yarn.

The E.C.A. Administrator mentioned as a successful example the international wheat agreement, which allocates wheat supplies and stipulates a price range on recommendation of both importing and exporting nations.

Hoffman's resignation as head of the Marshall Plan is effective midnight Saturday and a large part of a final press conference was an indication that the impact of rearmament of the western European economy and the pattern of the Marshall Plan still have not been fully estimated.

The objectives of the recovery program remain the same as they were before priority was shifted to defense, he said, and "we cannot neglect our other efforts" in the drive to build military security.

"The question is not bread or guns—there must and can be both," he said.

Allies Blame Russians for Austrian Riots

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 29 (AP). The Western Allies put the blame squarely on the Russians tonight for Communist disturbances which interrupted traffic between Vienna and the West this week.

The charge that the Russians "actively contributed to recent disorders and lawlessness" was made in the four-power control commission which watches over Austria.

Ostensibly the demonstrations and strikes Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday were in protest against the new Austrian government policy on prices and wages. The West charged, however, that the disorders were part of an overall attempt of the Communists to embarrass the Austrian coalition government and the Western Allies.

The demonstrations ended this morning.

Suffocation Seen As Causing Baby's Croup Tent Death

A 7-month-old baby who hospital officials said apparently suffocated in a croup tent was pronounced dead last night at Children's Hospital.

Hospital authorities said the child, Sharon Jones, was brought to Children's clinic by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones, 742 2d st. nw. Thursday night. A doctor told the parents the child was suffering from a cold and the croup and advised a croup tent and vaporizer as treatment.

The child was brought back to the hospital last night and pronounced dead on arrival. Besides apparent suffocation, the baby had second degree burns on both hands and the right shoulder, the hospital said.

Bills for Yank Voting Approved by Truman

President Truman yesterday signed two bills intended to facilitate absentee voting by servicemen.

One of the bills requires the armed forces to deliver absentee ballots to eligible servicemen, instead of just making them available. The other waives size and weight limitations on mailed ballots.

Suit Filed to Give Mahoney Md. Gubernatorial Nomination

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP).—A suit was filed here today asking that George P. Mahoney be given the Democratic gubernatorial nomination over Gov. W. Preston Lane, jr.

The suit attacked the legality of Maryland's unusual unit system of primary nominations and asked that portions of Maryland's election law be thrown out.

Governor Lane was renominated on the basis of official returns from the September 18 election by capturing 84 of the 152 votes under the unit system. But Mahoney outstripped Lane in the State-wide popular vote, 191,198 to 173,769.

The suit was filed in Baltimore's Court of Common Pleas, a branch of Circuit Court, in the name of Jane C. Wilson, of Baltimore.

It asked the court to invalidate sections of the election law that set up the fethod of nomination under the unit system — each county and each of the six Baltimore legislative districts having as many votes as they have members in the General Assembly.

Robert B. Ennis, chairman of the State Central Democratic Committee, called the action "just another political play to try to discolor the nomination which Governor Lane has obviously won under the election laws . . ."

Garrett County, the second to complete a recount initiated by Mahoney, remained in the Governor's column only by a margin of six votes.

The original canvass had given Lane a majority of 53 votes. In recounting, the county Board of Election Supervisors threw out a total of 119 ballots as void—83 for Lane and 36 for Mahoney.

Recounts are being conducted or will get under way in six other counties—Anne Arundel, Wicomico, Calvert, Howard, Dorchester and Queen Anne. A recount in Carroll left the county in Lane's column.

Separate court action was threatened in Annapolis where election board officials and tellers for Lane and Mahoney worked into the night.

Attorney George B. Woelfel, who represents Mahoney, said he probably would move to toss out the entire vote because of discrepancies and improper sealing and labeling of the voting cards.

Files from nine of the county's 19 polling places showed 9876 persons had voted, although 9900 names were entered on the poll books. The number of voting authority cards returned fell 10 short of the total vote in those precincts.

Frank T. Stockett, election board chairman, had said that some people apparently tired of waiting in line and left the polling places without turning in their cards.

Mahoney needs to swing at least two of the counties to his side in order to block Lane's nomination at the Democratic convention which is due to open here Monday.

D. C. Businessmen See First Televised Sales Conference

Businessmen in 18 cities, including Washington, witnessed the first television broadcast of a sales conference yesterday morning.

Transmitted over a closed circuit from the Dumont Ambassador Teletheater in New York City, the program was a visual presentation by Schenley Distributors, Inc. of its sales and advertising plans for 11 top liquor brands.

The Washington group, consisting of the liquor company's sales force here and the officials of its distributing firm for the Washington area, saw the program at Station WTTG. The program was described by Robert Kimelman, Schenley district manager, as "a televised national sales convention."

Sales Tax Relief Tops Md. GOP Platform

Sales tax relief and "honest election machinery" will be the spotlight planks in the Maryland Republican platform to be submitted by a drafting committee to the GOP State convention in its meeting in Baltimore today

The sales tax plank is expected to call for removal of the tax from all food, including restaurant meals, from purchases below 50 cents instead of those below 14 cents—the present law—from household remedies and baby oils and powders. The plank is also expected to say that any sales tax surpluses should be returned to the people via further easing of exemptions as part of a program looking toward eventual elimination of the levy.

we help our neighbors—young and old alike—we make them better able to be self-reliant fellow-citizens. And that is good for all of us. It knits the community more closely together, and strengthens our democratic way of life.

"This year the Community Chest needs your support more than even, because the Chest must meet emergency needs of the men and women in our Army, Navy, and Air Force.

"During the next year, we shall double the size of our armed forces. We shall need many new Community Chest activities to provide recreational facilities for tens of thousands of young men and women away from home for the first time. Every veteran remembers the fine work of the USO in this country and overseas, and knows how important this service is to young people far from their homes and families.

"And every man who goes into the service of his country will be glad to have the assurance that Red Feather agencies will be standing by, ready to help his family if illness or accidents strike while he is away from home.

"We must not hesitate when our Community Chest calls upon us this year for additional funds to help meet these needs. In a very real sense, our contributions will be for the national defense.

"Through your Red Feather campaign, I earnestly urge you to accept your responsibility toward your fellow citizens—the young ones growing up and needing intelligent guidance, those struggling with problems they cannot meet alone, the lonely and the aged, the sick and the handicapped. Add to them the young men and women in our Armed Forces, and you know how important it is to give—and give enough for all the services united under the banner of the Red Feather."

Cooperation Built New Church Here

Church cooperation paid off 100 percent in the case of the $70,000 Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran Church which will be dedicated Sunday.

One of the speakers at the 11 a. m. dedicatory service will be the Rev. H. M. Hennig, pastor-emeritus of the Trinity Lutheran Church, 501 4th st. nw., which "mothered" the establishment of the new church.

Trinity Church took the initial steps in developing the new mission and for more than three years gave it her full moral and financial support.

Later, Christ Lutheran Church, 5101 16th st. nw., came to its assistance in a remarkable way. It mortgaged its building to obtain a loan which was turned over to Bethlehem Church to complete its structure.

The new church is located at the corner of 16th and T sts. se.

The Rev. Eldor A. Cassens, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Baltimore, and a member of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Southeastern district of the Lutheran Church, will speak at the 4 p. m. service.

Ground for the church was broken in July, 1949, with actual construction starting last fall. The building program was directed by a committee including the Rev. Edgar C. Rakow, pastor; Ralph M. Gran, 6011 Branch ave., Camp Springs; Louis D. Malotky, 163 Gundry dr., Falls Church, and Harold E. Nelson, 1913 U pl. se.

Adoration Rites Set Thursday

Formal opening of the first city-wide Nocturnal Adoration Society in the Archdiocese of Washington will take place Thursday at 10 p. m., at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, 16th st. and Park rd. nw.

More than 600 men from the city's 37 parishes are expected to attend the service at which the Right Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, newly named national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, will preach.

Delegates will be enrolled as members by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington.

Thereafter, on each first Thursday eve of each month, the men will spend one hour before the altar asking the Deity to forgive sins committed against Him and the dignity of man, and begging God's blessings on church, nation, family, friends and neighbors. The hourly periods will be rotated from 10 p. m. Thursday to 6 a. m. Friday so that each man will have a different period to worship each month.

Chinese Church Holds Festival

William Klemm—The Washington Post.

Theologian to Speak At Bible Conference

Dr. Montgomery J. Shroyer, professor of biblical theology at the Westminister Theological Seminary, will be guest speaker at the Weekend Bible Conference, October 6-8, at Union Methodist Church, 814 20th st. nw.

Dr. Shroyer will give four messages on the Epistle to the Romans, rated by many as next to the gospels in importance in the Christian faith.

Christian Life To Be Stressed In New Project

Discussion groups on "Our Stake in the United Nations" will be one of the features of a School for Christian Living, a new venture to be launched Sunday at 5:30 p. m., at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.

Dr. Reuben G. Steinmeyer, professor of political science at Maryland University, will teach the United Nations group; Carl W. Tiller will lead discussions on "Basic Christian Beliefs," and Mrs. Idris Jones, wife of the associate pastor of the church, will head the class on "The Family Lives Its Religion."

Another school in Christian living will be held the first four Sunday evenings in October at Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Church, 1st st. and Rhode Island ave. nw. It will include a Fellowship Tea at 5:30 p. m., classes at 6:30 p. m. and evening worship at 7:30 p. m.

The Rev. John W. Beardslee, professor of Old and New Testament at George Washington University; Dr. Ralph S. John, chaplain at American University; and the Rev. W. Arnem Roberts, pastor of the church, will teach classes.

D. C. Prelate Will Receive Doctorate

ST. BONAVENTURE, N. Y., Sept. 29 (Spl.).—The Most Rev. Patrick J. McCormick, Auxiliary Bishop of Washington, and rector of Catholic University, will be among five persons to receive honorary doctorates at charter day ceremonies at St. Bonaventure University, October 4.

Others to be honored will be the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey; the Rev. Isidore O'Brien, OFM, noted Franciscan author and lecturer; and George E. Sokolsky, columnist and commentator.

St. Bonaventure received its university status from the N. Y. Board of Regents on July 21.

U. N. Flag Will Be Dedicated At St. Thomas' Church Sunday

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's church—appropriately enough—will be the scene Sunday of one of the first dedications of the United Nations flag in the Washington area.

The Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, minister, said it was the first dedication—as far as he knew—since the new regulations for the flag's use were issued last month.

One of the spectators at the event at 11 a. m., is expected to be Brooks B. Harding, a designer of the emblem. The ceremonies will be part of World Communion Sunday services at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, 1772 Church st. nw.

The Rev. Albert P. Shirkey, recently named pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, will be in his pulpit on October 22 . . . . Included in farewell gifts for the retiring minister, the Rev. John W. Rustin, was a check for $1500 from the Mount Vernon congregation; an album of records of the church's six choirs; and a leather-bound pulpit hymnal . . . . A clipping from last Monday's Nashville Tennessean reported that Dr. Rustin preached to an overflow crowd of 1200 at his first service in the Belmont Methodist Church there.

When Universalist lay leaders of both sexes meet here October 12-15, it will be the first occasion in the 180-year history of the church in which the laity has gathered without the clergy . . . . They will meet in the Universalist National Memorial Church, 1810 16th st. nw. . . . . Cyrus Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, will be the principal speaker at the monthly luncheon of the Lutheran Laymen's League, Thursday at 12:15 p. m. in the Ambassador Hotel. . . . . His topic will be, "Labor and Management Relationship." . . . . The Episcopal Hour, a new 14-week series of radio programs sponsored by the Episcopal Church, goes on the air Sunday at 8:30 a. m. over WINX and 135 other stations . . . . And the twenty-first season of broadcasts of the Washington Catholic Radio Hour resumes Sunday, over WWDC at 7:30 p. m.

Members of Calvary Methodist Church, 1459 Columbia rd. nw., are raising $1500 to equip a building in Belgian Congo being erected in honor of James Pottenger, a missionary whom the church sponsored. He died in June . . . . The Rev. Herbert L. Steinschneider, who for the past year was acting minister of the French Church of Washington, takes over as regular pastor Sunday . . . . The Wesley Methodist Church, Connecticut ave. and Jocelyn st. nw., will have two morning worships starting Sunday at 9:30 a. m. The other will be at the regular 11 a. m. hour.

Sunday Church Events . . .

The following events have been set for Sunday at 11 a.m., unless otherwise specified:

John Carroll Cornerstone Laying Sunday

Every Catholic parish in Washington will send delegations to attend the cornerstone-laying of the new $2,000,000 Archbishop John Carroll High School Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

Pastors and other members of the clergy also will attend the ceremonies at the school, located at 4300 Harewood rd. ne. Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle will lay the cornerstone. Others who will speak include the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John K. Cartwright, rector of St. Matthews Cathedral, representing the clergy, and William H. Collins, for the laity of the archdiocese.

The new high school is scheduled for completion in September, 1951. It is designed to accommodate about 1000 students and will have 21 classrooms and three science laboratories.

Included in the school will be laboratories for chemistry, physics and biology, a general science lecture room, a suite for bookkeeping studies, typing and office practice and a room for commercial art and drafting.

Also planned is a large auditorium, athletic field, gymnasium, administration offices, library, student chapel and living accommodations for the teaching staff, including a faculty chapel, dining room and library.

The building will be three stories in height and is laid out in the form of a T. It will be entirely of reinforced fireproof concrete construction, of modern design, and with a large cross at the top of the central tower.

The building is now about half finished and is on schedule. Final details of procurement and installation of equipment are now being worked out.

The faculty will be composed of Augustinian priests.

United Council Talks to Draw 3000 Women

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29 (Spl.).—More than 3000 women from over 70 Protestant communions are expected to attend the four-day National Assembly of the United Council of Churches here, November 13-16.

The assembly has been held every two years since 1941. Its aim this year is "to map a comprehensive community-centered and world-wide church program," according to Mrs. W. Murdoch MacLeod, executive secretary of the council.

The women will take up problems dealing with education and employment, housing and health, Christian evangelism and race relations as well as specific church problems in critical world areas, the executive secretary said.

D. C. Churches Face Physical Problems

An expert in church planning says more than 25 District churches—both Negro and white—face the next decade with the problem of either selling, relocating or disbanding.

John Halko, director of the Washington Federation of Churches' department of research and planning, estimated the transfer of property involved could amount to more than five million dollars.

The lean, quiet, 50-year-old student of church mechanics offered many reasons for the deterioration of the downtown church. For example:

"Just last week, a Negro Baptist church in Georgetown was compelled to relocate because of the restoration program rehabilitating the area for white occupancy. The church found itself without a congregation.

"The church bought the building of the white Lincoln Road Methodist Church, Lincoln rd. and Rhode Island ave. ne. The Lincoln Road Church, in turn, merged with the McKendree Methodist Church, South Dakota and Rhode Island aves. ne., because it found itself in the midst of a Negro community."

Halko said the churches that are fighting for their lives are located in transition areas.

Beside the racial shifts, there are nationalist and denominational changes which can alter the entire complexion of a community. There are economic reasons.

"A church once located among fine residences might find itself now among boarding houses and businesses," Halko said.

"In all cases, the church may not appeal to the new type of person in the area," Halko said. "Potential membership opportunities decrease with every member who moves away."

Halko said most churches have discovered that while older church members may retain their loyalty, their children attend neighborhood churches in the new location.

(This is the first of two articles on church deterioration. The second piece next Saturday will tell what churches are doing to combat the sociological trend.)

British Cleric Will Preach At Cathedral

The canon-treasurer of Chichester Cathedral, England, will be guest preacher at the 11 a. m. holy communion service in Washington Cathedral Sunday.

Canon Mortlock

He is the Rev. Charles Bernard Mortlock, also known as an authority on ecclesiastical architecture and art. His visit to the United States is being made under the auspices of the British Council of Churches and the Interchange Committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The 62-year-old rector also serves as chairman of the Actors' Church Union, which provides a chaplain for every theater and music hall in England.

Lutheran Convention Set Oct. 4-12

DES MOINES, Sept. 29 (Spl.). More than 600 laymen and pastors will attend the seventeenth biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America here October 4-12.

The delegates are the officially chosen representatives of the ULCA's 4150 congregations in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii. For nine days they will conduct sessions devoted to the life and work of the church's two million members.

The following local pastors are members of the 20-man delegation elected to represent United Lutheran Churches of the Maryland Synod. The Rev. Oscar F. Blackwelder, Lutheran Church of the Reformation; the Rev. L. Ralph Tabor, Luther Place Memorial Church, and the Rev. Paul L. Reaser, Atonement Lutheran Church. The synod is composed of congregations in Maryland and the District.

Official lay delegates are Fred W. Konemann, Luther Place; Thomas P. Hickman, Reformation, and Walter E. Hess, St. Luke Lutheran Church, Silver Spring. A number of other local persons will attend the convention as staff members of church agencies or as visitors.

Convention reports will be made by Dr. Tabor, president of the parish and church school board, Dr. Gould Wickey and Dr. David Bremer. Dr. Wickey and Dr. Bremer are executives of the United Lutheran Board of Education with offices in Washington. Dr. Blackwelder is a member of the executive board and Hickman is a member of the executive committee of the Laymen's Movement for Stewardship. Mr. Konemann is a member of the convention committee on nominations.

Catholic Charities Parley Set

The National Conference of Catholic Charities will hold its fortieth anniversary meeting here November 2-6 in joint session with the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will sponsor the meetings at the Hotel Statler. More than 1200 persons are expected to attend.

Edmond Borgia Butler, of New York, chairman of the Board of Directors, will preside, the Right Rev. Msgr. John O'Grady, secretary of the conference, announced.

Others participating in the conference will include Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York; the Right Rev. Edward E. Swanstrom, executive director, of National Catholic Welfare Council war relief services; and the Rev. Aloysius J. Wycislo, director of the National Catholic Resettlement Council for Displaced Persons.

"The National Conference will rededicate itself to the study of possibilities for and the actual resettlement of refugees and displaced persons in this country" Msg. O'Grady said. "Stress will also be placed on the Apostolate of Service in institutions for the aged, in hospitals of all types, in institutions for delinquents, in child-caring institutions."

Ethical Society Sessions Will Resume Sunday

Regular fall meetings of the Washington Ethical Society will resume Sunday, at 11 a. m., in Barker Hall, YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw., and are open to the public.

Dr. George Beauchamp, leader, will present the first of a series of lectures on "Foundations of the Democratic Faith."

At the annual business meeting this week, the following officers were elected: Leslie D. MacIntyre, president; Judge Clarence V. Opper, vice president; Gustave Auzenne, treasurer; Mrs. Hilda Kohn, recording secretary, and John P. Umbach, corresponding secretary.

Presbyterian Meeting

The Women of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., will hold their district meeting in the Presbyterian Church in Leesburg, Va., Wednesday at 10:15 a. m. The meeting theme will be, "Let Us Go forth From Our Knees for Christ: Pray, Evangelize, Give and Live."

Protestant Communion Slated Sunday

World-wide Communion will be observed in the Protestant churches of the area Sunday.

This is the eleventh year that local congregations seek to have entire memberships present at Communion tables.

Offerings taken in many churches will benefit world relief and interchurch aid. As in former years, a large number of Communion offerings will be allocated to the work of Church World Service, an interdenominational relief agency.

The observance is cosponsored by the Washington Federation of Churches and Councils of Churches throughout the world.

Fellowship Plans Open House Sunday

Open house will be observed Sunday from 3 to 7 p. m. by members of the Washington Fellowship, an interracial and interfaith organization, 1408 17th st. nw.

The fellowship, which sponsors monthly interracial and interfaith services, is marking the beginning of its seventh year.

Ministers on Air

The Church of the Air, sponsored by the Arlington Ministerial Union, will feature Sunday the Rev. Isaac Steenson, of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, over WARL, from 11 a. m. until noon, and the Rev. Glendale Burton, of the Wilson Boulevard Christian Church, over WEAM, from 11:30 a. m. until noon.

Passion Play Sets Record

OBERAMMERGRAU, Germany, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—The 1950 Passion Play, which closed yesterday, drew a record 510,000 persons from all over the world, officials announced today.

Methodist Conference Slated Oct. 3-5

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 29 (Spl.). The Methodist Church is calling its 570 district superintendents together for a national conference here, October 3-5. Also expected to attend are the denomination's 35 active bishops in the United States, board executives, editors of church periodicals and other officials.

Among those from this area who will attend are Bishop Charles W. Flint and the Rev. Fred C. Reynolds and the Rev. John C. Millian, both district superintendents.

Dual purpose of the meeting will be to hear reports on achievements during the first two years of "Advance for Christ and His Church" program and to map strategy for the next two years.

Catholics Plan Crusade for World Peace

Catholics the world over this week are planning their answer to the Communists' so-called "Stockholm Peace Appeal."

Millions of Catholics will participate in a world-wide "Crusade of Prayer for World Peace" from Thursday through Friday, October 13.

Prayers also will be said for conversion of Soviet leaders to Christianity and for the safety of prisoners of the Communists.

The crusade, sponsored by the Catholic War Veterans of the United States, will include special novenas for peace to be conducted at 15 religious shrines on six continents throughout the period.

These range from St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome to the Siebo no Kishi shrine in Nagasaki, Japan.

In the United States they will be held at Our Lady of Sorrows, Chicago, and Marytown, Kenosha, Wis.

Simultaneously, other special prayer services for peace will be conducted in other Catholic places of worship in scores of countries, including some behind the Iron Curtain.

Donald J. McQuade of Toledo, Ohio, national commander of the Catholic War Veterans, appealed to persons of other faiths to join with Catholics in praying to God for peace at this critical time in world history.

He said October 13 was selected as the closing date of the crusade because it is the 33d anniversary of the fifth and final apparition of the Blessed Virgin to three peasant children near Fatima, Portugal.

General chairman of the crusade is Brother Marion Chudy, O. F. M., with headquarters at the Franciscan Monastery, Marytown, Kenosha, Wis.

Binaggio Political Influence Denied

Smith if he had any statement to make.

No One 'Approached' Him

The governor replied:

"I would like to say since I've been governor, I have never been approached either directly or indirectly by anyone to lessen law enforcement. I think Missouri is freer of organized crime since I have been governor than it has been in years. I think actions speak louder than idle talk. . . . It just hasn't happened. As long as I'm governor of Missouri, all the laws will be honestly and fearlessly enforced."

Earlier in the day the committee had delved into contributions for the governor's 1948 campaign fund.

John Hendren, former State Democratic Committee chairman, testified he had no personal knowledge of any underworld contributions.

Asked about a report Binaggio had made a $150,000 contribution to Smith's campaign, Hendren replied that "I never knew of any such campaign fund."

B. E. Ragland, Jefferson City, former assistant treasurer for the committee, testified Hendren had ordered contributions totaling $6235 entered into the 1948 campaign accounts under the fictitious name of "J. J. Price."

He said the $6235 was part of $10,385 for which no record of the identities of the contributors was kept.

GOV. FORREST SMITH

Rudolph Halley, committee counsel, asked Ragland:

"You knew when this money was turned over to you that the name J. J. Price was fictitious?

"Yes, sir," Ragland replied.

Later, George White, a committee investigator, testified he had gone over the campaign accounts.

"I asked Ragland who 'J. J. Price was and he told me it was a fictitious name to cover money handed him by Hendren," White replied. "At the instructions of Hendren the name of J. J. Price was used and Ragland said he did not inquire as to the identities of the persons who gave the money and had no knowledge of their identities."

White testified that he had found no underworld characters listed as contributors.

Ragland said most of the employes in the office of the State auditor, who then was Smith, had voluntarily contributed one half of their monthly salaries toward the Smith campaign.

Governor Smith, asked about that fund, said he understood it was 2 percent of the monthly salary and that 1 percent went to the Democratic State Committee.

The Governor said it had been a custom for many years and denied that contributions to the fund was compulsory.

Terps Sail Into Navy In New Plant Today

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

On the freshly planted sod of its new million-dollar stadium, Maryland sails into Navy at 2 p. m. today before 43,000 spectators, the largest crowd ever to watch a football game in the area.

The twelfth renewal of the 45-year-old rivalry features the ceremonies dedicating the fancy, modern athletic plant which will be named in honor of the University's president, Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd.

JACK SCARBATH

BOB ZASTROW

The game has been a sellout for ten days. Included in the capacity crowd will be the corps of 3700 naval midshipmen; Adm. Forest Sherman, chief of naval operations; Secretary of Navy Francis Matthews and other leading Federal and State government officials.

Although the Midshipmen hold a commanding 10-1 edge in the series which has been dormant since 1934, Maryland is a one-touchdown favorite to bounce back from its defeat by Georgia last week and spoil the season's opener for the Annapolis footballers. This observer picks it Maryland 20, Navy 7.

What Navy's plans are, other than beating Maryland, are a deep secret. The Middies' new coach, 36-year-old Eddie Erdelatz, has practiced his 39-man squad behind closed doors all fall and few know the real strength, or weakness, of Erdelatz's "secret sailors."

If Erdelatz sticks to his starting lineup, Navy will field 10 veterans and one sophomore, a lineman, against a practically all-veteran Maryland team.

One thing Erdelatz hasn't been able to hide is the ability of Quarterback Boz Zastrow, Navy's air arm from Algoma, Wis.

The 210-pound passing star was good enough to make the All-America third team last year as a sophomore and is sure to be the big wheel of Navy's running and passing game.

Supporting Zastrow in the Navy backfield will be 175-pound Halfbacks Frankie Hauff and Art Sundry and 170-pound Fullback Dave Bannerman, all veterans of Navy's slim 1949 season which saw only three victories and a coaching change, Erdelatz of the San Francisco 49ers, for George Sauer. Haubb and Bannerman were Navy's leading ground gainers last year.

Dave Fischer, line star of the Middies, unbeaten Plebes last year, has moved into a regular job at guard, the only non-veteran on Navy's probable starting lineup.

Navy's line, which faded in the face of opposition as supplied by Southern California, Wisconsin, Army and Notre Dame last year, got a questionable amount of help yesterday when doctors pronounced Tackle Jim Hunt fit to play.

The 215-pound tackle was scalded by a hot shower and hasn't practiced for two weeks. He was dismissed from the infirmary and took a light workout with the team at Annapolis in its final tuneup for today's opener.

Navy's offense is expected to be designed along the lines of that employed by the Frisco '49ers, where Erdelatz was end coach for two years before coming to Annapolis.

If so, Maryland will have to stop Zastrow's running as well as his passing. The '49er offense features Quarterback Frankie Albert on well-executed quarterback sneaks as well as pitching. And Albert was at Annapolis for two weeks this spring giving Zastrow and the other Navy quarterback a radical departure for Penn State, one of the old-line single wing teams. Top quarterback is Vince O'Bara and the Hoyas are expected to see some flashy running by little Earle Mundell, latest in a long line of scatbacks. The flashy Negro, former Pennsylvania scho-

New Stadium Ceremonies Start 12:45

Ceremonies dedicating Maryland University's $1,000,000 stadium begin at 12:45 today, one hour and 15 minutes before the kickoff between the Navy and Terps.

Judge William Cole, jr., chairman of the university board of regents, will preside.

Short speeches will be made by Maryland Governor William Preston Lane, Vice Admiral Harry Hill, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, and Fred Stone, president of the Maryland Student Government Association.

The stadium will be formally named Byrd Stadium in honor of the University's president and former football coach, Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd.

The Midshipmen enter the field from their 82 buses at 12:45 p. m. The teams take the field at 1:30 for 30 minutes of pregame practice.

Best Way to Get To Terps-Navy Game

The best way for Washington motorists to drive to Byrd Stadium in College Park for the Maryland-Navy game today is to go out New Hampshire ave. nw., to University la. This leads directly to the parking lots adjoining the stadium.

Lemon Beats Detroit, 12-2, On 6-Hitter For 23d Win

DETROIT, Sept. 29 (AP).—The New York Yankees clinched the 1950 American League pennant totday when the Cleveland Indians rocked Detroit 12-2, behind Bob Lomon's six-hit pitching and eliminated the Tigers from the flag chase.

The Yankees won their second straight and the 17th American League championship without lifting a bat, as they had an off day at Boston where they finish the season with single games tomorrow and Sunday.

The best-of-seven game World Series will begin in the home park of the National League team next Wednesday.

Since the big series was inaugurated in 1903, the Yankees have won the world title 11 times.

Detroit has two more games with Cleveland, but today's defeat left the Tigers three full games back of the Yankees. The season ends Sunday.

Tribe Slams 4 Tiger Pitchers

The Indians backed him up with a devastating onslaught on four Tiger pitchers. They scored in six different innings with Jim Hegan and Dale Mitchell each contributing a home run to the complete rout.

The defeat ended a terrific uphill struggle for the Tigers.

It would have taken a sweep of the three-game Cleveland series coupled with a double setback for the Yankees at Boston to get the Detroiters a tie, forcing a playoff.

As things stand now, the Tigers will have to fight off a last-minute rush by the Boston Red Sox to hold on to the runner-up spot.

Gray Loses Again to Lemon

Little Teddy Gray, who lost a heart-breaking 2-1 decision to Lemon Sunday, was the loser again today but this time it wasn't even close.

Gray held the Indians hitless through two innings, but they pushed over a run in the third to tie the score as Roberto Avila opened Cleveland's 15-hit barrage with a long double.

That was just the start of a long disappointing afternoon for 9814 who saw the Indians pummel Gray and his three successors almost at will. Cleveland wrapped up the game in a big four-hit, three-run fifth inning which boomed them into a 5-1 lead. It was all over then and the Tigers played as if they knew it.

It was the Indians' fourth straight triumph over the Tigers who dropped three straight decisions at Cleveland last week.

Bums Can Tie By Upending Whiz Kids in Last 2 Games

By Gayle Talbot

BROOKLYN, Sept. 29 (AP).—The Dodgers came off the floor twice today to out-claw the Boston Braves in both games of a doubleheader at Ebbits Field, 7-5 and 7-6, and keep their pennant hopes flickering.

If they can capsize the Philadelphia Phillies both tomorrow and in the final game of the campaign on Sunday the two clubs will finish in a dead tie for the National League flag. Only 11 days ago the Dodgers were nine games out of first place.

Meyer Punches Cameraman

A group of Phils, enjoying an off-day prior to their climatic pair of jousts with the Brooks, sat in a box near third base today and died slowly as the home club fought from behind to win twice and deprive them of the victory which appeared to be in their grasp.

One Phillie pitcher, Russ Meyer, took a couple of punches at a photographer who insisted on snapping him while the Dodgers were scoring five runs in the eighth inning to win the first game.

It looked as though it was all over when the Dodgers went into the eighth inning of the first game trailing by 2 to 5, and with Max Surkont of the Braves mowing them down methodically.

Errors Start Big Rally

With two down and the bases filled, the dike suddenly broke. Earl Torgeson and Gene Mauch of the Braves committed glaring errors on ground balls at first and second, and before the panic subsided the Brooks had poured five unearned runs across and had sewed up the decision.

The Bostons started out to win the second behind their 19-game winner, Vern Bickford. They piled into Chris Van Cuyk, the huge Brooklyn rookie, for a 4-1 lead and slammed him from the box in the third inning. Again the issue seemed to have settled.

In the fourth, Roy Campanella pounded his thirtieth home run into the left stands with Gil Hodges aboard to narrow the gap but the Braves came right back with a pair in the fifth as Third Baseman Billy Cox of the Dodgers made a two-base overthrow of first.

A three-run sixth inning off Bickford tied it up at 6-6. Campanella again providing the key blow with a double to right as a chilled crowd of 5843 rent the evening air over Flatbush. Jackie

Ratterman Tosses 4 Scores As YanksRomp

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—George Ratterman and Sherman Howard combined tonight to give the New York Yanks a 44-21 victoy over the Detroit Lions in a National Football League game at the Polo Grounds.

Ratterman set a hat full of club records. In all, he tossed 28 passes and completed 15 for 264 yards, and four heaves resulted in touchdowns.

In contrast, Bobby Lane of the Lions, pressed all the way and once downed behind his own goal line for a safety, completed 10 of 30 that gained 118 yards. None went for a touchdown.

The game was played before 12,482 in the Polo Grounds instead of Yankee Stadium to keep intact the turf where the American League half of the coming World Series will be played.

Howard, a third-string halfback, romped for three markers. One of his tallies came on an 89-yard kickoff return.

Ratterman tossed 21 yards to George Taliaferro for the first touchdown marker and found Howard twice for 37 and 31-yard scores before the first half ended with the Yanks in front, 21 to 7. A few plays later Bob Smith intercepted a Ratterman toss and romped 35 yards for the Lions' first score.

In the third quarter Ratterman flung one scoring pass to Jack Russell and Taliafero got his second on a four-yard buck.

Layne's passes in the fourth period set up two touchdowns, one by Doak Walker and the other by Lin Pearson.

The loss was the first of the season for Detroit after two victories.

15,000 Watch Davis Lead GW Victory

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

George Washington University snapped back from its defeat at Virginia a week ago to upset VMI 15-12, last night in Alexandria's first collegiate football game as 15,000 looked on.

It was GW's first victory over they Keydets in their seven-game series dating back to 1897 and it was accomplished on the passing and running of Handy Andy Davis, with help by Bob Cilento, Bino Barreira and Charlie Jones.

After Chuck Dininger, a reserve halfback, cracked GW's line on a spectacular 90-yard touchdown run in the first quarter, the Colonials stopped VMI's heralded "True T". In the second half, the Keydets abandoned the attack which gained them a surprise 25-19 win over William and Mary last week.

Davis' passing engineered GW's first scoring drive of 82 yards with 5 foot, 6 inch Barreira, a soph playing his first varsity game, slipping over from the one. That made it 6-6.

GW Recovers Fumble

Early in the second period, Dave Shiver fell on a fumble by VMI's Jim Coley, 20 yards from the Keydet goal line, and Davis promptly passed to Jones for another GW touchdown. John Shullenbarger, who missed after the first touchdown, converted after the second, and the Colonials led, 13-6.

That was all GW needed, it developed later. VMI came back for its second touchdown just before half time with a drive of 53 yards.

Joe Stump, 192 pound fullback, picked up most of the yardage with powerful end sweeps after he caught passes from Quarterback Coley. With the ball on GW four, Coley ran around right end to score.

Graft Misses Again

Bill Graf's second placement try, like his first, was low.

For good measure, GW added a safety in the third quarter to boost its lead to 15-12. It happened when Shullenbarger pinned the Keydets back to their 22 with a 50-yard punt, and a holding penalty pushed them farther back to the seven.

Coley aimed a lateral pass at stump in the end zone, but the ball bounded away, and Coley fell on it to give the Colonials their last two points.

It was a spectacular game with GW advancing deep into VMI territory two other times before sputtering out on the six-inch line. In the closing minutes, VMI missed a golden opportunity to pull the game out when Coley, on the Colonials' 20, spotted End Jay Grumbling clear in the end zone.

Grumbling clutched the ball, lost his balance, and dropped the

Hoyas, 14-Point Underdogs, Go Against Penn State Today

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 29.—Georgetown opens its 1950 football campaign here tomorrow against Penn State in the familiar role of underdog. The official line gives the Hoyas 14 points in its first meeting in history with State.

Georgetown's 40-man squad arrived late this afternoon and donned only sweat suits for a light workout on beautifully manicured Beaver Field.

Penn State's stadium seats 30,000 but only about 20,00 are expected for tomorrow's 2 p.m. kickoff. Cloudy and warm weather is forecast.

Coach Charles A. (Rip) Engle, making his debut at State after a highly successful season at Brown, is wincing over the odds.

Engle said, "I didn't even know we were favored. We shouldn't be in my book. "If Bob Margarita's team is as good as it was last year, I think Georgetown should be the favorite. And I'm afraid Bob's club will be better."

Engle's winged-T offense is a

Papit Hurt But Will Play

Pennsylvania 3-Point Choice To Defeat Virginia Today

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Pennsylvania was a three-point favorite to lick Virginia tomorrow and avenge last year's 28-14 licking the Cavaliers dealt them on Franklin Field.

Coach George Munger's Quakers, who will be opening their season, are at full strength for the battle, but not the Cavaliers.

Fullback Johnny Papit, the Nation's second leading ground gainer last year and a Philadelphian, and Bob Weir, a standout defensive end, are both suffering with knee injuries. Papit is expected to play, but Weir is doubtful.

Rufus Barkley, a defensive player last year who called a perfect game in the course of the Cavaliers' 19-0 win over George Washington, will be at quarterback; Steve Osisek and Sophomore Gerald Furst at the halfbacks and Sophomore Harold Hoak at fullback.

Most of the Penn players will be familiar to the Virginia athletes who saw service last year. Tailback Francis (Reds) Bagnall completed 12 of 27 passes last fall to account for 159 yards. He gained 47 on the ground. Billy Rhoads, a speedy wingback, was held to a net gain of 39 yards. Munger's fullback may be Alan Carbo, who understudied Ray Deuber last year. Warren Horton probably will start at blocking back, although Dave Coulson, also a letter winner in 1949, has been challenging him for the job.

A crowd of 55,000 is expected to be on hand for the 2 p. m. kickoff.

Watching Bums Cut Lead

'Fighting' Phils Take It Out on Cameramen

By Red Smith

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (NYHT).—Black Friday in Brooklyn dawned gray and miserable, and when the double-header started there were approximately as many people in Ebbits Field as you'd see at a popular funeral.

RED SMITH

Judging from the sparse crowd that showed up to see the Dodgers cast the National League baseball championship, morbid curiosity is on the decline in the Borough of Churches.

This was the Dodgers' third double-header in three days, and considering the anguish they had experienced salvaging two of their four games with the Braves on Wednesday and yesterday, it was taken for granted that Boston would grind away the last fragment of Brooklyn's pennant prospects during this dismal afternoon.

In fact, the betting was that the Dodgers would cast their championship out of sight with great celerity, possibly setting course records for both speed and distance.

Among those present were sundry members of the Phillies, who crossed the river on an off-day to see the title flung into their laps, and a full phalanx of four umpires, on hand to make sure the flinging would be formal, legal and official.

GRAY MIST made a pall over the playground, and promptly at 2:15 p. m. it began to settle toward the field itself. That was the moment of the fourth inning when Bob Elliott scored for Boston on an infield grounder by Del Crandall, putting the Braves ahead, 3 to 2.

Max Surkont, who formerly pitched for the Cardinals and went to the minors for retreading on his way to Boston, had allowed Brooklyn a pair of runs in the first inning and nothing thereafter.

As the innings crept by with the Braves still in front, a stiffness not unlike rigor mortis set in. The closest approach to excitement was made when a fan upstairs took umbrage at the jeers of Mr. Herman Edelson, a deep-chested character whose hobby is deriding the Dodgers.

For a hopeful minute or so there was promise of a bout between Mr. Edelson and his vis-a-vis but some peacemaker horned in and a grisly quiet was restored.

When Dodger fans stood up for the seventh inning, Miss Gladys Gooding, who can usually be counted on to play something suitable on the organ, came up with a noncommittal "In My Adobe Hacienda."

THE DODGERS filled the bases for Jackie Robinson in that inning and Jackie popped up. A girl fan wearing a Brooklyn cap and carrying a Dodger pennant got up and departed.

At 3:40 p. m. Tommy Holmes drove another nail into the coffin. He doubled Boston's fourth home run in the eighth inning. At 3:42 Bob Elliott slammed down the lid. He came home on a fly and made the score 5 to 2.

With two out and Carl Furillo on base in the Brooklyn eighth, Billy Cox doubled. Russ Meyer, the Phillies' somewhat theatrical pitcher, was crouching in a box seat beyond third base. He shuddered and flung his arms wide, as though crucified. photographers began shooting pictures from behind him.

As Surkont worked on Cal Abrams, a pinch-batter, Meyer buried his face in his hands. Abrams walked and the bases were full. The Dodgers were dying but their death scene was getting longer than Walter Hampden's in "Cyrano de Bergerac." Meyer hammered his brow with a clenched fist.

PEE WEE REESE tapped a ground ball feebly toward first base. It looked like Brooklyn's last gasp. Meyer leaped to his feet. Torgeson fumbled the ball horribly and a run scored, leaving the bases still full.

Meyer wheeled, charged up the aisle and took a swing at a photographer. An usher parted them and Meyer returned to his seat. More photographers, a valorous breed, gathered behind him and blazed away.

Meyer sank lower and lower in his seat, restraining his histrionic impulses, as Gene Hermanski knocked out Surkont with a two-run single that tied the score. It was 3:55 and the Dodgers were back among the living.

A gruesome muff by Gene Mauch, the Boston second baseman, let another run across the plate. An infield single by Robinson refilled the bases, and a dribbling single by Furillo batted home still another score before the inning ended.

Brooklyn led, 7 to 5. Out in the left field stands beyond Meyer's box, Mike Goliat, the Phillies' second baseman, made threatening gestures at a photographer. No damage was done.

THE DODGERS won the first game, 7-6. Here and there in the stands, members of the Phillies stood up and headed for the exits. Brooklyn fans fluttered handkerchiefs at them, taunting them.

Jubilantly, Miss Godding played, "Seems Like Old Times," and followed with "Let's Do This More Often."

The photographers swatted at Meyer, Mr. Bert Brandt of Acme Pictures, reported cheerfully:

"He told me, 'Take another picture of me and I'll smack you.' So I took another picture. So he smacked me."

Mr. Brandt's attitude coincided with that of the Phillies after Brooklyn won the second game, too. C'est la guerre, that is.

O'Neill Grabs Toss to Make It 12 to 12

By Bill Gilbert

Eastern's Ramblers, rated as the team to beat for the Interhigh League championship, roared 61 yards to a touchdown late in the fourth quarter to tie Anacostia, 12-12, yesterday at Eastern.

An 8-yard pass from Jimmy Sullivan to Danny O'Neill with 13 seconds remaining climaxed the drive and saved the Ramblers from defeat in their second league game. They defeated Chamberlain, 20-0, Monday.

Eastern began its desperation march following the kickoff after Anacostia's second touchdown. A third-down pass by Sullivan was incomplete, but interference was called against the Indians, giving Eastern a first down on the Anacostia 45-yard line.

After Sullivan missed three straight passes, Ralph Sita hit big Don Prinder for a first down on the Anacostia nine. Sullivan passed to O'Neill for the score three plays later.

Dave Keys missed a chance to put Eastern ahead when his attempted conversion from placement hit the goal post and bounced off to the side.

After a scoreless first quarter, Eastern scored on the second play of the second period when O'Neill went off tackle from 12 yards out for the touchdown, climaxing a 59-yard drive. O'Neill was stopped on his plunge trying for the conversion.

The Indians tied it up at 6-6 early in the last quarter on a 60-yard march climaxed by Bob Chatlin's 6-yard run through the middle.

Anacostia cashed in on a break and went ahead, 12-6, 11 days later. Keys, back to punt for Eastern, couldn't reach a wild pass from center. The Anacostia line pounced on the ball on the Eastern 4.

Richard Grimes drove to the one, but Eastern End Richie Ward stole the ball and romped 99 yards to the Anacostia end zone. The play was called back, however, when officials ruled Grimes' forward motion had stopped on the one.

On fourth down, still on the one, Chatlin, the best back on the field, passed to Bernie Terry, who caught the ball on the goal line and stepped over.

Coolidge Has It Easy With Chamberlain

By Morton King

The Coolidge Colts yesterday defeated Chamberlain, 19-6, in their inter-high opener at Roosevelt Stadium. It was the second loss for Chamberlain.

Coolidge's first score came when Halfback Arnie Tranen plunged over from the 1-yard line in the first period. Ted David gave them another in the second quarter with a 3-yard buck over center. Tranen ran over the extra point.

Stan Rochinsky scored for Chamberlain after the half with a 50-yard runback of Coolidge's punt. Warren Brown of the Colts blocked Al Lowe's attempted placement.

Late in the final period Pat Padgett of Coolidge drove for 1 yard through the Chamberlain line as the game ended, 19-6.

Dropo's Hit In 9th Beats Nats, 7 to 6

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The Nats couldn't stand prosperity today after taking a quick 4-0 lead and finally succumbed to the Red Sox, 7-6, when Walt Dropo blasted a terrific ninth-inning triple to drive home the winning run.

Walt Masterson, former Nats' hurler, and Lefty Bob Kuzava started the game before a gathering of 2168, smallest of the season at Fenway Park. Neither was around at the finish.

Masterson was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the third after having given up four runs, three of them home run blasts into the left field nets by Eddie Yost in the first inning, and Sam Mele and Cass Michaels in the second.

Mickey Harris, who relieved Kuzava in the eighth, was charged with the loss when he permitted Stephens to single with one away in the bottom of the ninth and then watched Dropo's triple win the game.

Bullis Hands GW Frosh 1st Loss Since '48

Two long runs early in the fourth quarter by Leo Speros, 210-pound fullback, sparked Bullis to a 26-7 victory over the George Washington freshman football team at the victors' field yesterday.

The triumph was the second in two starts for Bullis, while the Colonials, playing their season-opener, dropped their first game since 1948.

With the score tied 7-7, Speros cut inside left end on his own 38 and went 62 yards down the sidelines to put Bullis ahead. A key block by End Jim Byrom on the Colonial 20-yard line cleared the way.

Minutes later the 18-year-old speedster went 44 yards to the George Washington 12 on the same type play. After Halfback Bill Henderson bulled to the 6-yard line, Speros went the rest of the way in two tries.

Ray Fox's passes were the losers' chief offensive threat throughout, and it was his aerial to Larry White, good for 52 yards, which gave the Colonials their only touchdown in the third quarter.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 29.—Cardozo High of Washington, D. C., opened its football season here today with a 6-0 victory over Douglas High.

Post Cameramen And Writers Again Cover Big Games

THE WASHINGTON POST'S staff writers and photographers will again be busy this weekend on major football games, bringing to Post readers the customarily dominant coverage by story and pictures.

Navy's appearance at College Park to help dedicate Maryland's new stadium will be reported by Morris Siegel and Bus Ham.

Herb Heft will do Virginia's game with Penn in Philadelphia.

Jack Walsh will cover Georgetown's opener at Penn State.

When the Redskins play their first game at home Sunday with Pittsburgh, the Siegel-Ham team will again be on the job.

Reynard Leads Devitt Over Bell, 18-0

A strong and more experienced Devitt Prep football team—whose line average was 192 pounds—yesterday defeated Bell Vocational High School, 18-0, at Hearst.

George Reynard, Devitt quarterback, led the way, having a hand in all three of their touchdowns. After marching 40 yards the first time they had possession of the ball, Reynard took the ball over on a quarterback sneak from the 1-yard line.

About midway through the second quarter Reynard passed to Tailback Raymond Luckett, who scampered 35 yards for the second tally.

On the 4-yard line, after a march from their own 40, Reynard again took part in a touchdown play. This time it was a hand-off to Albert Rudder who went through the center of the line to rack up the final touchdown.

Charlotte Hall Wins On Garner's Passes

Quarterback Larry Garner passed Charlotte Hall to a 19-6 victory over Fairfax High at Fairfax last night, tossing three touchdown passes and another for an extra point.

Garner passed 40 yards to Bill Keen in the second quarter for the first touchdown. Then, moments later, he passed eight yards to Howard Flook for the second. In the final quarter, he threw another pass to Flook good for 43 yards and a touchdown. He passed to John Temple for the extra point. Fairfax's lone score came in the second quarter when John Saffer passed to Terry Tannon for a 30-yard touchdown.

Howard Plays Virginia State

Howard's Coach Eddie Jackson will have to reckon with one of his former players, Oliver (Bubbles) Ellis, when the Bisons meet West Virginia State College today in their home opener at 2 p. m.

Last week against Virginia Union, Ellis figured in four touchdowns as West Virginia State routed Union, 41-0.

Navy Tackles Terps Today

backs the benefit of his acknowledged know-how.

While Navy had three scouts at Athens last week to see Maryland receive a 27-7 face-slapping by underrated Georgia, the Terps have little idea of what to expect from Navy. And this disadvantage has Maryland Coach Jim Tatum upset more than somewhat.

"We're confident," were Tatum's last words as he shepherded his 43-man squad to Ritchie Coliseum and gave them their customary apple before tucking them in bed.

With Scarbath established as the regular Maryland quarterback, the Terps will depend on two trusted halfbacks to help him carry out Maryland's split-T offense. Shoo-Shoo Shemonski, the breakaway runner, will be at left-half while the pile-driving, five-yards-a-clip Mighty Mo Modzelewski will be at right-half. Both are juniors.

Up front, the solid Maryland line remains the same: Elmer Wingate and Pete Augsburger are at ends, Co-Captain Ray Krouse and Chet Gierula at tackles, Bobby Ward and John Troha at guards and Jake Rowden at center.

The Maryland line will outweigh Navy's about 14 pounds per man,

Police Boys' Club Plays Four Today

Four games are scheduled today in the second round of the city-wide Metropolitan Police Boys' Club Football League on the Fairlawn Field in Anacostia.

Club No. 11, undefeated in 10 games over a period starting with last fall, will seek to keep its record clear in a 120-pound game with Club No. 10 at 11 o'clock.

In afternoon 140-pound tussles, Club No. 10, the defending title-holders, meets Club No. 11 at 2:30 p. m., and at the same time Clubs Nos. 4 and 5 will clash.

Hoyas Face Penn State

la.tic spring champ, is only 5-foot-4 and 155 pounds.

An all-new backfield will start for Georgetown. Captain Tommy Hardiman, defensive safety man last season, will be at quarterback: Sophs Art Gulla and Gino Paglucia at left half and fullback and Terry Murphy, junior used sparingly last year, at right half.

Offensive ends starting will be Gus Fornaciari and Dick Losh; Tackles Jim Schenk and Bob Noppinger; Guards Jack Schuster and Mike Carra and Center Bob Keller.

On defense it will be Ends Harry Schmitt and Joe Pallotta (who also will punt); Tackles Jack McCarthy and Jack Dunn; Guards Joe Quiring and John McGinn and Center Jim Slowey. Hardiman will be at safety; Bob Versprille and Bugs Thompson, defensive halfbacks, and Bill Fisher, line backer.

Dodgers Keep Flag Hopes Alive

DODGERS—From Pg. 10

Robinson, first up for the Dodgers in the seventh, wrapped it up with his fourteenth homer of the year into the left field seats.

Bickford, who was making his sixth unsuccessful effort to win No. 20, exited after Robinson's blow, and Bob Hogue and Surkont stopped the Brooks cold from there on. But it was too late. Carl Erskine, the third Brooklyn pitcher, held the Braves to two hits in the last three frames.

Don Newcombe made a brief but extremely effective appearance to insure victory for the Dodgers in the first game. He was rushed into relieve Rookie Mal Malette after the Braves rapped two successive singles in the ninth with one away. The huge Negro speedballer threw one ball, and Bob Elliott smashed it to third base to start a game-ending double play.

Imacomin, Pincher Clash in Bowie Opening Today

14 Sprinters Run in First Handicap

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Fourteen sprinters were named over night for the $7500 added Rowe Memorial handicap featuring today's opening program at Bowie. Racing Secretary John Turner was fortunate in having both his highweight horses answer the entry call yesterday. That means that the Brookfield Stable's Imacomin and Henry H. Hecht's The Pincher are practically assured meeting in the all-ages clash.

Imacomin is the likely favorite in the rather bulky field for the reason that the Brookfield flash has shown the mostest the most recentest. However, The Pincher, away from the races since August at Monmouth Park, has a knack of running his best after a rest.

He turned in two straight victories at Havre de Grace before going into decline until Monmouth where he won two in a row. Trainer George Mohr is reported to have him fit for today's effort.

Imacomin must carry 122 pounds and The Pincher totes 120. Owners and trainers of some of the lightweighted horses believe their charges are due respect. For instance, H. G. Bedwell's Supper Date won at Rockingham and then tranferred his winning ways to Narragansett to make it three in a row.

The minor track fans will be rootin' and bettin' G. S. Gladney's Bernie Moose, the 3-year-old bred by Dr. H. B. Langdon at Charles Town. The son of Bull Mose has won seven races this season and his earnings are now at a respectable $16,250.

Post time for the first race is 1:30 p. m. with the daily double on the first and second races as usual, closing fifteen minutes earlier.

Bill Bennings

Dear Folks:

AT BOWIE

Good time, Marlboro—better time, Bowie. Looks like the bangtails will do considerable banging at the Prince Georges track. A number of the races involve horses that ran on the minor tracks, but this is the way I like it. We can win the same kind of money they pay-off at the half-milers—and then again, we know a little of the form on those horses. The featured Rowe Memorial stacks up as a good race. Friend Frank Cronan is the "Jack of All Trades" at the tracks. Yesterday, he was asked to drive one of the jeep fire trucks from Marlboro to Bowie. Somebody attached the dead horse wagon to the jeep, but Cronan was equal to the occasion and chugged both vehicles the eight miles between the two tracks. Frank Bone, the crack rider who is now third in races run for the year, well perform at Bowie. See you on the rail—Bill.

Parade in Blues— Three-tnousand men of Headquarters Command, United States Air Force, yesterday afternoon staged a 40-minute farewell parade at Bolling Air Force Base in honor of Brig. Gen. S. D. Grubbs. He retires Monday as commanding general of Headquarters Command. Three bands participated in the farewell, and the personnel was dressed in blues—believed the first time the new Air Force uniform has been worn by all men in a parade. The officers in the foreground, left to right, are Grubbs and Col. Morris J. Lee. Grubbs successor will be announced Sunday, the Air Force said

The Federal Diary by Jerry Kluttz

Minerals & Energy Agency May Require 1000-Man Staff

INTERIOR: Its new Minerals and Energy Administration may eventually require a 1000-man staff. For the time being, the new defense agency to handle power, gas, oil, minerals, etc. is being manned by Interior employes who have been given temporary transfers to it.

PENTAGON: Upwards of 4000 additional employes are being jammed into it. An order from the Defense Secretary will reduce the average office space per employe from 100 to 80 square feet. In addition, the old Naval Torpedo Station in Alexandria will be used to store records now in the Pentagon, a project that will release about 100,000 square feet of space in the huge building.

STATUS: Yesterday was the deadline for Civil Service to receive recommendations for Civil Service status under the President's first covering-in order of a year ago. No more than 5000 persons will get status under that order, far fewer than the estimates.

But early next week the Civil Service Commission will issue regulations on how eligible employes can acquire permanent status under the President's second order of August 29. To be eligible, employes must have had a minimum of two years of service, have good or better efficiency ratings, and be recommended for status by their agencies.

ORDER? That proposed order to place most Federal appointments on a temporary basis is likely to be issued within a week. A draft yesterday was sent to the White House by the Civil Service Commission. The main provisions in it were agreed to by top personnel officials before it was written which means it can be handled fast.

PEOPLE: Cash awards for worthy suggestions have been given to these employes in Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration: Beulah G. Cardran, Dorothy V. Gillikin, James S. Parker and Geryl E. Roop . . . Bob Keller, assistant to the Comptroller General, is the new counsel for the subcommittee of the House Expenditures Committee on Government operations. Tom Bussier is retiring as secretary treasurer of the independent United National Association of Post Office Clerks. His successor will be named at the union's convention to get underway this weekend in St. Louis. Bill Armbrust won't be opposed for reelection as president.

RETIREMENTS: At Agriculture, these employes are retiring: Herman F. Ahues, Julia D. Connor, James C. Crawford, R. C. M. De Souza, Ruth Ann Dunnington, Arthur B. Hutchins, Albro A. Lemery, Dorothy V. Milbourne, Helen C. Wood, Mary C. Garverich, Mildred E. Williford, John T. Whalen and Mary Walsh . . . New employes at the Army Medical Center here are: M. J. Malanick, Edythe B. Wallace, G. C. White, Arthur W. Collins, Evelyn McKenzie, Lavina C. Garrity, Carol Sawtell, Dorothy Selsky, John J. Ward, Dr. D. E. Gregg, Marilyn Boseman, Ruth E. Gottesman, Ann Adatte, Mary Doonis, Robert Lewis, John Young, Moses Senior, William Ensor, William E. Smith, K. A. Wade, Mary Bator, Roma LoBuono, A. R. Blakely and Augustine Episcope.

JOBS: The Army Engineer Research & Development Laboratories at nearby Fort Belvoir, Va. has openings for various types of engineers and draftsmen . . . The Andrews & Bolling Air Force bases have vacancies for auto painters, sheet metal workers, carpenters, electricians, and leather workers among others.

NEW AGENCY: Money is at last available to set up the long-proposed National Science Foundation. The 17-billion-dollar supplemental budget bill carries $225,000 to get the agency into operation. The agency won't have more than 35 or 40 employes with that kind of money.

TREASURY: The Williams subcommittee of the House Civil Service Committee is writing a report on overstaffing in the Treasury Department.

D. C. Courts Open Term On Tuesday; Big Dockets

Civil Calendar 2 Years Behind, Criminal Cases Nearly Current

With its docket crowded and its quarters cramped, District Court will begin operating in full swing next week, with the conslusion of the summer recess.

All 15 judges will be on the bench. Two grand juries will be sitting regularly. There will be a drive to ease a "badly congested" civil docket, and to dispose of important criminal cases not yet tried.

The civil calendar is now almost two years behind. While the criminal calendar is almost current, there are 21 contempt of Congress citations that have yet to be presented to the grand jury.

The fall term gets underway officially on Tuesday, when juries will be selected. On Wednesday, the trials for the season begin.

"Snags" Lewis Faces Trial

William (Snags) Lewis and 12 others charged with numbers lottery racket activities, will be called into court. They will either face trial here or else may be extradited to Maryland on similar charges.

Other cases scheduled for trial include: Dr. Henry L. Peckham, October 31, abortion; Gilbert W. Reynolds, October 19, first degree murder; Harold F. Ambrose, October 23, stamp fraud, and October 30, Lewis, Attilio Accalotti, and Frank Billeci, gambling.

The United States Attorney's staff has been increased to 37 assistants. Some ten of them will be moved to the Hutchins Building, 939 D st. nw., to handle civil and appeals cases.

Will Press For Completion

Courthouse gossip has it that the judges will be more reluctant to grant lawyers lengthy continuances, because of the press of cases before the courts.

In Municipal Court, there are 13 negligent homicide cases pending. The judges will be asked to try each case to its conclusion rather than piecemeal.

At the United States Court of Appeals, Chief Judge Harold M. Stephens said that he hoped that by the end of the court year the docket there will be current. He said that it was possible that if the Appeals Court can keep abreast of its schedule, a judge from it will be lent temporarily to the District Court for trial work to ease the situation there.

'Technique' In Robberies Gets 9 Years

James Dessaure, 32, of 631 M st. nw., can spend the next three to nine years thinking about a more delicate way to commit robbery.

In District Court yesterday, that was the prison sentence Dessaure received. He also got a lecture from Judge Matthew F. McGuire that while a criminal technique may appear "perfect," it still doesn't pay in the end.

Dessaure was charged with beating and robbing Marine Corpl. Issac R. Maples of Quantico, Va., of $35. Dessaure was apprehended when three other servicemen gave chase.

Judge McGuire observed that Dessaure had "perfected a technique." It consisted of approaching a passerby on a street corner, starting a conversation and asking for a match.

According to Judge McGuire, Dessaure would then hit the victim in the face, kick him in the body and pick his pockets.

In another District Court sentence, burglar Thomas M. Toyer, 27, of 1223 7th st. nw., was given four to 12 years in prison. One of his crimes was the burglary of the home of David L. Blanken, 5810 16th st. nw., where Toyer stole a revolver, holster and whisky.

John L. Riley, 30, of 1234 6½ st. nw., and Carroll A. Russell of 2028 8th st. nw., each received 16 months to four years in prison for narcotics law violation including the illegal possession of heroin.

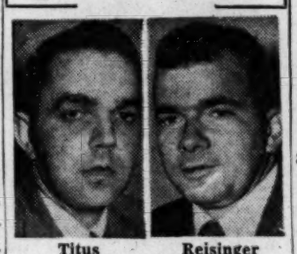
U.S. Attorney Adds 2 New Prosecutors



Titus Reisinger

The United States Attorney's office has added two more prosecutors to its staff here, it was announced yesterday.

The new men bring up to 37 the number of assistant United States attorneys in the local courts.

The appointees are Emory W. Reisinger 2d, 26, of The Cabin, Fairfax, Va., and Harold H. Titus, jr., 23, of 2101 Connecticut ave. nw.

Reisinger, a graduate of the University of Virginia Law School, was transferred from the antitrust division, Department of Justice. He was a wartime naval officer.

Titus, who formerly worked for the Department of Justice, is a graduate of the Georgetown Law School and is a Navy veteran.

Both men are bachelors. They will work in the Municipal Court Criminal Division.

Clerk Dies In Room Filled With Coal Gas

Apartment Mate Recovering; Help Summoned Too Late

Coal fumes apparently caused the death of a 48-year-old Government clerk and the illness of one other woman yesterday in an apartment house at 1908 Florida ave. nw.

Miss Myrtle L. Wadsworth, who shared a second-floor apartment with Mrs. Mary O. Gaylord, 68, was pronounced dead shortly after noon when Mrs. Gaylord roused herself long enough to summon aid.

Mrs. Gaylord told police she awoke at about 12:15 p. m. and felt "paralyzed." She said she crawled down the hall of the apartment, saw her friend, Miss Wadsworth, apparently unconscious on her bed, crawled back down the hall to summon her son by phone and then collapsed on her own bed.

Miss Wadsworth was dead when a fire rescue squad arrived. Mrs. Gaylord was treated and was recovering from effects of the fumes last night.

Charles Gaylord, Mrs. Gaylord's son, said his mother told him to come home "at once" from Hecht Co., where he is employed. Gaylord lives over the apartment in which his mother and Miss Wadsworth lived.

Police said that the Wadsworth apartment was directly over the furnace room.

Fire Marshal Chief Ray Roberts said the janitor told him he had been called by the switchboard at about 5 a. m. on a complaint that the house was full of smoke.

He said that he found a coal stove operated by an automatic stoker in the basement of the house. He said it was "not operating as it should."

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, will perform an autopsy on Miss Wadsworth today. She was a clerk in the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines.

Police Force Reaches Peak Numerically

76 Rookies Graduate, Bringing Officer Strength to 1971, 17 Under 'Ceiling'

The number of men on active duty in the Metropolitan Police Department reached an all-time high yesterday with the graduation of 76 rookies from the Police Training School.

When the new privates start their assignments Sunday, the department will have 1971 men on duty, only 17 fewer than the 1988 authorized while the department operates on a six-day week.

Congress recently raised the authorized strength of the force to 2288, providing for 300 additional men to allow the department to go on a five-day week. It was agreed, however, that the five-day week would not be put in effect until at least 200 of the 300 new men were trained.

Inspector Clarence Lutz, head of the Police Training School, expects to start training the first group of men to fill the additional jobs Monday. Since it takes from a month to six weeks to train 100 men, it is expected that the shorter work week will not be effective until January 1.

With the addition of the rookies, the department has transferred 18 from the precincts to the Juvenile Bureau. Plans were made recently to enlarge the bureau because of the increase in juvenile crime.

The bureau, as of Sunday will consist of 30 men commanded by Lieut. John Ryan.

Transferred to the bureau are: From the Second Precinct, Pvts Thomas M. Hughes, Joseph F. Longo, Ernest Reid; Fifth Precinct, Pvt. George R. Donahue; Seventh Precinct, Pvts. Clark W. Hamm and Joseph Prell; Ninth Precinct, Pvt. Edward W. Chaillet; Tenth Precinct, Pvts. Carl F. Krogman, Milton T. Taylor, John D. Thompson; Eleventh Precinct, Pvts. Michael F. Molesky, Carl Rudbeck, Francis D. Smith; Twelfth Precinct, Pvts. Booker Kent, Charles A. Mackie, Otis E. Troupe, and the Traffic Division, Pvts. Raymond C. Davis and Vernie E. Tate.

They have been attending special classes each night during this week for training in juvenile work.

Eighteen other men, transferred in the precincts and administrative headquarters on a routine basis, will start their new assignments Sunday.

Woman Loses Balance; Hurt In 3-Story Fall

Mrs. Mabel Dwelly, 33, fell from the third-story window of her home, 931 Maryland ave. sw., at 8:30 a. m. yesterday, after apparently losing her balance while trying to open it, according to police.

She was taken to Emergency Hospital, where she was treated for a fractured left elbow. Police said she was to be transferred to Walter Reed Hospital.

Earlier, police reported that Thomas Brooks, 67, 41 W st. nw., fell through a plate-glass show window on the F st. side of Julius Garfinckel & Co., 14th and F sts. nw. Brooks, an employe of the department store, was working atop a ladder in the window when he apparently slipped and fell, police said. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for back cuts.

Suit Blocking School Bonds In Fairfax May Be Dropped

Hopes brightened yesterday for an out-of-court settlement of a suit that has blocked a $10,500,000 school improvement program in Fairfax County.

Fred W. Robinson, chairman of the county school board, said he was assured by the plaintiffs in the case they would consider withdrawing the suit if they could be convinced the county's pressing school needs cannot be met by any means other than the bond issue.

The plaintiffs, Charles E. Gardner, sr., and Paul E. Rhinehart, jr., filed a suit last June challenging validity of a referendum May 30 in which county voters approved the school expenditure by a margin of about two to one. The suit was dismissed in Fairfax Circuit Court, but was appealed to the Virginia Supreme Court.

Robinson said both men expressed willingness at a conference to view any evidence the school board can assemble to support its contention the bond issue is the answer to the county's problems.

The suit, which could delay the school program by as much as four months if carried to the appeals court, already has cost the county money, school officials contend. They say the cost of building materials has risen sharply since the bonds first were approved and insist any "substantial" delay will add thousands of dollars to the cost of planned facilities.

Going to Maryland-Navy Football Game? Here Are Some Recommended Routes

To help the expected 43,000 spectators heading for the Navy-Maryland football game this afternoon, TRAFFIC TRICKS today show routes from various points of the Washington area to the College Park stadium. Boy Arrested In Larceny From Jeweler

A 16-year-old boy, who made the mistake of accepting a ride with an alert police captain, was under arrest yesterday for larceny from a jewelry store window.

An escapee from the Industrial Home School at Blue Plains, the boy had broken away from a civilian, who saw him smash the window of the Melart Jewelry Store, 405 Rhode Island ave. ne. shortly after 2 a. m.

Capt. Otto P. Fuss, head of the robbery squad, spotted him in the vicinity of the store on the basis of a police radio lookout.

"Can I give you a lift, buddy? Where are you going?" asked Fuss.

When the boy gave his home address, Fuss added: "Well, hop in. I'm going that way."

The boy got into the police cruiser and found himself facing Fuss' service revolver. The officer had learned that the civilian, Carl L. Suter, 28, of 2113 4th st. ne., who had tried to hold the boy, was under treatment at Casualty Hospital for a bloody nose and bruised face. He was taking no chances, Fuss said.

Police said they recovered several watches which the boy admitted taking from the store window. They said he also admitted smashing the window of another jewelry store near 9th and F sts. nw. and breaking into several parked cars near 6th and East Capitol sts. He was held at the Receiving Home pending Juvenile Court action.

Stambaugh Case

Lee Edwards Bound Over In Slaying

Lee Edwards, 20, of 4911 14th st. nw., was held for the Montgomery County grand jury yesterday on a charge of murdering Donald J. Stambaugh, 21, 409 4th st. nw., on September 2.

Trial Magistrate Alger Y. Barbee of Rockville Police Court, ordered him held without bond.

Montgomery County police testified yesterday that Stambaugh told them he was shot by a youth he picked up in Lafayette Park. They testified that Stambaugh told them the youth was blond, good-looking, 5 feet, 8 inches in height, weighing about 140 pounds and wearing a brown leather jacket, khaki pants and no hat.

Sergt. Melvin Wheeler said Stambaugh told him: "I know I'm a goner. Tell them (his parents) good-by for me, but don't tell mom yet."

Miss Jean Marie Burroughs, 701 Flower ave., Takoma Park, who said she had several dates with Edwards, testified he came to her home about 5 a. m. September 2 all wet, his hair disheveled. She said "he looked a little pale" and asked her to call a taxi to take him home.

The taxi driver, John S. Bingham, 2017 Eastern ave., Silver Spring, took Edwards to his home and then notified police that Edwards resembled the man described in a police broadcast.

Several witnesses described Edwards as having "khaki" pants, but cross examination by Defense Attorney James H. Pugh revealed he was wearing green pants similar to Marine Corps fatigue pants.

The county detectives testified that a box of .45-caliber cartridges was found in Edwards' room, together with clothing similar to that described by Stambaugh. They said a 45 automatic has been found in a Takoma Park storm sewer, and that the FBI is testing it.

Dozing Driver Barely Misses 25-Foot Drop

In Arlington, a motorist who told police he fell asleep at the wheel early yesterday, awoke just in time to swerve and miss crashing through a bridge abutment on Lee blvd., dropping 25 feet, although he hit a guard rail.

The motorist, Andrew Senes, 27, of RFD 1, Fairfax, was admitted to Arlington Hospital with cuts, bruises and two broken ribs. His condition was reported satisfactory. Police said damage to the car totaled $700.

The accident occurred on a Lee blvd. bridge about 150 feet west of Lexington rd. at 2:10 a. m.

Police said Roach's auto and a car driven by Josephine C. Jones, 55, of 1219 Oates st. ne., collided at 13th and Quincy sts. nw., and that Roach drove on home. Witnesses to the accident gave police the tag numbers on his car, police said.

Roach told police that he stopped after the collision and looked back, but continued on because he did not see the other car, they said.

A passenger in the other car, Miss Thomasine Corrothers, 40, of 654 Girard st. nw., complained of a neck injury but refused hospital treatment, police said.

Plans Group Seeks Way To Buy Land For Roads

Present Method Held Inadequate To Meet Needs Of Area Traffic

Present regulations and methods of buying land for highway improvements are antiquated and not adequate for the dynamic growth of Greater Washington, a meeting of area planners agreed yesterday.

Called together by the Regional Highway Planning Survey of Metropolitan Washington, the officials described their present situation as difficult on three counts:

1. They cannot spend money to buy land for clearly outlined future needs when they hardly have enough to meet current problems.

2. By waiting, they are faced with the inevitable zooming of land prices.

3. The traffic problem is bursting out all over—faster than any single jurisdiction of the area can meet by itself and the presence of the Federal Government has a lot to do with this.

Discussions at the office of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission centered therefore on new ways and new agencies to cope with the land purchase problem, to supplement present methods of reserving sites through zoning, subdivision control and setback regulations.

David R. Levin, of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads legal department, outlined what other states are doing on the problem. He said Pennsylvania has authorized the State Highway Commission to freeze the use of private land earmarked for future highway development. This assures the State that the sites will not then become built-up and thus more expensive, Levin said. Similar programs are under way in Ohio, Wisconsin and California.

The conferees agreed that the Washington area will require some pioneering on the land-purchase program because of the area's peculiar character as a largely urban, interstate and Federal city region, Survey Chairman Samuel R. Harrison, Deputy Director of the District Highway Department, said.

A. Clason Taylor, Technical Director of the Survey, was authorized to prepare plans for attacking the land-purchase problem in the area and present them to the conferees at another meeting in a month.

Taylor and Harrison described the actual work on the survey and explained how it could be applied to test various proposals for highway improvement in the metropolitan region.

Mrs. Ford, Widow Of Auto Pioneer, Dies

DETROIT, Sept. 29 (AP).—Mrs. Henry Ford, 84, widow of the automobile pioneer, died early today.

The farmer's daughter who came to great wealth and renown through her husband's genius and her faith in his work was the victim of a heart ailment.

Mrs. Ford

She died in Henry Ford Hospital. A family spokesman said the cause of death was acute coronary occlusion.

For some time Mrs. Ford had been troubled with a heart condition and in recent months she had twice visited the hospital.

On each occasion she had returned to the Ford estate, "Fairlane," in suburban Dearborn, and continued active in her household and rose garden.

Yesterday she entered the hospital for the last time. Only a few persons close to the family knew that her condition had again worsened.

Clara Bryant Ford and Henry Ford spent 60 years of wedded life together until the husband's death in 1947.

Their only son, Edsel, died in 1943. At that time he was president of the Ford Motor Co. as successor to his father, who had then retired.

Mrs. Ford's survivors include her grandson, Henry 2d, now president of the company.

There are three other grandchildren, Benson, William Clay and Josephine. All four grandchildren are children of Edsel.

Ford, who always credited Clara with much responsibility for his accomplishments, called his wife "the believer."

Each, as it turned out, had the same span of life—84 years. Ford was that age when he died in the spring of 1947.

Aaron Volkman

Senior Rabbi Of District Dies at 68

Rabbi Aaron Volkman, 68, former spiritual leader of two congregations and senior Washington rabbi in point of service, died Friday at his home, 6717 Piney Branch rd. nw. He had been ill three years.

Rabbi Volkman

A native of Hungary, Rabbi Volkman was descendant of 12 generations of spiritual leaders. He came to the United States in 1908 after attending rabbinical schools in Europe.

Rabbi Volkman came to Washington in 1929 as leader of the B'Nai Israel Congregation, 4901 14th st. nw.

In 1936 Rabbi Volkman founded Beth El Congregation, 702 Jefferson st. nw. He retired for reasons of health in 1947.

He was a member of the Rabbinical Council of Washington, Zionist Organization of America and B'nai B'rith. He was chaplain of the Samuel Gompers Masonic Lodge No. 45.

In addition to his widow, Mrs. Ethel Volkman, Rabbi Volkman is survived by two sons, Rabbi Samuel Volkman of Scranton, Pa., and Nathan H. Volkman, 1224 Blair Mill rd., Silver Spring, and four grandchildren. A brother, Samuel Volkman, likes in New York City.

Funeral services were held at the Danzansky funeral home, 3501 14th st. nw., yesterday at 2 p.m. Burial was in Adas Israel Congregation Cemetery.

Charles Gregg Dies; Former Architect Here

Funeral services for Charles Gregg, 78, former chief of the specifications division of the municipal architect's office, will be held at the Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw., today at 10 a.m. Burial will be in Loudon Park Cemetery, Baltimore.

Mr. Gregg, who lived at 1760 Euclid st. nw., was born in Baltimore and came here in 1901 to help design the National Museum. He retired in 1943.

He was a charter member of the Allied Architects, Inc., and belonged to the American Institute of Architects.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Aimee B. Gregg, and a son, Stephen L. Gregg, 4828 Edgemoor la., Bethesda.

A total of 12 arrangement classes are included on the program as well as classes for annual and perennial flowers.

Monkey, Baboon and Water Buffalo Births Give Zoo Population a 3-Baby Boost

Total from closing time Thursday until last report yesterday: Babies in the Mexican spider monkey, hamadryas baboon and Indian water-buffalo families.

What with a giraffe born earlier this week, it might appear that spring is having fruition in autumn. Zoo Director William M. Mann declined comment on the series of births.

"Don't ask me the 'philosophy' of it," he said. "It is a subject I know nothing of at all."

The scene at the spider monkey's cage, however, was one of domesticity. Sitting on a high board was the mother spider monkey, her back generally turned to the world around her, the baby tightly clasping her fur.

The male spider monkey zoomed around the cage performing some unusually intricate gyrations. Every now and again he'd return to his mate and offspring. The lady monkey would stretch out on the board and the male monkey would cuddle up with the whole family: Very touching.

It was the baboons who were hostile. The male, a handsome specimen, just glared at people. (Sign on the cage said his ancestors were considered sacred by the ancient Egyptians. The baboon looked Sphinx-like.)

For the most part the lady baboon sat on a rail, also glaring at humans. When she'd come down to a lower level—a one-handed operation—you could see the young baboon. Her other hand was wrapped around it, and it was eating like mad.

Buffalo Calf "No Baby"

As for the water buffalo calf, "baby" would seem to be the wrong word for it. At birth early yesterday it was the size of a healthy boxer dog.

Unlike healthy boxer dogs, which can eat owner out of house and kennel, the young water buffalo hadn't learned about eating by yesterday afternoon. Rather, he wouldn't learn.

The keepers said it had had a rough time with its mother concerning food: Everytime he would try to nuzzle up, she'd either turn around or would whack him one with a hoof.

Assistant Keeper Ralph Norris was trying to teach the calf about eating. Norris was having an athletic time.

Norris said "Dent" already prefers hay to milk.

Braden Offers Falls Church 5-Year Plan

Recommendations touching on virtually every phase of local government and services were presented to the Falls Church city council by retiring City Manager Roy S. Braden last night.

Development of new tax sources, a five-year plan of improvements, and a proposal for issuance of city bonds are contained in the 26-page report.

On the relationship between the city council and the office of city manager, Braden urged that less council time be taken up with details of government. He urged that no manager "be able to build up a political organization to back him."

Braden reiterated a plea that the council press for construction of a by-pass highway around the city by the State Highway Department. The plan would decrease the traffic load now carried through the center of the city by Lee hwy.

Braden also recommended that Falls Church issue city automobile license tags, to cost half the price of State plates.

Off-street parking facilities, surface water drainage, curbs and gutters, building of a city hall, purchase of city highway equipment and a plan for retirement of city employes are among matters covered in the report.

The council by voice vote officially confirmed the appointment of City Manager W. R. Woodbury, who was nominated earlier in the week to succeed Braden. Woodbury, recently resigned city manager of Suffolk, Va., appeared at last night's meeting, attended by about 50 persons.

Caroline Smith Dies; Sister Of Rector

Miss Smith

Known as "Miss Carrie" by the parishioners of St. Margaret's, she was active in civic and church affairs.

She assisted her father, the late Rev. Dr. Herbert Scott Smith, sr., in his church assignments. Upon Dr. Smith's retirement, she and her father made their home with the junior Dr. Smith.

For the past 40 years, she has been a member of parish and diocesean groups. She served on the Home of the Aged committee and was on the board of lady managers of the House of Mercy. She was a member of the Regent of Patriots Memorial Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution and was once district chaplain.

Besides her brother, Miss Smith is also survived by a niece, Mrs. Thomas F. McNeal and a nephew, Wilbur F. Smith 2d, both of Baltimore, Md.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at her home. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Truman Letter Sale Disavowed By Marine League

READING, Pa., Sept. 29 (U.P.). The national commandant of the Marine Corps League tonight disavowed the proposal of a California representative in Congress to auction the letter in which President Truman called the Marine Corps a "Navy police force." He ordered any sale of the letter under league auspices cancaled.

Commandant Maurice J. Fagan, Philadelphia, said here that he had written to Mr. Truman and Representative Gordon L. McDonough (R., Calif.), disclaiming participation in the offer of McDonough to sell the letter and turn the proceeds over to the league's welfare fund. The President originally wrote the stinging letter to McDonough. He later apologized to the Marine Corps for statements in it.

Fagan said he also had sent a telegram to National League Adjutant Theus J. McQueen at Baton Rouge, La., forbidding sale of the letter under league auspices "under any circumstances."

Earlier, McQueen had said the letter would be sold for $2500 to an unnamed collector tomorrow at Chicago.

Negro Statistician, McGrath Winners Of Racial Awards

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and Lou Montgomery, prominent Negro layman, are the 1950 winners of the James J. Hoey Awards for Interracial Justice, the Catholic Interracial Council announced yesterday.

McGrath

The medals are conferred yearly upon a white and a Negro Catholic layman who in the judgment of the council rendered the greatest service during the year to the cause of interracial justice. McGrath's "stanch" support of the President's civil rights program was cited. Montgomery, a statistician, is president of the Hartford, Conn., Catholic Interracial Council.

Dr. E. H. Allen, D. C. Physician 50 Years, Dies

Dr. Elijah H. Allen, 89, who practiced medicine here for more than 50 years, died Thursday at Freedmen's Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Alabama, Dr. Allen came here in 1890 and worked for the Federal Government as a clerk in the Pension Office. He studied medicine at Howard University while working and was graduated in 1894.

He had offices at his home, 1115 4th st. nw., where he practiced until his retirement in 1947. He was on the clinical staff at Freedmen's Hospital for many years. His wife, Mrs. Emma V. Allen, died five years ago.

Dr. Allen was a member of the Medico-Chirurgical Society and the Physicians Reading Club No. 1. He belonged to the Osceola Lodge of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows.

Surviving are three sons, George W. Allen and Charles H. Allen, both of the 4th st. address; and Dr. E. H. Allen, jr., of Louisville, Ky., and three daughters, Mrs. Emma A. Bowler of the 4th st. address; Mrs. Lucille A. Lewis, 1849 Vernon st. nw., and Mrs. Hilda A. Smith of Detroit.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1 p. m. in the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 12th and R sts. nw. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

Montgomery Properties Sold for Taxes

Montgomery County yesterday sold 14 properties that had been taken by the county for nonpayment of taxes 10 years ago. They sold for a total of $2902.43.

No bids were offered for 70 other tax-delinquent properties, and bids at private sale may be made for these under terms of a new law. The county had approximately 372 delinquent properties on its rolls two years ago.

The county has cleared its books of all such properties in the Olney and Damascus election districts, and has only one each in the Darnestown and Potomac districts. The latter is an island in the Potomac River which the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission has asked be turned over as part of the George Washington Memorial Parkway.

The only property for which there was spirited bidding was a five-acre tract on the Patuxent River near the Brighton Dam, for which $600 was bid finally. Taxes were $46.63. L. H. Mills of Bethesda was the purchaser.

148th Polio Case Reported in D. C.; 27th in Arlington

Two new polio cases were reported in the Washington area yesterday as the District recorded its 148th case and Arlington County its 27th for the year.

The District polio sufferer is a 19-year-old sailor stationed at the Naval Receiving Station at Anacostia. He was admitted to the Bethesda Naval Hospital September 20. At this time last year, the District had 76 polio cases.

Arlington's case, a 32-year-old woman of the 2900 block of S. Buchanan st., was admitted to Gallinger Hospital September 28.

Meanwhile, Montgomery County had its total reduced to 56 by a report from Gallinger Hospital that Case No. 51 had been diagnosed as not polio. Case 51 was a 19-year-old youth in the 5500 block of Roosevelt st., Bethesda, Md.

Monopoly Danger Seen In Big Defense Spending

President Truman instructed Government officials yesterday to guard against concentration of defense spending lest they injure small business.

"Partial mobilization, in the absence of protective measures," he said in a memorandum to the departments, may expose the economy to the threat of "undue concentration of economic power" and "imperil the very system we are seeking to protect."

Esperantists to Picnic

Washington advocates of the use of the Esperanto language will meet at a picnic today at 4 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Leila Marshall, 3703 Bangor st. se., to form an Esperanto Club of Washington. The language, whose world-wide use they urge, is composed of 75 percent Latin and part German, French and Spanish.

With the State Societies

Tar Heels Click Next Week

By Nicha Searle

IT MIGHT BE FALL but there's spring in the footsteps of Tar Heels this week!

Reason? The North Carolina State Society season is opening October 7, when members and their friends will don their best bibs and tuckers to celebrate the annual home-coming party at the Shoreham Hotel. The dance will be staged in the large ballroom.

There will be dancing of course, bridge, canasta and other features, including the Carolina Apple dance—with real apples for everyone. Dancing will begin at 10 p. m. and the card games at 9:30 on the lower mezzanine.

DR. J. D. MESSICK, president of the East Carolina Teachers College, and Mrs. Messick will be special guests at the reception which will be given before the dance in honor of the D. C. chapter of the East Carolina Teachers College Alumni Association. The association will present a short program during the intermission.

Receiving with Dr. and Mrs. Messick and the officers of the local alumni chapter will be the officers and board of governors of the society. They will include John K. Slear, president of the society, and Mrs. Slear; chief council to the president, Charles Murphy and Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Jackson Davis, commisioner of the U. S. Court of Claims and Mrs. W. Ney Evans, the Rev. H. W. Baucom, jr., Chaplain and Mrs. Baucom, Mrs. Stella O. Miller and Mrs. Macie Lowe.

Also the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. James E. Webb, the Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John S. Graham, the Comptroller General and Mrs. Lindsay Warren, Administrative Assistant to the President and Mrs. David H. Stowe, Assistant to the Attorney General and Mrs. T. THE UNIVERSITY of Michigan alumni and their friends will have a chance to participate in a Nationwide knickoff party opening the campaign of the Michigan Memorial Phoenix Project Monday.

The program, centered around a dinner at the National Airport Terminal Building at 7 p. m., will include a telephone and radio hookup with Ambassador Warren Austin, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Michigan Memorial Phoenix Project, dedicated to the war dead of the University, is a program to institute peacetime development of atomic energy in such fields as chemistry, physics, architecture, engineering, etc. The alumni's objective is to raise two million dollars to set up a center for such studies at the University of Michigan, plus $4,400,000 to support research.

Over Parking

Jury Clears Policeman In Slaying

A coroner's jury yesterday cleared a 23-year-old Washington Terminal policeman who fatally shot one man and wounded another during a fracas over parking at Union Station.

After 45 minutes deliberation, the jury ruled that Plainclothesman Daniel Wolff, of 7327 Forest rd., Kent Village, Md., had committed "justifiable homicide"; that his actions were motivated solely by self-protection.

Shot to death in the September 10 fight was Oliver Davis, 26, of 1316 Wallace pl. nw. A companion, Ernest F. Pearson, 22, of Philadelphia, Pa., also was wounded.

The jury acted after hearing about a dozen police and eyewitness accounts of the shooting.

Wolff took the stand voluntarily. He testified the two men jumped him after he told them not to park their car in the west end baggage garage.

Whether the plainclothes officer had identified himself as a policeman before the row began was the center of the conflictnig testimony. Wolff insisted he had displayed his badge.

Pearson and Davis' wife said they did not know Wolff was a policeman.

One witness said Wolff struggled with the pair the distance of about 40 feet before losing his balance, falling to the ground and then pulling his revolver on the attackers. He fired five shots

Public Relations Head

Dr. J. Freeman Pyle, dean of the College of Business and public Administration, University of Maryland, has been appointed chairman of the university's public functions and public relations committee, vice Dr. T. B. Symons, who recently retired after 48 years of service to the university.

Christian-Jew Group Elects Wilbur La Roe

The Washington Branch of the National Conference of Christians and Jews yesterday elected Wilbur La Roe jr., as its Protestant co-chairman for the 1950-51 year.

The Washington lawyer and Presbyterian Church leader was named during the annual luncheon meeting at the Burlington Hotel. La Roe is a former moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

The conference reelected Dr. George R. Ellis as Catholic co-chairman and Col. Benjamin Ourisman as Jewish co-chairman.

Dr. Herbert L. Simmons, director of the conference's national commission on educational organization, reported at length on the progress and aims of the commission's study.

Three other speakers rounded out the day's program. Msgr. John K. Cartwright, Dr. Carl Heath Kopf and Rabbi Henry Segal all spoke five minutes each on "Nothing Human is Alien To Me."

Police, Fire Jobs Open in Arlington

Arlington County has 11 jobs open for policemen and nine vacancies in its Fire Department, county Personnel Director J. M. Davenport announced yesterday.

Three of the firemen's jobs are available in the Halls Hill (Negro) Company. Candidates for the Fire Department posts must be between 21 and 35 years old, at least 5 feet 7 inches tall and weigh at least 145 pounds. Police candidates must be between the same ages, at least 5 feet 8 inches tall and weigh at least 150 pounds. Salary range for jobs open in both departments is from $2640 to $3528.

held on the rent bill, he said.

YWCA Classes

Add a Toueh Of Gallic to Your Cooking

IF YOU'D LIKE to add that "Je ne sais quoi" touch to your cooking, your chance is here again!

French and European cooking classes start next week at the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw. Inimitable little Madame Iren Beran, graduate of the famous Cordon Blue Cooking School in Paris, will give a series of 10 weekly lessons, both afternoon and evening. To enroll, call Metropolitan 2100, extension 29.

All the material given in this fall's class will be new, to offer variety of pupils who have taken the popular course before but want to learn more. And this year, thrifty dishes as well as luxury ones will be emphasized in view of today's high food costs.

An example of Madame Beran's inexpensive but elegant meat recipes is this one for Beef a la Strogonoff:

Beef a la Strogonoff

Cut 1½ pounds of beef filet (cheaper cut) in 1-inch squares or in thin strips. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and lemon juice. Let it stay in a cold place for 1 hour. Heat 1½ tablespoons butter. Blend in 1½ tablespoons flour.

Cook over low flame, stirring to a brown paste. Add 1 cup beef stock, cook till bubbles. Strain in big sauce pan, bring to boil. Stir in 1 tablespoon tomato paste, alternately with 4-5 tablespoons scalded sour cream.

Let simmer 15 to 20 minutes, adding meat, cover. Serve at once on platter, garnished with small green olives, or fried triangles of bread. Sprinkle meat with parsley. Serve boiled potatoes on the side.

In Memoriam

A booklet of 101 "In Memoriam" tributes suitable for publication is now available without charge. Remembrances for all members of the family and for friends are included. The booklet may be obtained at the front counter in The Post Building, by telephoning your request, or by writing to The Washington Post Classified Advertising Department, Washington 4, D. C.

In Memoriam

BROWN, IDA FLORENCE—Beloved grandmother, who passed away September 30, 1949:
We know if you could talk today,
You, whom death has taken away,
Your words would say, "Be patient, true,
And in God"s time I'll be with you.
GRANDDAUGHTER JANIE HOWARD.

BROWN, IDA FLORENCE—Beloved mother, who passed away September 30, 1949:
Somewhere above this troubled world,
Safe beyond all grief and care,
Our mother rests in heavenly peace.
God grant some day we meet her there.
FROM DAUGHTERS ANNA, DELLA, VIRGINIA, ELIZABETH, AND SON GEORGE.

WINIFRED TODAY

Winifred A Changed Gal Today

By Ann Lawrence

TWO WEEKS AGO, Winifred was the "if only . . . " girl, remember?

If only she would dress to her type; if only she would learn to enhance her fine, regular features, instead of overshadowing them with bad makeup; if only her naturally blonde hair were styled for her face and figure, rather than overcurled and fly-away. . . .

TODAY, INSTEAD of dressing as if she were five-feet-two and sweet sixteen, she is aware that her five-feet-nine and thirty-two years can make her a sophisticated, distinctive young woman. The frills and bows have been replaced by clean, simple lines. The glossy, flossy fabrics have given way to beautiful tweeds, worsted finishes, supple jerseys. Brilliant colors are reserved for accent notes, for darker are kinder to her large figure. Her hair has been re-styled into smoother lines and into a coiffure which makes her face seem more oval.

Her beautiful eyes have lost their theatrically made-up look and while she uses eye make-up, she uses brown eye brow pencil and mascara, plus a blue or blue-green eyeshadow, rather than the heavy black she used to effect.

TONING DOWN her make-up, replacing the pink tones and playing up the golden glow of her skin, has given her face a more youthful look. The heavy pink-and-white make-up she used before, at odds with her natural coloring, seemed to say: "What are you trying to hide? Blemishes? Wrinkles?"

WINIFRED IS NOT an overnight Cinderella. No one waved a magic wand and performed miracles. She simply studied herself and learned to dress and make up, not as she thought she was, but as she actually is. Any woman can do the same, by following the basic rules of color, line and harmony and applying them to her own face and figure.

Mrs. Robert A. Lovett Is Once Again Back in Official Capital Whirl

By Marie McNair

MRS. ROBERT A. LOVETT'S return to Washington's official scene is happy news for the friends she made here during her husband's "Little Cabinet" posts.

The wife of the new Undersecretary of Defense, who was Assistant Secretary of War, later Undersecretary of State, is lovely to look at, and, as the song goes, "delightful to know."

It hasn't been too long ago that the Lovetts left their big house on Kalorama rd., and returned to Long Island to live, possibly thinking that their stint in the official whirl was over. It was Secretary of Defense Gen. George Marshall who changed Mr. Lovett's mind.

The new Defense Undersecretary once said, "There are three persons in the world from whom I will take any command: Henry Stimson (former Secretary of War), George Marshall, and my wife."

It's been that way as far as Mrs. Lovett is concerned since Bob Lovett, then 18, first met Adele Brown who was four years younger at the time. They were married right after World War I after Bob Lovett returned from oversees service as a flier.

Known as a meticulous housekeeper and a hostess of great gifts, Mrs. Lovett is an amateur authority on radar, the Morse code and ornithology. In fact her husband, it is said, takes great delight in mimicing his wife and the birds, and entertains close friends with an imitation of both.

U. S. Diplomat's Daughter Wed In Manhattan

Miss Anna Sophie Reagan, daughter of Daniel J. Reagan, retiring Minister-Counsellor of the U. S. Embassy in Paris, was married last evening (September 29) at the Unitarian Church of All Souls in New York City to Donald Lincoln Herr, New York electrical engineer.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Delteil of Chicago, Ill., and Montpellier, France, was given in marriage by Arthur Garfield Hays of New York. She wore a gown of organdy and lace which her mother made in France. With it she had her grandmother's ruby cross. The newlyweds will live in New York City on their return from their wedding trip in Southern and Lower California.

The bride studied in France and Belgium and also attended Radcliffe College. Mr. Herr, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Young Herr of Philadelphia, attended the University of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University. A veteran of five years in the Navy, he is adjunct professor of electrical engineering at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn.

Patricia Murphy Will Be Married

Col. and Mrs. John George Murphy of Fort Meade, Md., announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia, to Woodbury Carter, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William V. Carter of Washington and Westerly, R. I.

Miss Murphy attended the University of California at Berkeley and is completing her studies at George Washington University.

Mr. Carter is a graduate of St. Albans School for Boys and the United States Military Academy. He resigned from the Army last year to accept a position with the State Department. He is the grandson of Mrs. William H. Carter.

The wedding will take place November 18 at St. Albans Church.

Pressmen Must Vote On Bargaining Agent

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday ordered an election be held to determine which of two rival locals, belonging to the same parent union, should represent some 225 printing pressmen in collective bargaining negotiations with the Union Employers Divisions of the Washington Graphic Arts Associations.

Involved in the dispute are Local 1 and Local 351, of the AFL International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America. Local 351 was chartered last spring by the international union following a series of disputes between the parent organization and Local 1.

Heart of the controversy has been the insistence on the part of Local 1 for a thorough accounting of the estate of the late former Senator George H. Berry of Tennessee, who headed the parent union for 40 years and died in 1948. The local has charged that Berry used union funds for his personal business enterprises.

In proceedings before an NLRB examiner, the international held that the fight between Locals 1 and 351 were a matter of jurisdiction which came under the authority of the parent union. The NLRB held, however, that it was up to the employes of the commercial printing shops to decide for themselves which would represent them.

The NLRB decisions calls for an election by secret ballot to be held within 30 days.

The action by the NLRB was a rare one. Only once before has the board called for an election between rival locals of the same international. That one involved the longshoremen's union, Puerto Rico.

Telephone Workers To Select Mouthpiece

A mail ballot will be conducted among traffic employes of the Maryland Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. from October 12 to 23 to determine what union, if any, shall represent the employes in bargaining with the company.

The National Labor Relations Board ordered the election yesterday. The dispute involves the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union and the Communications Workers of America. The former union became Local 38 in the CIO-CWA two years ago, and is presently seeking to withdraw and reestablish itself as an unaffiliated organization.

Carpenters' Strike Continues at Belvoir

The strike of AFL carpenters at Fort Belvoir in protest against working alongside nonunion men continued for a third day yesterday. Some 150 union carpenters stayed away from three barracks rehabilitation projects because a contractor on a fourth job is using nonunion carpenters.

A Federal mediator has entered the dispute, but no progress was reported yesterday in ironing out the controversy.

Motherhood Theme Is With Us Again

By Richard L. Coe

HERE WE GO again about Motherhood. That and the adoption angle are the subject of the Warner's "Three Secrets," just as in the Palace's "My Blue Heaven."

"Three Secrets" is somewhat better, and I said somewhat. This time three unmarried mothers, who deeded their children to an adoption home, are gathered together at the foot of a mountain crag for the rescue of a 5-year-old, sole survivor of a plane crash. Circumstances indicate that the boy is the natural offspring of one. Which?

Eleanor Parker, now happily married, had a child by a soldier during the war; she seems fairly settled in her new life, but the tie of Motherhood drags her to the mountain. Patricia Neal, a Hollywood-style newspaperwoman, thinks the boy may be hers because she gave her child up after her newsman husband, tired of her wartime globe-trotting, divorced her before the baby he didn't know about was born. Ruth Roman, a dancer, killed the producer who refused to admit the paternity of his child.

Fundamentally, the device of the three yarns seems a sound one, but there is a pallid effect about the telling that makes one only listlessly interested. A very important point—exactly how the secret of which child it is is wormed out of the adoption home—is glossed over and the windup lacks the dramatic punch one has been led to expect.

One flaw in the credibility lies in that typical homelessness of the factory-belt movie character. The people who adopted the child were alone in the world and, despite their lavish home, no provision has been made for his future in the event of their death. Miss Parker has a mother, but no one else during her months of trial. Except for the reporter-husband who doesn't want her on her working-girl terms, Miss Neal has no relations. Miss Roman is totally alone in the world; small wonder she killed the only person who'd ever taken an interest in her. These evident facts do not lend persuasiveness to the story.

Another amusing sidelight: the Code's provision that sin be punished is certainly glossed over for the character Miss Parker plays. She may have suffered mentally, but the Code demands she pay more specifically. It's odd that this touch of reality should seep into so unreal a story.

The performances are coldly adequate, the best of them being, it seemed to me, Miss Neal, who puts iron into the news gal so mauled by the Fates.

"THE BARRIER" closes its run tonight at the Gayety, canceling its second week . . . Producer Michael Myerburg hopes to take the Lawrence Tibbett-Muriel Rahn vehicle into New York as soon as he can lease a theater . . . The idea seems abroad that the reviewers failed to appreciate its theme of intolerance . . . In this corner nothing could be further from the fact, as regular readers must know . . . Such a story, about as believable as a four-headed cow, has nothing to do with tolerance; it is simply that it is a poor tale, poorly told . . . I bring this up because of rumored temptations to cancel the December booking of "Lost in the Stars," a deeply moving, superbly-scored musical about intolerance . . . No one should get the idea that because a poor one received poor reception here, a good one will not triumph . . . Let us hear no more about canceling the Kurt Weill-Maxwell Anderson musical.

LILLIAN GISH will be the star of "The Curious Savage," when the John Patrick comedy opens at the Gayety a week from Monday night . . . This means that "Miss Mabel," in which she appeared this summer at Olney, will have to wait a spell, but in Miss Gish the Guild has one of its favorite stars . . . A strong factor for the new play from the author of "The Hasty Heart" will be Peter Glenville, the English director whose future assignment is to lead Olivia DeHavilland through Juliet . . . Glenville directed "The Innocents" and "The Browning Version" last season and he's one of the best on either side of the Atlantic.

THEATER GUILD subscribers are begged to be patient in receiving their subscription tickets through the mails . . . Director Bess Davis Schreiner now has over 10,000 applications, which she and six assistants are working round the clock to allocate in a theater smaller than the National . . . The Guild office in the Raleigh is now closed so that all attention can be given to getting reservations in order . . . Both "The Curious Savage" and "The Relapse," which follows it at the Gayety on the 23d, are on the Guild subscription series of six plays.

"MISS WASHINGTON" will appear on Keith's stage tomorrow night to present awards in the Marx Bros. jewelry store twenty-seventh anniversary celebration . . . It's all within the law; you don't have to be in the theater to win if you're entered the contest.

THE GREENBELT YOUTH Center is having a bigtime dance tonight at the school autitorium in a fund-raising drive for expansion of facilities it now enjoys.

DONALD KIRKLEY, the Baltimore Sun man, writes appreciatively of "The Antagonists," the Holmes Alexander drama about Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton, which tonight closes Baltimore's summer theater, the Hilltop.

"FAITH OF OUR FATHERS" closes its season tonight in the new Sesquicentennial Amphitheater . . . Arena Stage completes its "Of Mice and Men" run tonight, with "The Firebrand" upcoming Monday.

"THREE SECRETS," a Warner Bros. release, produced by Milton Sperling, directed by Robert Wise, screen play by Martin Rackin and Gina Kaus. At the WARNER.

Sales in Week Taper Off Here On Credit Curb

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington department store sales in the week ended September 23 dropped 11 percent under the previous week but remained 3 percent higher than in the same 1949 period.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, reporting this yesterday, said the drop reflected the influence of Federal credit restrictions which took effect on September 18. Retailers indicated that their business is by no means being strangled by higher down payments and a shorter time to pay.

For the four weeks ended September 23, local store sales were 5 percent improved over the like period last year.

Nationally, the dollar volume of store sales in the week ended September 23 was 10 percent above the same 1949 week. Federal Reserve Board experts were surprised that the week's pace didn't taper off more, because of the new credit curbs.

Rumors of still tighter credit regulations to come might have made people anxious to buy despite the new rules, one source said.

AWARD: The National Association of Life Underwriters yesterday presented the Russell Memorial Award to O. Sam Cummings, Dallas, Tex., for his contribution to the life insurance business in 1950. A bronze plaque and gold watch were presented the Texan at a Statler luncheon which concluded the association's sixty-first annual convention here. A citation accompanying the award said Cummings has "championed public enlightenment on life insurance functions and practices" for 30 years.

WILL MEET HERE: Howard Holderness, president of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. of Greensboro, N. C., yesterday announced that the company's national convention will be held in Washington in April, 1951. Holderness, here to attend the underwriters convention, said more than 600 Jefferson Standard men and women are expected to attend the Spring session. He added that it was felt that "our agents from coast to coast would benefit greatly by having a meeting in the Nation's Capital."

HONORED: Nineteen Washington employes of the Shell Oil Co. were honored at a service award banquet in Baltimore. Those with records of service from 10 to 20 years received the awards, according to D. R. Myers, Washington manager.

WHO'S NEWS: Morris Shipley has been named assistant to the vice president in the Washington office of American Airlines, replacing E. J. Foley who resigned to become Eastern representative of Gordon Brown & Associates . . . William E. Schmid, president of Julius Garfinckel & Co., has been named to the executive committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association . . . J. Paul Bryant, Mercer G. Rhodes and Dr. William R. Johnston have been appointed vice presidents of Standard Brands, Inc. . . . O'Ferrell Estes, general auditor of Capital Airlines, is new president of Washington Chapter, Institute of Internal Auditors, Inc. . . . C. Daniel Shelburne, bank examiner, is resigning from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond to join a Winston-Salem bank.

Shipley

ENROLLMENT: Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking reported that 275 junior bankers have enrolled for courses which started September 25. The classes are being conducted in the chapter's new location at 1760 N st. nw.

MORE ON C. & S.: Deposits of the Bank of Commerce & Savings totaled $15,729,665 on August 31, a gain of $1,582,499 for the twelve months. Loans aggregated $7,862,843 on the same date, up $2,069,210. At the annual meeting, stockholders reelected the following directors: William L. Bush, Theodore Cogswell, James E. Colliflower, A. E. Giegengack, Thomas J. Groom, Harry J. Kane, jr., Frank Owings, George M. Quirk, Donald F. Roberts, Leo A. Rover, Joseph Sanders and Carita B. Sandler. Directors reelected Thomas J. Groom as president and all other officers.

EARNINGS: Pennsylvania Railroad reported net income of $16,706,394 or $1.27 a share for the first eight months this year, compared with $3,446,241 or 26 cents a share in same 1949 period. Other earnings statements:

Heart Ailment Fatal to Man Bitten by Spider Last Week

A market employe who complained last Saturday of being bitten by a black spider while handling a bunch of bananas, was found dead early yesterday under the viaduct at 1st and M sts. ne.

Discovered lying face down in the road by police, he was identified from papers in his pocket as Romaine Hardman, 28, an employe of Union Market, in the 400 block of Florida ave. ne. Police said they could not find his home address.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenburg, who performed an autopsy, said Hardman died of congestive heart failure but that chemical tests must be made to determine what led to the heart ailment.

Police said they located Hardman's sister, Mrs. Audrey Bright, of 1774 Stanton tr. se., who told them of her brother's complaint about the black spider bite.

They found that he had been treated twice for an infection during the week at the Union Market Workmen's Compensation Clinic, 416 Florida ave. ne., but had failed to return there for a third treatment on Thursday as directed, they said. He also had failed to have filled two prescriptions given him at the clinic police said.

Thursday night, Hardman complained of feeling ill and left work according to police. It was believed he had collapsed on the street.

Woman Fined In Beating Of Stepson, 11

A Capital Heights (Md.) woman was convicted of assault yesterday in Marlboro Police Court for beating her 11-year-old stepson with a board.

Judge Robert W. McCullough imposed a $50 fine and 10-day jail sentence on the woman, Mrs. Romaine Lynch, 33, of 1000 Highview dr., and suspended execution of both. However, Mrs. Lynch paid a $25 fine for disorderly conduct.

The boy's father, Thomas E. Lynch, 35, was fined $10 for disorderly conduct.

Both were charged in warrants sworn by a neighbor, Mrs. J. O. Quinn, of 1002 Highview dr.

Mrs. Quinn and other neighbors testified that Mrs. Lynch beat the boy. Thomas Edward Lynch, on August 31. They also said she used profane language.

The boy identified in court a board as that used in the beating. It was about 1 foot long, 2 inches wide and one-quarter-inch thick.

The father was found guilty of disorderly conduct for his reported loud and profane remarks after his return from work when informed of Mrs. Quinn's attempts to intervene in the beating.

Boat Trip for YMCA Boys

Forty boys from the YMCA, 1732 G st. nw., will make a trip around Washington's water ways on the fire boat today, leaving the YMCA at 12:30 p. m. and returning at 4:45 p. m.

2 Conservationists Charged With Hunting Offense

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP).—Two Maryland conservation officials and 10 other men were charged in a criminal information filed in Federal Court here today with shooting mourning doves over a baited area near Davidsonville in Anne Arundel County.

The State officials accused are Lester N. Towner of Baltimore, a member of the Natural Resources Board, and A. Gordon Fleet of Edgewater, chairman of the Department of Game and Inland Fish.

The alleged violations occurred on September 1, the first day of Maryland's dove-shooting season. The charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in prison, a fine of $500, or both.

Also charged in the information are James H. Barrett, Reginald W. Barrett, David W. Bell, Wiley R. Bell and, John Moreland, all of Annapolis; Harold J. Dudley of Baltimore, John E. Lane of Linthicum, Carroll M. Martin of Hempstead, George L. Parks of Edgewater and Donald Stallings of Davidsonville.

Alexandria Dog Match Sunday

The Old Dominion Kennel Club will open its fall show program with an all-breed sanction match Sunday at 2 p. m. at Beech Tree Farm, in Falls Church. Classes are slated for both junior and adult handlers.

As an innovation, the club will have a committee of judges chosen entirely from professional dog handlers, according to Mark Taynton, chairman for the show. This, Tanyton said, will give beginners an opportunity to get expert opinion on the handling of their entries.

YMCA Council to Hold Fall Meeting Today

The YMCA Central Athletic Area Council, District II, will hold its fall meeting today from 11:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. in the Central Branch YMCA building, 1736 G st. nw.

Edward R. Tomb, executive secretary of the council, will speak on "One YMCA" at 1:45 p. m. A discussion on how each local association can plan services for military personnel will be held later in the afternoon. The Central Atlantic Area Council includes New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Washington and Puerto Rico.

Notice to Water Consumers IN THE Washington Suburban Sanitary District

THE RESTRICTIONS ON THE USE OF WATER FROM ITS SYSTEM AS SET FORTH IN THE COMMISSION'S NOTICE OF JULY 1, 1950, ARE REMOVED, EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 1, 1950.

The Commission desires to express its appreciation of the cooperation of the public generally in the conservation of water during the period of the restrictions. Because of this, there was always an ample amount of water for necessary domestic and commercial use and fire protection purposes.

Every effort is being made by the Commission to complete the next step in its program for augmenting the water supply of the Sanitary District and it appears at this time that it will not be obliged to impose the water restrictions next year.

WHITE BRICK WILLIAMSBURG
ON ABOUT 1½ ACRES

In a setting of towering beech trees and white dogwood, on a gentle knoll overlooking a wooded private park, it is located in nearby Arlington close to Bellevue Forest, near the extension of the George Washington Memorial Parkway and the Stratford Junior High School. This charming white brick house, built about 10 years ago, is just right for early American antiques. It contains center entrance hall, with attractive colonial stairway; living room (14x21) with interesting Early American paneled fireplace wall, with built-in bookshelves and wood box; French doors open onto a 12x14 screened porch; dining room (12x14) with colonial corner cupboards and glass door, opening on brick terrace with fireplace; paneled den (22x14), with adjoining ½ bath; equipped kitchen with door opening on lane deck porch. On the 2d floor 3 bedrooms, all accommodating twin beds, and tiled bath. Full basement with recreation area and fireplace. Maid's room and bath, built-in garage. Price $37,500.

Outstanding Character Home Adjacent to The Washington Golf and Country Club

5 Levels of Beauty

New White Brick Rambler on ½ Acre

This gracious home, planned for privacy, but also arranged for entertaining, is situated on a wide site of ½ acre with 111-ft. frontage. On the ton of a knoll, it is on one of the highest points in Country Club Hills and looks out over the surrounding area. From the distinctive doorway, one enters a gracious 8-ft. center hall. To the right is a beautiful sunken living room (15x25) with a height of more than 9 ft. To add to the grace of the room is an attractive beamed ceiling, interesting colonial fireplace and wide paneled glass doors, opening on 12x15 screened porch. The lovely dining room (14x15) has a 10-ft. picture window and exquisite paneled ceiling. 8 steps up from the entrance hall one enters a library (14x15) with most outstanding hand-painted paper and an exquisitely carved mantel. An abundance of bookshelves and a wide 9-ft. picture window lend atmosphere to the room. Just down the hall from the library is a master bedroom (15x19) with de luxe tiled bath. Several steps down from the library hall, on a lower level, is a 2nd master bedroom (13x19) with private bath; guest bedroom (14x15) and hall bath. On the 2 lower levels is a most attractive ground-level buffet club room (15x25) with private porch, large picture window and step-up bar. Maid's room and bath, laundry room and built-in 2-car garage. Features include heavy Vermont slate roof, dual Bryant gas heating system, 13 large closets, 2 large floored storage rooms and private stairway to midernly equipped large plastic-floored kitchen.

'Beauty After Forty'

'Charm' Is Not Confined to Any Age Group

(This is the last in a series of six articles from Mrs. McLeod's recent book, "Beauty After Forty," published by Garden City Press.)

By Edyth T. McLeod

CHAPTER SIX

Our American husbands have allowed their wives to become absolute dictators!

Men respond very quickly if they are made to feel important. However, women at or past 40 years of age are much more adept at bullying and dictating to their husbands. Perhaps we should call it matriarchial management.

They seem never to need their husbands for anything except money. They "let themselves go" and make no effort to create an atmosphere of gracious charm.

The men are at fault, too. If they refused to allow it the women would quickly change.

The average husband comes home and yells, "Mom, what's for dinner?" takes off his coat and shoes, glues his ear to the radio and his eyes to the paper, tries to devour both and digests neither.

If his wife would don a pretty housecoat and meet him at the door, looking as attractive as possible, the first time he would probably say, "What the devil's the idea?" But he would like it.

Remember, when he married you he evidently found you attractive. If you have been letting him down during the years, now is the time to make amends. He probably has his after-forty blues, too, and you can help him, as well as yourself, to new-found companionships.

If he has been guilty of "letting himself go" he'll perk up to match you. Since this is your life together, why not make the most of it?

The American husband is the most wonderful provider in the world, but he is often immature in his sex life and his conception of women—or at least wives!

He thinks that women, after 40, aren't interested in love. Little does he know of the charm that older women may possess. The mapority of women over 40 have allowed this attitude to force them out of the running. These women, with their efficiency, their careers and matriarchial manner, have helped to develop his immature attitude. So both sexes are at fault.

Just what are the sex problems of women in middle life? The desire for love and affection from the husband to whom you have been married for years, yes, if that has been a satisfying experience. But IF—this is a very big if—you feel that a little adventure in love is what you need, let's explore the consequences.

If you are in your forties, but still able to create in your own image, think before you choose a "lover" for sex adventures. From meetings and love trysts often comes the desire for forgetfulness and alcohol, and then the consequences are pregnancy, and disclosure to your husband, family and friends, to say nothing of loss of face and dignity. Before you embark upon any extra-martial affair, think long and hard. Excitement and sex and appeasement of vanity are the lures, but unhappiness the result.

If you are a wife and mother and find yourself no longer needed by your family, don't try to control them! Don't try to live the lives of your children. Loosen the bonds, let them go. If you do not, unhappiness will be the result.

Your children have the right to live their own lives and they will, regardless of you, so do not try to inject your authority. Don't give your opinions unless you are asked. But don't try to be too "young" with your children, either. It's wonderful to have a certain amount of comradeship, of listening with enthusiasm and understanding, but DON'T "go on parties" with your sons and daughters.

And DON'T, above all else, ever say, "My daughter and I are taken for sisters!" You do NOT look like the sister of your daughter. If you do, then either you have an immature appearance or your daughter looks too old for her age. Any daughter resents the "I look like my daughter" attitude.

A recent survey shows there are more than 26 million women over 40 in the United States. They have most of the wealth of the country, through inheritances, life insurance and the control of earnings of their husbands.

These women are an important age group, whether they are actively engaged in business, in home-making or in just leading pleasant, leisurely lives. This group should have a definite place in the American community.

Their's is the voice of experience, which could dominate civic planning and aid in many programs now needed to improve our national welfare.

Well-groomed, poised women of middle age have much to contribute to the running of social services, school activities, and youth groups.

When you step out into the busy world of accomplishment, you must look your best and feel your best. ANY woman can be attractive at ANY age. Any woman can achieve success at home or in a career, or both! She can have the fulfillment of happiness in middle life.

You get out of whatever you do exactly what you put into it!

McMillan Says He'll Propose D. C. Rent Control Extension

Representative John L. McMillian (D., S. C.), said yesterday he would introduce a bill, when Congress returns, to extend District rent controls beyond January 31, 1951.

McMillan heads the House District Committee. The present District Rent Act, separate from the national control law, goes off the books January 31 unless Congress extends it before then.

While he is prepared to file the District rent control extension bill when the House reconvenes in late November, McMillan made clear that his introduction of the measure will not necessarily mean action on it this year.

He said the question of what kind of a bill would be introduced and how soon it might be passed would depend on how serious the housing shortage is in Washington, and on what Congress does about the separate national rent control law.

He said he expected to confer with District Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell and with representatives of the real estate business before filing the bill.

TV Web Spreads Its Wings Today

NEW YORK (AP).—Network television, spreading as far west as Omaha and as far south as Jacksonville, Fla., is expanding into 16 more cities today (Saturday).

That makes a total of 80 stations in 49 cities which can be hooked together for the viewing of a presidential speech or similar national event when broadcast by all four TV chains.

First use of the extended circuit for a football game falls to Dumont this afternoon when Notre Dame meets North Carolina at South Bend, Ind. On Wednesday, the World Series will be telecast by NBC, ABC and CBS, together with three units owned by MBS affiliates.

The majority of the network additions are served by the Bell System's coaxial cable or microwave relay, with a couple of others by private relays. The basic extensions are from Chicago to Omaha, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and from Richmond, Va., to Jacksonville, Fla., and Birmingham, Ala.

Other TV cities to be hooked onto these circuits include Ames and Davenport, Iowa; Rock Island, Ill.; Greensboro and Charlotte, N. C., and Atlanta. Indianapolis and Louisville are the others being added. The new cities with their own relays to the nearest network point are Bloomington, Ind., and Nashville, Tenn.

Previously the basic network has comprised 28 cities with 54 stations, five others being served by private relays.

The Army-Navy football game, to be played December 2 at Philadelphia, is to go via NBC television for the sixth consecutive year. In view of the expanded facilities, it is expected to be seen by a larger audience than ever. The same sponsor (Gillette) also will cooperate . . . Alice Faye and Phil Harris return to their NBC spot Sunday night after 13 weeks' vacation, but under network auspices instead of a sponsor.

LOS ANGELES (AP).—Five present or former announcers who handled news broadcasts over KMPC testified here in defense of the station and owner G. A. Richards at an FCC hearing into charges of news slanting.

Howard M. Rhine, now program director for station KFAC, Los Angeles, testified the station owner's habit of calling "everybody who was on the air" was disturbing to the employes, adding:

"The usual reaction was one of annoyance at having their work interfered with. Mr. Richards' practice of seldom praising and invariably condemning was demoralizing."

The witness said, however, no one told him how to handle newscasts while he was at the station as an announcer but when he was program director Richards gave him his ideas on programming. Rhine said he then "did as I was told."

Howard Flynn, now chief announcer at KMPC, said that when he first started at the station in 1946, he handled many news broadcasts. He said the only instructions he received were to use items about former Vice President Henry Wallace because the political party he was connected with "was presumed by some to be subversive," and to use stories about Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Flynn said he was not given specific instructions to use unfavorable stories about Wallace or to use favorable stories about MacArthur but merely to use such stories about either of them as they came in on the press association teletypes.

The news slanting hearing is being held in connection with Richards' application for renewal of the licenses of his three stations, KMPC, Los Angeles; WJR, Detroit, and WGAR, Cleveland.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Dear Boss, Bill Is Ready For Another Vacation

For the past couple of weeks I've concluded each day's work with the promise that "tomorrow" I'd write an item about your comments regarding my vacation trip columns.

I kept putting it off because the letters kept coming in and I wanted to acknowledge all of them at once. But if I wait much longer, it'll be time for another vacation—so here goes:

With one exception, all the comments were favorable. Laverne E. Backer of 2008 Oglethorpe st., West Hyattsville, Md., wrote that, as a former resident of St. Louis, she thought my criticism of traffic conditions there were unwarranted,

But the St. Louis Star-Times, which has been campaigning for a traffic speed-up and fewer four-way stop signs, reprinted that column on its front page. So I guess there's something to be said on both sides of the issue.

The consensus seemed to be that many District Liners were raised in other parts of the country, and like to hear some occasional home-town gossip. Letters of that kind came from:

Virginia Robinson, 7505 Lynn dr., Chevy Chase, Md.; Alden Ryan, 910 Enderby dr., Alexandria, Va.; Ina M. Pumphrey, 4500 Maple ave., Bethesda, Md.; Errett Van Cleave, 4850 Bradley blvd., Chevy Chase, Md.; Jess Veihmeyer, 307 34th pl. ne.; Sol Taishoff, 4545 Linnean ave. nw.; Mrs. J. H. Kruger, 4014 71st ave., Landover Hills, Md.; Gordon McBride, 3323 Stuyvesant pl. nw.

Mrs. A. J. Fahey, 115 New York ave., Takoma Park, Md.; Mrs. J. L. Partello, 2705 Avena st., Silver Spring, Md.; Blanche E. Johnson, 1413 Girard st. nw.; Constance Steel; Lfilian J. Crews, 161 36th st. ne.; Mrs. Luella M. Moyer, 4211 8th st. nw.; John A. Fraser, 183 Close ave., Toronto, Ontario; Marion S. Roberts, 9921 Grayson ave., Silver Spring, Md.; Dorothy Thompson, 1208 Gallatin st. nw.

Mrs. E. A. Ehrlich, 1903 Dennis ave., Silver Spring, Md.; Mary K. Rickett, 802 S. Green st., Crawfordsville, Ind.; Mrs. Elmer J. Hill, 1700 N. Culpeper st., Arlington, Va.; Bernice M. Willey, Lanham, Md.; T. B. Hudson, 101 Holmes Run rd., Falls Church, Va.; John S. Collins, 2706 Webster st., Mount Rainier, Md.; Mrs. Inas Kackley, 930 West Virginia ave., Martinsburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Gertrude Brown, 2651 16th st. nw.

Maurice Moore, 829 51st st. ne.; Victoria Olivia Cox, 331 E. Burke st., Martinsburg, W. Va.; "Mrs. Mac," 1756 Lee blvd., Falls Church, Va.; F. Harold Babcock, 2100 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Fox-Thomas, 1404 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria, Va.; Blanche Berlin, 812 Randolph st. nw.; Mrs. Howard H. Martin, 433 E. Town st., Columbus, Ohio (say!—that mail edition of ours certainly gets around, doesn't it?).

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Haller, 4407 38th st. nw.; Mrs. Christopher C. Foley, 3200 16th st. nw.; Conrad Reid, 6703 Connecticut ave., Chevy Chase, Md., (who is on the way back to good health after a very long illness); Vivian M. Behenna, 5300 Emerson st., Hyattsville, Md.; Maj. Charles S. Coulter, 4212 37th st. nw. (who greeted me with: "You needn't have commuted from Hamilton to Toronto; the mayor of Toronto would have found a room for you—he's a friend of mine"); Manning Clagett of the Motion Picture Association, and WTOP's transplanted Hoosier newscaster, the popular Claude Mahoney.

I wish it were possible for me to send individual thank-you notes to each of these folks, and to the many who spoke to me personally and called up. And I wonder if they realize how much their encouragement means to a guy whose daily assignment is: Be entertaining.

Even the recipient of the letters, "Dear Boss," conceded that they were occasionally mildly interesting. But the comment that stopped me cold came from the first staff member I saw as I walked back into the city room.

"If I were the boss," he intoned, "I'd keep you out of town permanently." And the rascal won't explain what he meant.

KID STUFF

"What's that building?" asked 7-year-old Gail Trattner of 504 Vista dr., Falls Church, Va., as she passed the Senate Office Building.

"That's the office building for our Senators," came the reply. Gail pondered the matter momentarily, then mused:

"Golly. I didn't know baseball players needed such a big office building."

Navy Feuded With AF In Korea

By Drew Pearson

Army-Navy unification is now working pretty well in the Pentagon, but behind the fighting in Korea, the Navy and Air Force have revived the same feud that almost split unification wide open last year.

Adm. Ewen

Explosive notes have been exchanged between the admirals and generals, while Lieut. Gen. George Stratemeyer, Air Force chief in the Far East, has complained privately to General MacArthur against the Navy. Finally, Admiral Forrest Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, has stepped in with stern orders to Rear Admiral Ed Ewen in Korea to stop criticizing the Air Force.

The boys in the Pentagon are trying to shush up the squabble, but here is what happened.

Navy pilots teed off the argument by complaining to newsmen that carrier planes weren't getting a fair crack at Korean targets. They wanted more cracks at the enemy and blamed the Air Force, which has been directing the Korean air war.

While it is true that carrier pilots have been forced to wait for targets, the fact is that the skies over Korea have been so overcrowded with planes, that both Navy and Air Force pilots have had to stack up in the air waiting for assignments. Also it has been difficult to fit carrier pilots into the bombing pattern, because their floating carrier bases shift up and down the Korean coast.

This friction simmered quietly for a while. Then it hit the boiling point when the Navy leaked a story to the press that the Marines moved faster and suffered fewer casualties at Chinju, because their air support was better than the Army's. The truth was exactly the opposite. For Army units, fighting side by side with the Marines, had lighter casualties and actually had to wait for the Marines to catch up.

Other news stories debunked the Air Force's F-80 jet fighter, but uttered not a single unkind word against the Navy's Panther jet fighter—though both planes are almost identical.

Air Force Fires Back

Naturally these anti-Air Force stories got under the skin of Air Force Chief General Stratemeyer. He stormed in to see General MacArthur, protesting bitterly. MacArthur listened, seemed sympathetic, claimed to be "greatly disturbed."

Stratemeyer also fired a sharp note to Admiral Ewen, whose carrier pilots had been spreading most of the stories. Stratemeyer angrily asked Ewen why he didn't make his complaints through official channels instead of the press. Ewen wrote back coldly that he couldn't control the press nor the way his officers felt about how the Air Force was running things. Ewen admitted, however, that some of the news reports had been one-sided.

Still not satisfied, Stratemeyer sent another note to Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker, American commander in Korea, asking for his comments. Walker replied that the coordination between air and ground forces had been better than during World War II, but suggested that it could have been even more effective, though perhaps not practical, to have specific planes assigned to each ground division.

Meanwhile, reports of the Navy-Air Force bickering got back to Washington, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, efficient Air Force chief of staff, called a huddle with Admiral Sherman. For the sake of unification, they agreed to put a stop to the feuding. Admiral Sherman has now ordered Admiral Ewen to call off all Marine Corps and Navy pilot bickering.

Two Governors

What the Governor of South Carolina said to the Governor of North Carolina is now a legend of the South. No legend as yet, however, is what the Governor of South Carolina said to the Governor of Georgia when he called him up privately this week.

The Governor of South Carolina, No. 1 Dixiecrat Strom Thurmond, happens to be a cousin of the Governor of Georgia, Herman Talmadge. And the initial reason for calling him was to invite Talmadge to the Southern Governors' Conference at Fort Sumter in November, when Gep. Lucius Clay of Atlanta is scheduled to speak.

After issuing this invitation, Governor Thurmond asked: "How's everything down there?"

"Fine," replied Cousin Herman. "My farm's fine. But the niggers are trying to take over our schools down here."

He referred to the fact that Negroes have now brought court action under a Supreme Court ruling against segregation, and are trying to enter white grade schools.

"Most of the white people," added Governor Talmadge, "are oiling up their rifles and shotguns."

"Hell," replied Talmadge, "I am ready to spend 10 million dollars to fight this if I have to.

Note—The incident illustrates a situation little realized in the North, that racial feeling in Georgia has reached a high point as a result of the court action to abolish segregation in the Atlanta schools.
